P. Boothe.

PETER BOOTHE, for many years a faithful local minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and more recently a traveling preacher, died December 19, 1873. Brother Boothe was an earnest man. For the past few years he has complained of failing health; but his zeal for the saving of souls and upbuilding of Christ's Church was not lessened one whit by the infirmities of the flesh. He continued at his post until God relieved him of earthly duties, when he laid down the armor, and ceased from warfare, to receive the crown of victory and dwell in lasting peace. At our last session he was appointed to Harrodsburgh Circuit, Lexington District, and proceeding at once to his post he remained there until the close of life, a faithful watchman on the walls of Zion. His death was triumphant. He had to support him in his last hours the consciousness of a life well spent in the service of God.

J. L. Greenup.

JAMES L. GREENUP, a member of this conference, was summoned by the Master from his earthly toils and sufferings, and his place in the Church militant to his home in the Church triumphant. He was born January 29, 1805; realized the blessings of the new birth, and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1824. Being strong in faith, and filled with holy zeal, he commenced telling his neighbors and friends what great things the Lord had done for him, and inviting them to seek the same blessing. Two years after his conversion, having in the mean time been licensed to preach, he was admitted on trial in the Kentucky Conference. At the division of the Church in 1845 he took position, as did most of the then members of the conference, in the Southern Church; but the supposed cause of that division being removed as the result of the late war, eight years ago, he came back to the Church and conference of his choice, and, as far as the infirmities of age and affliction would permit, has shared with us the toils and privations of the itinerant ministry. Brother Greenup was a good man, a burning and shining light in the world. For forty-eight years he has traveled many of the largest and poorest circuits in the State, breaking to thousands the bread of life, receiving but little remuneration in the way of dollars and cents; but he looked forward to the recompense of the reward in the heavenly world which he has gone to enjoy. As might be expected, the death of this good man was gloriously triumphant. In his last moments all was peace and joy. No intervening cloud interrupted his view of his heavenly home. When his heart and his flesh failed, the strong arm of Jehovah sustained him. He had the blessed privilege of looking back on a well-spent life. Said he, "I am sixty-nine years old, fifty years of that time I have spent in the service of my Master. My work is done, my sky is clear. Tell all my friends when they get to the heavenly world they will see me there. All is peace." A few minutes before his death Brother Elliott said to him, "Father Greenup, you are almost gone; in this your dying hour, what are your prospects?" He said, "Yes, I am almost gone; but my hope is bright, and my way is clear." Thus this father in Israel passed from labor to reward February 13, 1874, leaving five children, most of whom are members of the Church, and his aged companion, who for forty years has shared with him his privations, hopes, and joys.

S. M. Small, Ebenezer Hayward—2.

1. SAMUEL M. SMALL was born in Maryland, a slave, about 1803. He was converted when twenty-four years of age, still in bondage. He was brought to New Orleans in 1836, and here, at hard labor, the greater portion of his life was spent. In 1850 he began to preach the Gospel under a permit given him by Rev. N. H. M'Tyeire, now one of the Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South. During the war he was taken over into Alabama, in order to keep him from the daylight of freedom, already beginning to dawn about New Orleans with the incoming of the Union Army. But no change of season or place could make any change in his mind. In Alabama also he zealously preached to his fellow-servants, and accomplished much for his Divine Master. When peace was restored and freedom was proclaimed throughout our country he returned to New Orleans, full of faith and the Holy Ghost, to enter more fully than ever on the work of saving souls. One year before the re-organization of our Conference in Louisiana he, with Rev. Hardy Ryan, in genuine Methodist itinerant fashion—on horseback, with Bible, Hymn book, Methodist Discipline, saddle-bags and all—went out, under the direction of Rev. Dr. Newman, as missionaries to the Freedmen. They proceeded up the coast as far as Baton Rouge, and many souls were converted through their efforts. At the "Christmas" Conference, organized by the sainted Bishop Thomson in 1865, Brother Small was admitted on trial and ordained a deacon. His first appointment was to Alexandria, and his duties in that place were well performed. In 1867 he was ordained elder, and the next year was sent to First-street Church, New Orleans. Baton Rouge was his next station. Here he labored diligently. But toward the close of the year it became evident that failing health and increasing infirmities would make it necessary for him soon to retire from the regular pastorate, so at the next Conference he was granted a superannuated relation. He removed to East Feliciana parish, and settled on the property of his brother. His humble home was near Mount Common Church, in East Feliciana Parish Circuit, and this at once became one of his most successful fields of labor. Always tenderly loving the little ones, he now organized a Sunday-school, which soon became one of the largest and best under our control. Many of the children were taught of the Lord, and not a few experienced the "great peace" of a devout faith. Thus the last years of his life proved both happy and useful. At last, October 12, 1873, when full seventy years old, surrounded by his brethren, his friends, and many of his fond Sunday-school scholars, he "fell on sleep." He died as he had lived, with strong faith in the redemption that is in Christ Jesus. His end was peace.

Brother Small was a man of low stature, but most active and energetic. His bearing was gentlemanly and dignified. He had great determination of purpose, and withal was a Christian in very deed. His doctrines were orthodox, clearly defined and firmly grasped. Having passed the greater portion of his life in slavery, of course his education was extremely limited. But, though late in life, he became an ardent student as soon as he had opportunity, and he soon became a most serviceable teacher of others. He maintained his habits of reading and study to the day of his death. He was eminently a good man and useful.

2. EBENEZER HAYWARD died July 3, 1873, after a long and tedious illness, aged fifty years. He was born in Maryland, and converted thirty-five years ago in Washington City. Twenty-five years ago he was brought to New Orleans, and at once united with the Old Methodist Church, of which he continued a strict member. His contributions aided to build Wesley Chapel, of which he was for many years a member. In 1852 he was removed by his owner to Bayou La Fourche, where he suffered many persecutions for Christ's sake. He was forbidden to pray; but in the midst of his cruel treatment he remained firm in faith. In 1854 his brother James was shot by the same owner for his devotion to Christ. He carries the scar of the wound to-day. In Wesley Chapel, New Orleans, Brother Hayward was licensed an exhorter. In 1866 he joined the Mississippi Mission Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, was ordained by Bishop Simpson, and sent to Natchitoches, La., and afterward to Alexandria, La., and Union Bethel and Simpson Chapel in New Orleans. Here he was enabled to preach but two months when his last sickness began. For four months he was confined to his bed. Most of the time during his last illness his mind was fixed on Christ and his hope was clear. His last hours were full of peace and joy. To his brother, the night before he died, he gave clear evidence of his acceptance with God. He said: "I am in Christ. They will ask, Is Ebenezer dead? Tell them no." The last word on his lips was heaven! His funeral was attended by a great throng of people in Wesley Chapel, New Orleans. He was a man of strength among us. It will be hard to fill his place.

F. Macartney, W. Harden—2.

1. FRANCIS MACARTNEY was born in 1803 in Maguire's Bridge, Fermanagh County, Ireland, and died October 7, 1873, in the seventy-first year of his age and the fiftieth of his itinerant ministry. He was converted in 1818, of which he wrote: "In the absence of all excitement I resolved to give my heart and life to Christ. I commenced fervent prayer to God, and on Monday evening obtained the testimony of the Holy Spirit of my acceptance. On that subject I have never had one moment's doubt." Through the instrumentality of the Rev. Henry Smith he was led to unite with the Baltimore Conference in the year 1823, within whose original boundary he spent the whole of his fifty years of active service. It is difficult to properly estimate the real value of this honored servant of God. Too modest to engage in competition, he was content to work where the Church pointed as the field of duty, and did his work for Christ's sake and the sake of perishing men. Genial and kind, with a generous hand he carried the light of an honest life wherever he went, and men loved him for the true nobility that marked him as a faithful servant of God. As a preacher Brother Macartney was practical rather than brilliant, a faithful and fearless expounder of the truth as it is in Jesus. Loving truth and hating error, he labored to know the mind of the Spirit, and trusted in God more than in man. When he found the truth, so earnestly did he hold it that it became a part of himself. Such a man could not fail in his Master's work, and through his ministry souls were given him as his seal and wages. In the pastoral work he was a master. To weep with the weepers and rejoice with the joyous was the natural promptings of his noble and unselfish nature. Tender and loving as a woman, he added to his gentleness the strength of a character pure as the snow and immovable as the mountains. To him came the sorrow-stricken and the children of misfortune for counsel and comfort, while the weary workers of earth drew inspiration from the brave life that never complained. Loving and beloved, tried and trusted, he was a man of God indeed, in whom was no guile.

But the end was coming. The fifty years were enough for toil, and eternity was nearing as the reward of the just. Let his own words tell his story as he reviewed it on his couch of death: "I cannot think of any thing God could do to promote my comfort or my safety that he has not already done, but to bestow upon me larger measures of Divine influence. Infinitely above all do I wish my friends to remember that my present consciousness of acceptance with God, and my hope of future and eternal blessedness, are based only on the atoning blood of the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world. Since my conversion the habitual language of my soul has been,

'Only Jesus will I know,
And Jesus crucified.'

This I expect to be my eternal theme of rejoicing."

Thus was he ending the weary march of life. God was very near, and when the summons came he fell asleep in Jesus, "a good man, and full of the Holy Ghost." Sweet had his work been to him, though he toiled long and hard. The sunset of the day was rapturously greeted as he gazed on the convoy sweeping through the golden gates of the west toward the waiting toiler as he answered their call with the shout of "Glory! glory! glory!" Nor did he have long to wait. As love lightens the burden, so it shortens the hours of toil or of waiting, and his eye grew brighter as he watched for his Lord's coming. Gently the shadows gathered round his home and couch, and while loved ones lingered near to minister to the dying man, he was "caught up" to the rest he longed for, in the presence of the Lamb who giveth light to the city whose inhabitants never die.

2. William Harden was born in Baltimore, Md., August 27, 1828, and died in his native city Sunday morning, November 9, 1873. He was the child of parents well known in their day for Christian usefulness. Converted in childhood, he connected himself with the Methodist Episcopal Church, August 7, 1845. Soon his thoughts were turned to the ministry. In 1847 he was licensed, first, an exhorter, then a local preacher. In the following year he entered the Baltimore Conference. At the division of the conference, in 1856, he became a member of the East Baltimore Conference. Upon the creation of the Central Pennsylvania Conference he became again a member of the Baltimore Conference. In 1869 he was transferred to the Central Pennsylvania Conference, where he remained until 1872, when he was re-transferred to the Baltimore Conference. His appointments were, in order: Newport, Boonesborough, Gettysburg, Frederick City, Lewisburgh, Va., East Baltimore, Caroline-street, Danville, Pa., Chambersburgh, Frederick District, East Baltimore, Pine-street, Williamsport, Pa., Emory, Baltimore City. In the last charge he ended his life and ministry. He was elected by the East Baltimore Conference a delegate to the General Conference of 1864 in Philadelphia. For successive years he was the secretary of the same conference.

Brother Harden was twice married. His first wife, a daughter of the venerable Dr. Henry Slicer, was early removed by death. In 1857 he was united to Miss Mary W. Moody, of Baltimore, who, with five children, survives him.

At the last session of this conference no member of this body gave promise of longer life and usefulness than William Harden. His massive, finely-developed and proportioned frame, whose vigor he conserved by remarkable temperance and regularity of habits, seemed to be proof against disease for years to come. Yet he, who would have been the last one selected as a probable victim of death in 1873, is not with us. In the strength of his manhood, when the Church had reason to look for extended service, he has fallen. "Verily every man at his best state is altogether vanity . . . his days are as a shadow that passeth away."

During the summer months of the last year incessant application to his work brought about a general prostration, and exposure and labors at the Emory Grove Camp-meeting, to which he was unequal, still further depressed his enfeebled vitality and prepared the way for the disease which terminated the life of our brother. A timely suspension of toil, and submission to medical treatment, might have averted the result which has irreparably bereaved his family and greatly afflicted the Church. But, either not appreciating the extent of his exhaustion, or constrained by a conscientiousness and zeal which, when duty seemed to call, thought last and least of self, or both, he continued to labor until he was left without strength to labor. Taking to his bed, the disease which had been so insidiously working itself through his system refused to yield to the treatment of his physicians, and after two weeks' confinement, on the blessed day "that saw the Lord arise," he went to be "forever with the Lord."

What is most important to say, if said at all, must be imperfectly said. Though no word were spoken, no line written upon paper, or carved upon stone, his character and life would be immortal—they have given birth to memories which can never perish. William Harden was a man of great moral worth. The qualities that make up true nobleness of nature conspicuously appeared in him, and they were real, not feigned. Indeed, there was nothing in him that was allied to duplicity or fraud. Honest, generous, unassuming, trustful, and trusty, making more of being right than of being popular, holding on to his convictions, yet ever open to reason and persuasion if he might be shown to be in the wrong, he deserved the confidence and love which he secured wherever he went.

As a Christian, Brother Harden illustrated simplicity, conscientiousness, and unblamableness of life. The Bible was with him the book of books, and he studied its pages, not merely to illuminate his understanding, but to bring his whole being under the power of its truths and into union with its spirit. He was a man of prayer; in his closet he met God face to face, and received those rich spiritual manifestations of which it was his delight to speak. He not only taught religion as a blessed experience for the heart, but he knew it to be such—an experience bringing the soul into the peace and abiding fellowship of God, inspiring joy in a present and assured salvation, and in hope of eternal life in heaven, inviting daily to new realizations of a Saviour's love and sanctifying grace. While traveling the Frederick District he makes this record: "July 7, 1865. This day I especially prayed to God that, in view of commencing my summer campaign of woods meetings to-morrow, he would give me a large baptism of the Holy Ghost. I feel that I am now the Lord's in a sense I never was before, fully consecrated to his service. O what peace I enjoy!" In closing his quarterly round he writes: "This has been a glorious quarter. My soul, since July 7, has enjoyed the rest of faith." It was often remarked among those most intimate with Brother Harden, that the last years of his life, probably dating from this 7th of July season of prayer and consecration, were distinguished for a spirituality and devotedness that had not marked his earlier years.

As a preacher, Brother Harden was clear and forcible, always instructive, at times producing marvelous effects by the power that attended his words. Well read in general literature and in Wesleyan theology, a thoughtful student of the Scriptures, endowed with more than ordinary strength of mind, careful in preparation, fluent and precise in expressing himself, of commanding presence in the pulpit, his preaching was acceptable and profitable to the congregations he served.

His ministry had abundant fruit in every appointment he filled. Few have been more successful in leading souls to Christ. Saving souls was, indeed, a passion with him. His enthusiasm in every kind of effort that looked to this is illustrated by the heroic words spoken just before his death to a brother minister. Describing the gracious revival of last Fall at

Emory, the labors of which helped to break him down, he said, "But I stuck to it till the last penitent was converted."

In the pastoral work this man was almost peerless. His superior probably could not be found in the Church. His diligence and its results are well-nigh incredible. He found out every one, knew every one, forgot no one, and seemed always to know what to say or do, however peculiar the case presented to him. The poor, the sick, and the sorrowing were his especial care.

As an administrator he was extraordinarily gifted. The minutest details of his work were familiar to him; nothing escaped his attention, nothing was hurried, done before time or after time; interests were not crowded upon each other, yet every matter was attended to.

The crowning excellence of William Harden, and that which explains his success, was, that he was a man of one work. His whole strength of body and mind was appropriated to his service of Christ and the Church in the ministry of the Gospel. All his time was given; nothing private or personal, relating to pleasure, pecuniary advantage, or even his family, led him to neglect or subordinate any interest of the Church. He literally sought first the kingdom of God. His greatly bereaved family is committed to the sympathy, the prayers, and the care of the Church which he had served so well.

To his brethren, whom he loved as he loved none others, he has left a life beautiful and grand, which they cannot study without receiving new inspiration for duty, and which in its motives and fidelity they cannot imitate without having their ministry elevated and ennobled.

May our record at the end be as fair as William Harden's!

Joshua Monroe, John M'Intire, John S. Lemmon, David Hess*—4.

1. JOSHUA MONROE, one of the fathers of the Pittsburgh Conference, was born in Alleghany County, Md., January 14, 1786, and died in Beaver, Pa., January 5, 1874, being nearly eighty-eight years of age. He was of Scotch descent. He had eight brothers, four of whom were Methodist preachers, and all of whom lived to a good old age.

He was admitted on trial in the Baltimore Conference in 1808, and graduated regularly to deacons and elders' orders. Asbury and M'Kendree were then the only bishops, and the members in society were only 151,995. He filled successively the following appointments: Rockingham Circuit, Randolph, Va., Erie, Pa., Hartford, Ohio, Redstone, Pa., Greenfield, Ohio Circuit, and Greenfield for the second time. In 1817 he located on account of ill health. In 1822 his name again appears in the Minutes for Chartiers Circuit, Pittsburgh District; in 1823 and 1824 he was presiding elder of Pittsburgh District. In 1824 the Pittsburgh Conference was organized out of parts of the Baltimore and Ohio Conferences. Father Monroe's appointments in the Pittsburgh Conference were the following: Steubenville, West Wheeling District, one year supernumerary, (1832,) Beaver and Brighton, Beaver, and Alleghany District, on which he continued three years, the name of the district being changed in 1835 to Beaver. In 1838 he was sent to New Lisbon, then to Sewickley, then Brighton, Beaver, Florence, Wellsborough and Franklin, Butler, Beaver District, again. In 1852 he was placed on the superannuated list, where he continued till his death, about twenty-two years.

As a preacher, Brother Monroe was of fair medium abilities—sound in doctrine, sober in judgment, concise and industrious in the application of the truth, dealing honestly and faithfully with his hearers and parishioners. In his hortatory efforts he was often exceedingly forcible and impressive. His prayers were appropriate, solemn, and fervent. As an administrator of discipline he was careful, prudent, and strict. In his intercourse with families his gravity and decorum were tempered with cheerfulness and quiet pleasantry. He carried his piety with him wherever he went. He was extremely regular and temperate in his habits, very conscientious and devout. His Christian character was held in high estimation by all who knew him, and highest by those who knew him best. He was a promoter of all good works and enterprises. He was zealous in the cause of temperance and of education, and, according to his means, he was a very liberal contributor to benevolent causes. The Beaver College and Musical institute owes much to Father Monroe. He was an active worker among the founders of that institution; was for many years president of the Board of Trustees, and his

the Board of Trustees, and his interest for the welfare of the college continued to the last.

In his later years, though his eyes had become dim and his ear dull, he retained in a wonderful manner the vigor of his mental faculties. As long as he was able to meet with the Church his prayers and exhortations were always exceedingly appropriate and edifying. He declined gradually to the valley of death, and at last fell asleep, to awaken at the resurrection of the just. By his death is severed another of the few links that have connected us with the past generation of Methodist preachers, and with the old Mother Conference of Baltimore and Ohio.

2. JOHN M'INTIRE was born in Westmoreland County, Pa., March 9, 1829, and born again in the fall of 1844. His conversion was clear and satisfactory; the fruits of his life such as the Bible describes, and such as adorn Christian character. He loved the means of grace, and punctually attended upon them all. Believing that a dispensation of the Gospel was committed unto him, he, in due time, was found among the message-bearers of heaven. His first field was Blacklick Circuit, where he traveled as a supply in 1855. He was admitted into the Pittsburgh Conference in 1856, and appointed successively to Blairsville Circuit, Redstone and Connellsville Circuit, Fayette Circuit, Bridgeport (Pa.) Station, Addison Circuit, and Carmichael's Circuit. In 1865 he took a superannuated relation, but in the year following was made effective and sent to Waynesburgh, Pa., thence to Beallsville Circuit, and afterward to Dravo and Greenock, his last charge. In September, 1872, his feeble health gave way, and thenceforward he was confined to his room, mostly to his bed, till Sunday morning, September 7, 1873, when he sweetly fell asleep in Jesus.

During our brother's long sickness his hope was full and glorious. His enjoyments were of a high order, often, indeed, full of ecstacy. He feasted on the precious words of inspiration. The twenty-third Psalm was marrow and fatness to his soul.

Brother M'Intire was a successful minister of the Lord Jesus, eminently devotional, a man of much prayer, a close student, especially of the Bible. It was his daily companion. His rule was to rise early, and spend an hour in reading the Bible and in prayer. His preparations for the pulpit were thorough, bringing into the sanctuary beaten oil. He fought a good fight, he kept the faith.

"O may I triumph so,
When all my warfare's past;
And, dying, find my latest foe
Under my feet at last!"

3. JOHN S. LEMMON was born in Fayette County, Pa., January 17, 1830. At the age of twenty he was converted, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. Five years later he was licensed to exhort, and in April, 1856, to preach. During several years following his conversion he devoted himself to preparation for the ministry, and spent several years in arduous labor and study at Mount Union College, graduating with honor in 1860. He was admitted on trial in the Pittsburgh Conference in the same year, and appointed to Enon Valley Circuit. In 1861–62 he was appointed to Marchand Circuit. While here he was united in marriage, June 25, 1861, to Miss Hattie M. Miller, of Ligonier, Pa. In 1863 he served Ebensburgh Circuit. In 1864 he became chaplain in the Army, and at the close of the war was employed on Burrell and Apollo Circuit, where he remained during 1866–67. At the Conference of 1868 he was appointed to Wesley Chapel, Pittsburgh, where he spent three years of acceptable service. He was next sent to Barnesville in 1871, where he continued in charge until the close of his life, which occurred February 13, 1874.

As a preacher Brother Lemmon was possessed of more than ordinary ability. There was a striking originality of style and of thought in his sermons which rendered them always interesting and instructive. In reading, studying, visiting his people, and attending to his public duties all his time was occupied. His manners, though quite eccentric, were interesting and pleasant. The qualities of his heart endeared him to all who knew him. Humility, simplicity, purity, and integrity were prominent traits. He never indulged in idle talk or questionable anecdote. It is scarcely possible to be more eminently a man of clean lips and pure conversation. He seemed incapable of dissimulation—"an Israelite indeed, in whom there was no guile." A fearless champion for the right, he was an unsparing opponent of error and evil-doing.

During the last years of his life, notwithstanding the failure of his health, he labored with his usual diligence, though in great weakness. Even when he could scarcely endure the fatigue, he never absented himself from the Sunday-school and prayer-meeting. He doubtless shortened his life by persistent fidelity to the demands of his work. His last sermon was preached from the text, "The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death." His end was full of peace and holy confidence. His people, by whom he was greatly beloved, buried him with every possible mark of respect and affection. His wife and two children survive to mourn over his departure.

L. R. Roberts, J. M. Moore, M. D., Othello Richards—3.

1. L. R. ROBERTS, a young man and son of Bishop Roberts, fell at his post, at Robertsport, G. C. M., August, 1873, in the twenty-sixth year of his age. His advantages for an early education had been considerable, and he proved himself worthy of them, and the hope had been entertained by his friends that a long life of usefulness and efficiency would have been spared him; but, alas! Divine Wisdom has ordered otherwise. His place is vacant. He is not, for God has taken him.

2. J. M. MOORE, who had long suffered from an hereditary chronic affliction, took his last, long farewell of us in November, 1873. His career had been an eventful one, both in this country and in America. As an expounder of God's word, Dr. Moore ranked among the star preachers in Liberia. His pulpit efforts always afforded satisfaction to his hearers. His graphic illustrations, his vivid imagery, were truly peculiar and rare, and seldom failed to impress his hearers. As a citizen, he showed himself useful and efficient, has served the country respectively as Judge of the Court of Quarter Sessions and Common Pleas, Attorney-General, and District Attorney with great efficiency and satisfaction. As a householder he was provident. But he now rests from his labors. O the depth of the riches of God! Who can fathom it? He leaves a widow to mourn his loss. We commend her to the watchcare of a covenant-keeping God, and to the Church in whose behalf her husband labored so earnestly and so zealously.

OTHELLO RICHARDS, like a ripe shock of corn, fell last year in the month of December, at the advanced age of seventy-six years. He emigrated to this country about twenty-two years ago, and shortly after joined this Conference. In this connection he labored with great zeal and earnestness to the measure of his capacity. As a Christian, Father Richards ranked among the most pious of the Church, and leaves behind him an unblemished character. As a pulpit laborer, he was very acceptable; as a citizen, a zealous contributor to the agricultural character of Liberia. His zeal commends itself to us and to all as worthy of emulation.

Christopher J. Crouch.

CHRISTOPHER J. CROUCH was born of Methodist parents, in Cecil County, Md., January 1, 1811, and departed this life in Philadelphia, February 4, 1874, in the sixty-fourth year of his age.

Reared from infancy under religious influences, he very early in life became the subject of deep religious impressions. At about eighteen years of age he was happily converted to God. In 1831 he was licensed to exhort; in 1833 he was received on trial in the Philadelphia Conference, and received his first appointment to Caroline Circuit. He was subsequently appointed successively to Queen Anne Circuit, North East, West Nottingham, Fairmount Mission, Mauch Chunk, Doylestown, Radnor, Easton, Pa., Frankford, Milestown, Cecil, Bustleton, Phœnixville, Summerfield, Newtown, and Chester Circuit. At the close of his second year at Chester he asked and was granted a supernumerary relation. At the next Conference he was appointed to Calvary; but again, at the close of the first year, he felt constrained to take a supernumerary relation. One year in this relation and he was appointed Post-Chaplain in the United States Army, where he served for two years. Returning from the army he was appointed, first to Merion Square, and then to Morrisville. In the spring of 1868 failing health led him again to ask a supernumerary relation, which from that time he held until the day of his death. For more than a year Brother Crouch's health had been declining, but nothing fatal was apprehended in his symptoms until the 31st of October last, when he was compelled, by a slight stroke of nervous paralysis, to take his bed. It soon became apparent that God had called him. Realizing some two weeks before his decease that his end was approaching, he sent for the pastor of St. George's to administer the sacrament of the Lord's Supper to him. When the solemn supper was ended he turned to his wife and said, "Now I am all ready." From that time he seemed only to be waiting for the coming of his Lord. Only a few hours before his death, appearing unusually restless, his wife inquired, "What do you want?" "Jesus! Jesus!" said he, and said no more. With that precious name upon his lips he ceased to speak. The weary hours rolled on, but he heeded them not; loved forms were by his side, but he saw them not. With senses closed to earthly objects he was watching and listening for chariot wheels, and at 11 o'clock at night the pale, swift horses swept by, and "he was not, for God took him."

Socially Brother Crouch had few equals. Dignified in his demeanor, there was at the same time a suavity in his conversation and a refinement in his manners which made him exceedingly companionable, and won for him a host of friends. As a Christian, his creed was orthodox, his faith simple and childlike, and his life upright and exemplary. As a preacher, he had talents beyond mediocrity. Gifted with a commanding presence and a full, clear voice, he added to these natural endowments a well-trained mind and an easy, graceful manner. His sermons were both doctrinal and practical, usually well arranged and clearly wrought out, and always scriptural.

1. ROBERT BURNS SUTCLIFFE was born in Yorkshire, England, 1815. In 1835 he came to America, and settled in Trenton, N. J.; in 1838 he removed to Tom's River, and engaged in the work of teaching; in 1840 he married Miss Anna Irons, of Tom's River. While here he served the Church as a local preacher. In 1851 he was employed by the presiding elder as a supply on Bargaintown Circuit; in 1854 he was admitted on trial in the New Jersey Annual Conference. His appointments were as follows: Peapack, South River, Englishtown, Titusville, Palmyra, Columbus, Clarksburgh, Lower Cape May, Warren-st., Trenton, Squan Village, Jacksonville, West Creek, and Vincentown, at which place he ceased to labor and to live. He leaves a widow and two helpless children to the care of the Church.

The character of Brother Sutcliffe was above reproach during a ministry of more than twenty years. As a Christian, his testimony was clear and positive. As a preacher, his sermons were well-digested and thoroughly Wesleyan in doctrine. At his last field of labor he was eminently successful, and many were persuaded of the truth as it is in Christ. Death came to him in the midst of his labors. He had been ill for several days, and suddenly fell from his chair and expired on the 18th of February, 1874.

> In condescending love,
> Thy ceaseless prayers he heard;
> And bade thee suddenly remove
> To thy complete reward.

2. DANIEL S. ADAMS was born in Unionville, N. J., in 1828. He was early led to the Saviour. His helps to mental culture were very limited, yet his habits were so studious that he acquired a good English education, and soon he longed to preach the precious Gospel. Feeling the need of further helps, in 1852 he entered Charlotteville Seminary, being then in his twenty-fourth year. Here he made rapid progress, and while diligent in study was fervent in spirit. He was licensed as an exhorter in 1853, and sent to Medford Circuit as a supply. The next spring he was received on trial by the New Jersey Conference, and returned to Medford. His after fields of labor were: Freehold, Cranberry, Allentown, Cape Island, Cedarville, Carpenter's Landing, now Mantua, Columbus, May's Landing. A kind heart and a sweet spirit, coupled with an ever-present desire to do good, made him a welcome and useful pastor. His sermons were carefully prepared, instructive, and profitable. His ministry was largely owned of the Lord. At Carpenter's Landing and Columbus extensive revivals occurred. Numbers were also converted on his various charges.

In October of the second year, at May's Landing, his health so far gave way that he was compelled to cease preaching. He did not leave till the next spring, when he became supernumerary, and went to Philadelphia to be medically treated, with the hope of being restored to the pulpit. In this he was disappointed, and removed to Cranberry, N. J., where he spent some two and a half years. Disease made slow, but sure progress. He spent only eight entire days in bed, yet he became so extremely weak as to be able to speak but little, and that in a low whisper. His dying testimony, though feeble, was emphatic. His stricken companion asked, "Is Jesus precious?" "O yes," was the whispered but earnest reply. Another asked, "How do you feel about leaving your loved ones?" "I am calm, peaceful, and resigned," was the feeble but firm response. On May 21, 1873, he passed to his reward.

A widow, son, and two daughters are left to the prayers, sympathies, and care of the Church he loved so well and served so faithfully. Appropriate funeral services were conducted in the Church at Cranberry. His remains were conveyed to Hightstown, where they await the call of Him who hath said, "All that are in the graves shall hear his voice, and shall come forth; they that have done good, unto the resurrection of life."

3. ROBERT E. MORRISON was born in Lancaster County, Pa., October 19, 1800. When seventeen years of age he united with the Presbyterian Church. After professing religion for eight years he discovered that he had no saving faith in Jesus, and became deeply interested in his spiritual condition. He earnestly sought a knowledge of salvation by faith. A desire for a clear evidence of his acceptance with God became most intense, and because the object of his desire was not immediately realized, despair, like a dark cloud, settled down upon him, and he was rapidly yielding to the awful temptation that he was a reprobate. After a few weeks' conflict deliverance came, and joy filled his soul. He soon after united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was employed in the work of the ministry by the presiding elder for three years, in which time he prepared himself, as best he could, to enter the Annual Conference and take regular work whenever the door should open. In 1833 he was received into the Philadelphia Conference, and appointed to Chester Circuit, Pa., where he labored very acceptably for two years; in 1835 he was appointed to Tuckerton Circuit, N. J. The necessities of the case requiring it, he was removed and appointed to Haddonfield. In 1836–7 he traveled Swedesborough Cir. Here great success crowned his efforts. In 1838–9 he labored in Pemberton; 1840–1, in Long Branch; 1842–3, Pennington; 1844–5, Allentown; 1846, Crosswicks. Here his vocal organs failed him, and he was compelled to step out of the effective ranks and ask for a supernumerary relation. No less than six young men whom he had led to Christ are now in the ministry. Being studious, he acquired a large store of knowledge, and became a good thinker; and though he was not a graduate of any literary institution, he read Latin, Greek, and Hebrew, and was quite at home in Mathematics. He was also an able theologian.

In 1846 he located at Hightstown, and became an active business man. For a number of years he was President of Hightstown Bank. For about two years and six months before his death he had been afflicted with a gradual or creeping paralysis. For the last twelve months of his life he was almost entirely helpless and speechless, occasionally uttering a word. Thus he continued until three days before his death. A daughter said to him, "I think you will be better again." He replied, "I do not desire it."

He was born on the 19th day of October; he was married on that day; he found peace in Jesus and a hope of heaven on that day; he was received into full fellowship with the Church on that day, and on that day, 1873, he was looking for the chariot of the Lord to take him in and carry him to the palace of angels and God. But his anticipations were sooner realized. The heavenly train came fifty days before the time. On August 30 his redeemed spirit stepped into the waiting chariot, and rode in triumph to the skies, to join the happy and glorified millions.

Josiah Forrest, Ephraim C. Stewart—2.

1. JOSIAH FORREST was born in Anne Arundel County, Md., October, 1797, and died in Zanesville, Ohio, April 18, 1873, aged seventy-five. His father was a local preacher and a devout Christian. He early "fled from the wrath to come." In fear and doubt, when nine years old, he joined the Church as a "seeker." But before long, at the family altar, while his pious father was leading the devotions, he received the clear evidence of his sonship by the witness of the Spirit. Soon the impression was fixed on his mind that God had work for him to do in the ministry; but from this high calling his sensitive nature shrank. To satisfy his conscience he accepted first a license to exhort in 1825. But it became evident that God had a wider field for his labors, and when clearly convinced of his duty he sought to sink his will in the will of his Master. Accordingly, he was received into the Baltimore Conference in 1828, and appointed to Bedford Circuit. His after appointments were: Northumberland, Sunbury, Lewistown, Northumberland, 2d time, Bellefonte, Hollidaysburgh, Williamsburgh, Alleghany, Gettysburgh, Finn Castle, East Rockingham, Green Castle, and Shippensburgh. This was in 1849. At the ensuing Conference session his health had so far given way that he was compelled to take a supernumerary relation. To his ardent temperament this was a sore trial, but grace sustained him as well in the rear as in the front of the battle. It is worthy of mention that in a great revival during Brother Forrest's ministry in Gettysburgh, in 1841, many were converted. Among them were three young men who are now the most prominent officials there, without whose aid the new church could not have been built. Thus did his works follow him. In 1858 he was appointed to North Branch and Will's Creek Circuit, then to Westernport, Boonsborough, Orangeville, Janesville, Elysburgh, and Millroy. In 1869 he was forced to become a superannuate. This was, perhaps, the sorest trial of his life; but God comforted him. With the companion of his bosom he now sought rest for his declining years in the home of his only daughter, the wife of Dr. Beckwith, of Zanesville, Ohio.

As a preacher he was warm, earnest, and persuasive. His success in winning souls to Christ was indeed wonderful, and justly entitled him to rank with the foremost evangelists of his day. His manner was affectionate and winning; his life, saintly. His experience of divine things was deep, and often joyous. "My sufferings are very great," said he when death approached, "but what are they when compared with the sufferings Christ bore for me?" And again, "My salvation is near; halleluiah!" His zeal for souls was strong, even in his last moments. When ready to depart, he sent a message to an unconverted acquaintance to meet him in heaven. The last words that fell from the lips of this dying saint were, "Glory! glory!" and Josiah Forrest was with the glorified in heaven.

2. EPHRAIM C. STEWART was the son of Thomas and Elizabeth Stewart, of Tuscarora Valley, Juniata County, Pa. He was born January 17, 1833, and died March 8, 1873, at the age of forty years. His boyhood was spent in the monotonous routine of farm-life. To an ordinary common school education was added a tolerably thorough drill at Airy View Academy, Port Royal, Pa. After some experience in teaching he directed his attention to the study of law, and was soon admitted to practice in the several courts of Juniata County. While holding the position of United States Revenue Assessor he became ensnared in the dissipation of a corrupt political life. His affections, judgment, and will violently protested against the course, and suggested that the only remedy was a flight to the cross. In the spring of 1870 he commenced teaching in the Soldiers' Orphan School at Cassville, Huntingdon County, Pa. At a revival meeting in January, 1871, under the charge of Rev. A. W. Decker, he was thoroughly aroused to a sense of sin and the necessity of an Omnipotent Saviour. Penitence, prostration, confession, and faith in the atoning blood quickly succeeded each other, and the "new creature" was formed. He immediately united with the Methodist Episcopal Church on probation, and in due time was admitted into full fellowship. Having been for years impressed with the conviction, "Woe is me if I preach not the Gospel," he was licensed to preach, and sent by the presiding elder of Juniata District to Greenville, Mifflin County, said charge being vacant. His labors were highly appreciated and honored of God in the salvation of souls. At the Conference held in Lock Haven in 1872 he was received on trial in the traveling connection, and assigned to Saxton Circuit as assistant preacher. He continued in the work until midsummer, when, under the power of that insidious disease, consumption, he quit his circuit and returned to the home of his parents, where he lingered until March 8, 1873, and died in the peace and assurance of the Master's promise, "If I go away, I will come again and receive you unto myself."

Such is the brief and imperfect story of Brother E. C. Stewart. To the majority of us he was a stranger. Attracted toward this body by the unconquerable love of Jesus Christ, he was anxious to share with us the trials of the ministry that he might join the brotherhood of the kingdom and sit down upon the throne. Judging from his cast of mind, his experience in public speaking, his devotion to books and saving men, we had predicted for him a brilliant career; but "Death loves a shining mark," and if God chooses to gather his servants home while it is yet morning, what do we to inquire, "What doest thou, Lord?" seeing the vineyard and workmen and day are altogether his.

Stacy W. Hilliard.

STACY WATKINSON HILLIARD was born November 14, 1823, near Vincentown, Burlington County, N. J. His parents were on the one side of Quaker, and on the other of Methodist extraction, his mother being the daughter of Stacy Watkinson, a local preacher connected with the society at Pemberton. He was the subject of religious impressions from his early childhood. During a revival of religion which occurred at Pemberton in the latter part of 1842, under the labors of the Rev. Thomas M'Carroll, he gave his heart to Christ, and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church.

He was fond of books and study, but his educational advantages had hitherto been small. Thirsting for knowledge, he became, in December, 1843, a student of Pennington Seminary, where he remained till the spring of 1845, pursuing the study of mathematics, natural science, and the languages. He was early recognized as one whom God had called to the work of the ministry, and in December, 1844, was licensed as an exhorter by the Church of Pennington. In the succeeding March he was licensed as a local preacher, and at the next Quarterly Conference was recommended as a suitable person to be admitted into the traveling connection. In May, 1845, being then in his twenty-second year, he began his itinerant ministry under the authority of Rev. Isaac Winner, the presiding elder of Trenton District. His first field of labor was Allentown Circuit, of which the Rev. Robert E. Morrison was then preacher in charge. At the next session of the New Jersey Conference he was admitted on trial, and stationed at Kingwood. His appointments during the twenty-nine years of his ministry were as follows: Allentown Circuit, Kingwood, Somerville, Acquackanonck, Stanhope, Middlesex Miss., Belvidere, Orange, Plainfield, Dover, Newton District, Elizabeth District, Bloomfield, Perth Amboy. In all these places he labored faithfully, acceptably, and with success.

In September, 1848, he was united in marriage with Miss Matilda Johnson, daughter of Charles C. Johnson, Esq., of Hightstown, of whom it is but just to say that she was a worthy help to her husband, in all the relations of his ministry, through the almost twenty five years of their married life.

Brother Hilliard's death was sudden and unexpected. His general health had been good, amply sustaining him in the active labors of his ministry at Perth Amboy until within a few days of his death. On the Sabbath morning preceding his departure he found himself unable to proceed in his usual manner, and was compelled to abbreviate the service, and at the close left the pulpit never more to enter it. During the succeeding week he was feeble, his whole appearance and manner indicating the rapid failure of the vital forces, and yet there was no apparent cause for immediate apprehension. He was cheerful, full of plans for the good of his charge, and was sometimes overheard engaged in prayer for the salvation of souls. Another Sabbath approached; he seemed to be growing weaker, and yet there appeared to be no special occasion for alarm. On Saturday evening he sunk into what was thought a peaceful, refreshing sleep. Those who were watching near at hand came to look upon him from time to time, but detected nothing unusual till about two o'clock the next morning, when it was discovered that he had ceased to breathe. Thus on Sunday morning, August 31, 1873, our beloved brother, without a parting word, a sigh, or a motion, passed from earthly shadows into the light of the eternal Sabbath.

Brother Hilliard was in more than one respect a man of mark. As a minister of Christ he was faithful, laborious, and useful, prudent in speech, wise in counsel, upright and consistent in action. In the pulpit he was solid and scriptural in matter, and grave, earnest, and kind in manner, never forgetting the dignity of the office to which he was called, yet discharging its sacred duties in the very spirit of the Gospel. His themes were always weighty, and his modes of treating them showed that he was anxious, not so much to please the fancy of his auditors, as to reach their hearts, and win them to Christ.

As a Christian, his piety was deep and uniform, his conversation pure, and his conduct, public and private, in full harmony with the professions which he made. As a man, he was strong in his attachments, large-hearted in his dealings with his brethren and all around him, always striving to be just, always candid and honorable, always worthy of confidence, never betraying a trust even by negligence. In intellect he was an active, strong thinker, never busy about trifles, but always considering and conversing of matters more or less important. He watched closely the current of public events, and was usually well informed in regard to the great movements of the times, both in Church and State. He was, indeed, a model Christian citizen; intelligent, watchful, fearless in his loyalty to God and the right. During the late civil war he was unwearied in his advocacy of the preservation of our national unity, and yet never, by needless violence of language or manner, provoked needless personal hostility. These same principles of patriotism and right made him, from his youth, an ardent advocate of the cause of temperance, ready at all times with heart and hand, voice and counsel, to aid in the war against the worst foe which the cause of Christ has on the American continent, if not in the world.

Brother Hilliard's intelligence, judgment, integrity, and general ability were early recognized by his brethren. Twice he was placed in the presiding eldership, in each instance completing his full term. He was one of the delegates of this Conference to the General Conference at the sessions of 1864 and 1872. He was elected a Trustee of the Conference Seminary, was for years one of the Conference stewards, and at any time, when a committee was needed for the adjustment of important business, in the settlement of difficult questions, his name was generally among the first brought forward.

R. P. Duvall.

Richard Peach Duvall died February 7, 1874, in Ottawa, Ohio. He was born in Zanesville, Ohio, April, 1829. His parents moved to Logan County when he was quite young, where he grew to manhood. He was converted in 1851, was licensed to exhort in the same year, and to preach in 1853. In order to qualify himself more fully for the successful accomplishment of the work of the ministry, he became a student in the Ohio Wesleyan University. While here he was favored with the godly example and pious instruction of the sainted Thomson. After remaining at college for a year he was employed as a supply on the Vanwert and Delphos Circuit. During this year two hundred persons were added to the Church. At the following session of North Ohio Conference he was admitted on trial. He was appointed first to Shannon Circuit, and then to Adrian. In 1855 he moved to Kansas. He was present in Lawrence when Bishop Baker organized the Kansas and Nebraska Conference, in a cloth tent, guarded by soldiers, on account of "border ruffian troubles." He was duly admitted, and ordained deacon, being the first man to receive orders in the Methodist Episcopal Church on Kansas soil. He was appointed to the Oskaloosa Circuit. At the close of the year he was united in marriage to Miss Sarah C. Black, of Kalida, Ohio. His subsequent stations were: Quindaro and Wyandotte, Olathe, Spring Hill, Sac and Fox Agency, Chaplain in the Union Army, (1863–1865,) Superintendent of the Sac and Fox Indian Mission-school, Centropolis, Manhattan, and Holton. Having an earnest desire to extend his sphere of usefulness, by permission of his conference, he attended the Garrett Biblical Institute in 1871. While attending his theological studies he preached almost every Sabbath in neighborhoods adjacent to the Institution. In October of 1871 he took charge of Port Clinton Circuit, Central Ohio Conference; the following year he ministered to the Church in Weston. But his health was gradually failing, and in January, 1873, he was compelled to give up his charge. He moved to Ottawa, Ohio, where he remained until the Master called him unto himself.

He was a true friend, an affectionate husband, a devoted Christian, a faithful pastor, a good preacher. His experience in the things of God was clear and bright. Rev. H. S. Bradley writes concerning him: "He died the most triumphant death I ever witnessed; his life was a true index of his death. During the last thirty-six hours of his life he said he was on the immortal shore —save a little." A few days before his death he wrote these words, and wished them presented to the Kansas Conference: "The enjoyment of entire sanctification is in the knowledge of God's full acceptance by faith of the soul's entire cleansing in the blood of the Lamb; in this I rest, and am filled with the glory." What more need be said?

Robert Tarleton, Thomas Ellis, William F. Gould—3.

1. ROBERT TARLETON. In reference to the early life of Rev. Robert Tarleton we quote the language of his father, (in a letter written since the death of his son.) "Robert was our eldest son and child; he was born in the city of Dublin October 28, 1836. When barely a month old he was taken with convulsions, which continued for a week, and which told greatly against him, physically, in after-life. He was at least seven years old ere he could walk without support; but he could and did think, and his aptitude for learning was great. In the Sabbath-school he took the highest premiums for best answering on every subject considered. When about fourteen years of age I sent him to a Wesleyan normal school in this city, (Dublin.)

"That God had given him talent and mental gifts was plain to all who knew him. Many young men who passed creditably through Trinity College were not a little indebted to him. His tutor, Rev. I. M'Nally, of the Irish Episcopal Church, stated to me in strong terms his opinion of Robert's ability. He was very anxious that my son should be ordained in the Irish Church, but Robert loved Methodism too well." During a watch-night service Robert earnestly sought, and happily found, the Saviour. This event created a new era in his life, inspiring new thoughts, and opening up before his mind new fields of usefulness. He was engaged at the time in his studies, and, after a suitable preparatory course, he entered Trinity College, Dublin, where he remained two years and a half, when he left the institution as an under-graduate. Soon after this he left his native land to make this country his home. He arrived in the city of New York in June, 1865, and though an entire stranger, yet he soon found a home and friends in the Twenty-fourth-street Methodist Episcopal Church, with which he united by letter. Here he engaged at once in an active religious life, taking a class in the Sabbath-school, and an active part in all the social meetings. He was punctual in his attendance at the class and prayer meetings, and his exercises were of such a nature as to convince all who heard him that his mind was cast in no ordinary mold.

In 1866 the quarterly conference gave him a local preacher's license. A few months later Jay Cooke, Esq., having applied to Bishop Janes for a preacher to labor among the families employed in the iron furnaces on the Southfield Circuit, young Tarleton was selected for the place, and thus commenced his work as an itinerant under the presiding elder, as junior preacher with Rev. W. H. Smith. In the spring of 1867 he was admitted on trial in the New York Annual Conference, and stationed at Hyde Park. In 1868 he was sent to Monticello, where he was re-appointed in 1869 and in 1870. In May, 1868, he was united in holy matrimony to Miss Maggie E. White, of Paterson, New Jersey. At the Conference of 1869 he was admitted into full membership, and ordained deacon and elder two years later.

In 1871 he was appointed to Riverdale. While here he was much afflicted with chills and fever, but continued to prosecute his work to the close of the year. In 1872 he was sent to Cairo, with the hope that the bracing mountain air of that region would prove beneficial to his health. For awhile his health did improve, but soon other and more serious forms of disease began to develop. Yet he continued at his work, laboring hard, preaching three times on the Sabbath, and overseeing with great zeal and energy the building of a new church three miles from his home. After many struggles he was compelled at last to desist, and, by the advice of two physicians, went to New York for medical treatment.

In great pain of body and anxiety of mind he reached the parsonage of Rev. F. Bottome, and stated to him his case. In Brother Bottome he truly found a friend in need and a friend indeed. A private room was soon obtained for him in the new Presbyterian Hospital, and the best of medical attendance was provided, and the means to meet the expenses was secured. As he rallied a little from this attack his anxiety to be at the work he so much loved returned, and while yet in his bed he arranged for the dedicatory services of the new church, wrote the notices, and sent them to the papers. As the set time approached he longed to be there, and before he was fully able he left for his home. At the dedication he was present, though quite feeble, and labored with all his might, resting not till he saw every dollar of indebtedness subscribed, pledging himself to raise $150 for that object.

For many weeks after this, amid the severity of the winter, he filled all his appointments, often arising from his bed to be conveyed to the church, and wherever he went he was greatly beloved by the people. In great pain and feebleness he pursued his calling until he was completely prostrated, and in March he was obliged to return to the city and put himself again in the hands of physicians. At the Conference of April, 1873, he was made supernumerary, being at the time confined to his bed. He remained in New York, being provided, through the great kindness and generosity of a Christian lady, with a quiet, comfortable room, board, and the best of medical attention, free of charge, until the middle of August, when he removed to Paterson, N. J., where his family was residing. As he entered his home he told his wife that he had come home to die. A physician was called, but, like others, he soon decided that his case was hopeless. This decision caused our brother no alarm, however, as it was only confirming that of others. For some time previous his mind was being prepared for it, and he now realized that his work was done.

He remarked to Rev. A. K. Sanford, when visiting him, "I have greatly wondered why I should be thus called to suffer and to be kept from my work and my family, but I can now fully trust in God, and leave all in his hands. In reference to my present peace with God I haven't a ruffle, or in regard to the future a doubt." On reading to him the 27th Psalm he remarked, "That's the Christian's battle-song; there's heroism all through it." While they engaged in prayer his soul was in ecstasy, and he shouted aloud the praises of God. Alluding to his great bodily suffering, he remarked, "If death affected in us, as it does, a change only in relation to our external circumstances and surroundings, there would not be so much involved in dying; but," he added, "there's a clatter within—a breakage inside—a storm which causes the old tabernacle to tumble and decay; but O, what a blessed power in the words of the apostle! 'For we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.' The Lord," he said, "has been very good to me here; but, better than all, I am looking forward for that blessed hope, and the glorious appearing of the great God and our Saviour Jesus Christ."

To Rev. L. R. Dunn, who kindly visited him, he said, "Tell my brethren of the Conference that I die trusting in Jesus only:

"This all my hope and all my plea,
For me the Saviour died."

He now sank rapidly, but, as he expressed it, his soul was like a weaned child. He dwelt in the land of Beulah. "My heart and my flesh faileth," he said, "but God is the strength of my heart and my portion forever." When Death had already taken the outposts, and was preparing to make the last and fatal assault upon the citadel of life, he was asked concerning his hope in Christ; to which he replied, "It is all bright on the other side!" and, raising his emaciated hand, he placed it in that of his wife, feebly pressed it, and looking up, whispered, "All is well!" and sweetly, peacefully fell asleep, October 27, 1873, in the thirty-seventh year of his age.

Brother Tarleton possessed a superior intellect, which was well cultivated, active, and discriminating. His literary attainments were far above the average. He was studious in his habits and retentive in his memory. His pulpit utterances were clear expositions of the truth, evincing thought, apt and often forcible in illustrations, and delivered with an earnestness that generally arrested attention and impressed the heart.

He was affable and gentlemanly in his manner, generous in his feelings, and liberal almost to a fault. As a friend, he was loving and ardent in his attachments, genial, cheerful, and witty in the social circle.

In his removal from our midst death has struck an impressive blow. In the full vigor of his youthful manhood, sustaining the sacred relations of husband, father, pastor, and friend, our brother has been smitten down and translated from labor to reward. His sufferings on earth were short, but intensely severe; his rest will be long and glorious. Let us cherish his memory as a brother beloved, and, when our life's work is done, may we hail him in glory!

2. Thomas Ellis was born in Mastyn, Flintshire, North Wales, January 1, 1806. He emigrated to America in 1824, and died at Pine Plains, N. Y., May 31, 1873. He joined the New York Conference in 1839, and filled successively the following appointments: Middlebury and Watertown, Conn., Watertown, Goshen and Wolcottville, Simsbury, New Concord, Kinderhook, N. Y., Pine Plains, Great Barrington, Mass., Coeyman's Hollow, N. Y., Coxsackie, W. Taghkanic, Ancram, Hyde Park, W. Taghkanic, Germantown and Meyersville, Washington Hollow, Pleasant Valley and Verbank, Milan and Bangall, and, lastly, Copake.

Brother Ellis was one of six sons, five of whom, together with their father, were ministers of the Gospel. He possessed a strong, well-balanced, well-cultivated, and remarkably active mind, which he consecrated entirely to God and the dissemination of his truth. Careful study, diligent research, earnest thought, and a profound religious experience, with God's blessing, made him an able minister of the New Testament. He loved to preach. The people loved to hear him. Hundreds have been saved through his instrumentality. He possessed a sympathetic heart, but was a man of strong and decided convictions. While he was tolerant and charitable toward others, he was firm and unyielding in his adherence to what he conceived to be right. His buoyancy and vivacity, and his innocent humor, made him a favorite with children and young people. They loved him. His fine social qualities rendered his visits to the domestic circle highly entertaining and profitable.

Brother Ellis's death was as peaceful as his life had been pure. He said, "I never had such views of the mercy of God in the gift of his son Jesus Christ as I now have." At another time he quoted the following lines:

"And can it be that I should gain
An interest in the Saviour's blood?
Died he for me, who caused him pain?
For me, who him to death pursued?
Amazing love! how can it be,
That thou, my Lord, shouldst die for me?"

And then exclaimed, "What a wonder! that the Lord Jesus died for Thomas Ellis!" Then, speaking of the character of Christ, he said, "I feel like the sainted Summerfield, 'Take away the divinity of my Lord, and you are welcome to all that is left.'" One morning, as he looked out of the window toward the village cemetery, he said, "I have been thinking of the grave, but I do not dread it. After being tossed by the tempest so many years it will be pleasant to anchor in the grave." He then quoted, "The Lord is my strength and shield; my heart trusteth in him, and I am helped; therefore my heart greatly rejoiceth, and with my song will I praise him," remarking, "I preached my last sermon from that text at Purdy's, N. Y.; it is a comfort to me now."

About three weeks before his death Rev. John Reynolds, who had been for seventeen years pastor of the Baptist Church in Pine Plains, passed away. A few hours before he died Brother Ellis said, "Brother Reynolds is very near his end." One replied, "Yes, very near. I am going over to see him; have you any word to send?" "Yes, tell him that Brother Ellis sends his love to him;" to which the dying father and intimate friend said, on receiving the message, "Thank you! I will bear it with me over the river."

On Monday before his departure, as he looked around the room in which we sat, he remarked, "This is a beautiful room. I am highly favored; but my father has prepared a better place for me. I am willing to wait, but am anxious to be off. Sometimes I get almost into the harbor, but drift back again."

The evening before he died, as he awoke from sleep, he said, "Let us have prayer once more." They kneeled, and Rev. B. H. Burch offered the last audible prayer at his bedside, at the close of which the dying man laid his hands on his head and said, "My son, preach Christ Jesus the Lord." On being asked if he was sorry that he had preached Christ so long, he replied, "No, no, no!" Then, turning his eyes heavenward, he tried to talk, but could not. All that was heard was, "Sweet to be there. Friends over there."

On Saturday morning, between four and five o'clock, he revived to utter his last words. His daughter said to him, "It is morning, father." He replied, "Yes, a beautiful morning," while his countenance was as bright as the morning, and radiant beyond description. It was the morning of eternity dawning in all its beauty and brightness upon his blood-washed spirit. To his son he said, "I am almost home. Just in the hallway. Halleluia!" He then tried to repeat the verse,

"Jesus can make a dying bed
Feel soft as downy pillows are,"

Here his voice failed. His daughter repeated,

"While on his breast I lean my head.
And breathe my life out sweetly there."

Then, gathering all his strength, he shouted, "Halleluia!" After which he bade all good-bye, lingered until a quarter past seven o'clock, when, quietly and without a struggle or a sigh, he breathed his life out on the bosom of Jesus.

A good man, a true friend, a bright and cheerful Christian, a heroic standard-bearer, a veteran of the cross, has fallen.

3. William F. Gould. Decision for God and his cause was his watchword, humility of heart gave him true dignity, a pure and holy life prepared him for a peaceful and happy death. When the erect and manly form fell, the spirit, washed in the blood of the Lamb, ascended to its God, to gaze in sweet surprise upon the splendors of that world of heavenly bliss.

William F. Gould was born in Smithtown, Long Island, on the first of January, 1811. At the age of nineteen he became deeply convicted of sin, and was led to embrace the Saviour by faith in the Willett-street Methodist Episcopal Church, New York city. His conversion was clear and powerful, giving indubitable evidence of a thorough and radical change of heart.

In the spring of 1839 Brother Gould was received into the New York Conference on trial, and for thirty-five years remained a faithful and respected member of that body. He was appointed to the following charges, on which his labors were abundant in the Lord: Catskill and Durham, Deposit, Windham, Jefferson, Middletown, Delaware Co., Coeyman's, Prattsville, Lexington, Durham, Coeyman's, North Goshen, Milan, East Jewett, Fishkill West, High Hills, Dormansville, Ashland; 1872–74, Supernumerary. On all these charges, to a greater or less degree, the Lord blessed the labors of our brother, while on some of them he poured out his Spirit marvelously to save.

In 1840, the second year of his ministry, he was united in marriage to Margaret Jerome, who shared his fortunes, his joys and sorrows, during the years of his itinerant life.

As a preacher Brother Gould was good, plain, practical, though not distinguished for elegance of diction or flights of oratory; yet his sermons were methodical, and full of Scripture language. The Bible was his constant companion, his daily study, and his quotations were numerous and accurate. He was deeply in love and sympathy with the doctrines, discipline, and usages of primitive Methodism. Any changes that may have been made in them that had the appearance of innovation, or an infringement on the good old ways of the fathers, he watched with a jealous eye, and earnestly contended for the simple, straightforward, old-fashion Methodism, which he ardently believed was adequate to the conquest of the world.

The illness of Brother Gould was of short duration. On Sabbath he was attacked with a severe pain in the region of the chest, which culminated in the pleurisy. On Wednesday he was compelled to take his bed, from which he never arose. When the Secretary of the Conference, in calling the roll, came to the name of William F. Gould, a brother said, "I hold in my hand a dispatch stating that Brother Gould is dead. He died yesterday afternoon at half past two o'clock. His death occurred on the 7th of April, 1874, in the sixty-fourth year of his age." The intelligence that another familiar friend had gone, another toil-worn traveler had reached his journey's end, was so sudden, unexpected, that it cast a deep gloom over the conference, and one said to another, truly, "In the midst of life we are in death."

By a brother who visited him about an hour and a half before he died he sent his Christian greetings to the Conference, expressing a firm hope that if he never met the brethren again on earth he would in heaven. His dying language, like his sermons, was full of Scripture promises, which shone in upon his soul like rays from the Sun of righteousness. The room was a hallowed spot, and all persons were constrained to say, "How blest the righteous when he dies." A few moments before the departure he said slowly, "I want," then made a pause and repeated, "I want." "What do you want?" said his adopted daughter. "Tell me, father, and it shall be granted you." "I want to see Jesus, and in his bosom rest." While the feeble accents still lingered on his lips, quietly as an infant would fall asleep in its mother's arms, the spirit left the house of clay to stand before the blessed Redeemer, in whose "presence is fullness of joy, at whose right hand there are pleasures evermore."

H. B. Beers, James W. Brown—2.

1. HAWLEY BAXTER BEERS was born at Cold Spring Harbor, Suffolk County, Long Island, N. Y., April 23, 1810, and died at Goshen, Ind., May 7, 1873, aged sixty-three years.

Brother Beers was endowed with a mind of far more than medium power, which was well stored with varied knowledge, especially upon subjects that pertained to his work and calling as a minister. He was studious, logical, clear, and much above usual mediocrity in his pulpit ministrations. He was clearly and powerfully converted to God, in old-fashioned Methodist style, at his home on Long Island, N. Y., at nine o'clock at night, May 31, 1831, while conversing with a friend on the street, after repeated approaches to the "mourners' bench." He was then in the twentieth year of his age. He at once united with the Methodist Episcopal Church.

We copy his own language from a written statement of the facts: "Victory came to my soul on this wise: I went to the church, and, while the preacher was lecturing (it was on Thursday evening) I felt a very comfortable state of mind. Feeling that God would bless my soul and send me away rejoicing that night, I could scarcely wait for the minister to close his lecture and invite the mourners forward, (for this was the practice at every meeting,) when he closed the services at the desk. Not feeling well, he excused himself from altar services, and dismissed the meeting. I felt disappointed. As I left the church a brother came up and laid his hand upon my shoulder, and said, 'Do you believe?' 'Yes,' said I, 'with all my heart!' I repeated it. That instant a flood of light overwhelmed me; my heart was full. I exclaimed, 'I never had such feelings; what is the matter with me?' 'You've got religion,' said the brother. O, I was so happy! I was simple as a child; and such love as I had for the brethren! I cried, shouted, laughed, and praised God. This was about half past nine o'clock at night. It was a clear night, and the stars shone so brightly that it seemed that the very heavens were filled with the glory of God. I was too happy to sleep that night."

In 1836 he commenced the work of an itinerant in the Indiana Conference, three years after the State was organized into one conference, eight years before it was divided into two conferences, and sixteen years before it was divided into four. He was consequently one of the original members of the North Indiana Conference, of which he was a superannuated member at the time of his death. He was in the same class with W. H. Goode, Jacob Colclazer, and G. C. Beeks.

He was licensed to preach in 1836, received on trial the same year in the Indiana Conference, was received into full connection and ordained deacon in 1839, and ordained elder in 1841. He received and filled the following appointments: South Bend Circuit as an exhorter, Kalamazoo Circuit, Michigan, Deep River Mission, Covington Cir., Lafayette, Greencastle, Mishawaka and Elkhart Circuit, Lafayette, (second time,) Fort Wayne, Peru Circuit, Logansport, Crawfordsville, Terre Haute, Attica Circuit, Delphi, Presiding Elder La Grange District, Centerville, Fort Wayne, Wayne-street, Peru, at which time and place, his health having failed, he took a superannuated relation, and was continued in this relation till his death, a period of seventeen years. He did effective work for twenty years, making the whole period of his ministry thirty-seven years. He continued in the active work as long as his health would permit, preaching even when he was so feeble that he could not stand, except by supporting himself by holding to the pulpit.

During the long, weary years of his superannuation, it was his greatest joy to preach when he could, and to talk and think of the days of his toils and triumphs during the pioneer period of the history of our State when the country was a wilderness, when circuits were large, and sacrifices were numerous. He lived to see the "wilderness blossom as the rose," and has now gone "over the river" to meet and to hail the thousands gone before, who have been brought to Christ through his instrumentality.

2. James Willis Brown, son of Rev. Nathaniel and S. A. Brown, was born in Fairview, Ind., in 1850, and died March 2, 1874. In 1859 he united with the Church at Middletown, Ind. A few years later he was converted at the family altar of his father, and was given a clear evidence of acceptance with God and call to preach the Gospel. He was licensed to exhort in 1869, and to preach in 1870. The same year he was received on trial in the North Indiana Conference, and appointed to Westfield and Carmel Circuit. In 1871 he was appointed to Hartford City, and the next year to Markle Circuit, where he remained six months, and resigned his charge to complete his education. He entered the North-western University, but was soon compelled to return to his home on account of failing health. He continued to preach and pursue his studies until prostrated with consumption. His last sermon was preached September 21, 1873. On the first of October he was taken with hemorrhage of the lungs, from which he never recovered.

Brother Brown was possessed with a clear and logical mind, was studious in his habits, an earnest speaker, and as a minister of God always acceptable. He was very warm in his attachments, and cheerful and kind in his disposition. His devotion to God and his work was marked. Two years previous to his death he experienced the full rest of faith, in the evidence that "the blood of our Lord Jesus Christ cleanseth from all sin." His death was triumphant. The morning before his death he sang sweetly, though with some difficulty, "The evergreen mountains of life." Soon after, on being raised from his pillow, he said, "O, how I long to be with Jesus! Almost there." Then, expressing to his friends the hope of a blessed re-union, he was laid upon his pillow, closing his eyes, and whispering, "Good-bye."

C. G. Bowdish, Edward Oldrin —2.

1. CHARLES GILES BOWDISH, son of the late Rev. William S. Bowdish, of the Black River Conference, was one of five brethren, all of whom were consecrated to the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was born at Potsdam, N. Y., May 12, 1834. He was converted in 1853, and soon afterward entered the Seminary at Cazenovia, where he continued in diligent study until divinely constrained to offer himself for duty on the frontier. He was received by the Minnesota Conference in 1858, after which his appointments were: Rockford, Minn., St. Cloud, Lake City, Faribault, the chaplaincy of the 11th Minnesota Regiment of Volunteers, (1864–65,) Glencoe, Shakopee, and Cottage Grove. In 1870 he was transferred to New York East Conference, and stationed at Collinsville, Conn.; in 1872, at Glen Cove, L. I.; and in 1873, at Astoria.

Brother Bowdish was richly gifted in mental endowments. He retained in their freshness the stores acquired by extensive reading. His fine taste was developed in music and painting, and in moments of leisure he familiarized himself with the science of medicine. His social qualities were generous and beautiful. His heart was touched with softest sympathy for the suffering. In hospitality he superabounded. Friend and stranger were welcomed to his home. He valued money only as affording opportunities for enhancing the happiness of others, and in self-sacrifices learned that

"All worldly joys are less Than that one joy of doing kindnesses."

He was a thoughtful, chaste, and earnest preacher of the Word, and not a few of the most saintly and useful members of the Churches over which he was placed are the fruit of his work. His last sermon, on the subject of holiness, preached in the Tabernacle at Sea Cliff, was a clear and forcible exposition of the doctrine referred to, and produced, it is believed, lasting impressions on the minds of many who heard it.

His short life was honored by special and varied responsibilities. While in the army he rendered valuable aid to Bishop Clark in the organization of the Holston Conference at Nashville. Twice was he elected Chaplain to the Minnesota House of Representatives. In the autumn of 1867 President Johnson appointed him to superintend the annual payment of the Chippewa Indians, in the discharge of which commission he went far beyond the bounds of civilization, meeting the Red Lake bands at Red Lake, and the Pembina bands at Douglas. At the General Conference in Brooklyn he was assigned an important place on the staff of official reporters, where he gained distinction, not more by a remarkable feat of phonography than by general accuracy. In Queens County, of this State, the sphere of his latest activity, he was an ardent advocate of religious and secular education. His knowledge of the history and topography of Bible lands, and his proficiency at the blackboard, won him a hearty reception, whether in the public school or the county convention.

He died of neuralgia of the heart, and departed this life at Astoria, July 5, 1873, in the faith and hope of the Gospel. While sinking in death, he requested his oldest brother to sing the hymn, "The Cleansing Wave," and shortly after uttering the words, "I trust in the mercy of Jesus," he fell asleep.

2. EDWARD OLDRIN was born in the Parish of Wessel, County of Suffolk, England, February 13, 1802. In his youth he became a member of the Wesleyan Methodist Society, and subsequently received license as a local preacher. He came to this country in 1829, and labored on the Stamford Circuit a part of that year. In 1830 he was received on trial in the New York Conference. From this time till 1863, a period of thirty-three years, he was uninterruptedly engaged in ministerial and parochial work. In 1863 his health was so much impaired and his physical constitution so much broken that he was obliged to take a superannuated relation to the conference. Brother Oldrin was an earnest, faithful, and successful minister of the Lord Jesus. It is believed that he was the honored instrumentality of saving more than three thousand souls. He died at Stamford, Conn., February 22, 1874, in great peace and Christian triumph.

H. Moulton, Pliny Wood—2.

1. HORACE MOULTON was born in Munson, Mass., February 9, 1799, and died at Stafford Springs, Conn., September 11, 1873. He was born of the Spirit of God September, 1822, at a camp-meeting held at Windsor, Connecticut, and joined the M. E. Church in 1832, at a camp-meeting held in Ellington, Conn. Soon after his conversion he was divinely impressed that it was his duty to consecrate his life to the Christian ministry, but through the force of temptation he delayed preparation for the great work till he was variously and severely chastened; then, with deep repentance, he resolved to obey the voice of God, and after having devoted some three years to close study at two academic institutions—one in his native town, and the other at the Wesleyan Academy, Wilbraham—he received license to preach, and was admitted on trial to the New England Conference in June, 1828. He sustained an effective relation to the conference thirty-one years, and a superannuated relation thirteen years.

On his first circuit, Manchester, Conn., many souls were converted to God and gathered into the Church. The following year his appointment was Tolland Circuit, Conn. Glorious revivals attended his and his colleague's labors, especially in Bolton, East and West Stafford, and Somers. It was estimated that more than four hundred sinners were converted; two new churches were erected, and a vacated Universalist church leased and occupied by forty rejoicing converts.

Nine months of the year 1830 he was engaged, by permission of the presiding elder, in evangelistic pioneer work in Wales and neighboring towns in Massachusetts. He organized a circuit, embracing four appointments and four new classes, composed of about one hundred and twenty-five rejoicing converts. The next year his circuit included eighteen towns, extending from Wales to Spencer, Worcester, Oakham, and Barre. There were revivals in nine of the eighteen towns, and several new classes were organized.

In December, 1832, Brother Moulton married Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Estin, of Greenwich, Mass., an eminently holy Christian lady, of rare qualifications for the itinerancy. She was an earnest and successful laborer in the Lord's vineyard for nearly ten years, when she triumphantly entered into blessed rest.

In 1853 Brother Moulton was blessed with great spiritual prosperity on Gill Circuit. Between four and five hundred sinners were hopefully converted. Leyden, Greenfield, and Charlemont were added to the Sabbath appointments. In the two latter towns powerful and extensive revivals were enjoyed. Two preachers were appointed to the circuit from conference, but the word of God so mightily grew and prevailed that before the year closed four additional preachers were employed. In 1836 his appointment was Granville Circuit. There was a precious revival in Blanford, and souls were saved on other parts of the circuit. About one hundred were hopefully converted during the year, and a new Church was organized. A revival also occurred through his labors at Middlefield, Troy Conference, and a Methodist Church organized of some forty or fifty members. In 1840 and 1841 he was stationed at Ashburnham. A number of protracted meetings were held the first year in different sections of the town, and many sinners were brought to God and added to his Church. The second year the revival flame spread northward to Winchester and Ashby, and also to New Ipswich, N. H. It was estimated that not less than three hundred and fifty sinners were added to the Lord during the year. Two new Churches were organized, and one church edifice erected as the immediate result of this wonderful work of grace.

From Ashburnham he was removed to Oxford. A great and powerful revival overspread the entire town: first a temperance revival, the blessed results of which prepared the way of the Lord; then followed the revival of salvation. An eighty days' protracted meeting was appointed, which continued just one hundred days. A multitude of sinners were won to the cross in the remarkable three months' meeting. He also held this year a fourteen days' meeting in Charlton, a twenty days' meeting in Dudley, and a fifty days' meeting in Leicester. All these meetings were successful. In Leicester, where the ground was entirely new, a Church of eighty members was organized, and Methodist preaching permanently established. In 1843 he was appointed to Leominster and Sterling.

After this date the blessing of God, in the salvation of souls, attended his labors in Marlborough, Wellfleet, Sudbury, Townsend, West Brookfield, and Warren. In each of the last three towns he organized a Methodist Church. In 1854 and 1855 he was appointed conference missionary, and engaged in the work of an evangelist. In 1861 the conference gave him the superannuated relation; still he continued for several years to preach quite frequently. In 1866 he said, "This year I have yielded some to the pressure of old age and infirmities." He but seldom preached after this.

Among the prominent traits of the religious and ministerial character of the subject of this memoir were profound faith in the eternal verities of the Bible. Early in his religious experience he understandingly embraced the doctrine of Christian perfection, as believed, defended, and taught by the Wesleys and other standard authors of the Methodist Church. He, through the mercy of God, personally enjoyed an experimental verification of this grand central truth of Christianity; therefore to him, as to all of similar blessed experience, the declarations, promises, and threatenings of the inspired Bible were as absolutely and eternally true as though they had been uttered in his hearing by the solemn voice of God visibly present. Abraham-like, "He staggered not at the promise of God, but was strong in faith, giving glory to God, being fully persuaded that what he had promised he was able also to perform." His faith in the love and power of the Holy Ghost to awaken, reprove, and regenerate impenitent sinners, and to wholly sanctify faithful, progressive believers in answer to unceasing prayer, was truly sublime. He fully and grandly believed that the laws of grace are as infallible and immutable as the God who ordained them; he acted accordingly, and this was one of the secrets of his marvelous success as a Gospel minister.

With heroic boldness and unswerving fidelity to conscience and principle he lovingly, but earnestly, opposed the wrong and defended the right, though the so doing exposed him to fierce persecution, even from the professedly good as well as the bad. He stood among the foremost of the early champions of human rights. He had for years been an eye and ear witness of the horrid abominations of American slavery, the vilest that ever saw the sun, and his righteous soul loathed and abhorred the unclean thing beyond the power of language to express; he therefore preached, prayed, and wrote against it with all his might, whether men would hear or forbear. He was also early a prominent and eminently successful worker in the great temperance reformation. At the time he commenced his ministry total abstinence from the use of intoxicating liquors as a beverage was scarcely thought of either by Christians or Gospel ministers. Church-members, either habitually or occasionally, drank the insidious and destructive poison without remorse; and it was even used by the Churches generally for holy sacramental purposes. Like the great and good John Wesley, Horace Moulton had eyes to see the terrible witchery and blighting curse of the liquor traffic, and he raised his voice against it, and all its abettors and patrons, in trumpet tones. One who knew him intimately, and sympathized with him perfectly in his life-work, says, "He preached temperance every-where, and gave a great many lectures on the subject." This brought down upon him a violent storm of persecution. But the blessed result justified his course; it purified the Church and glorified God.

Brother Moulton's whole ministerial life was eminently one of self-denial and Christ-like benevolence. His works prove that he loved his neighbor as himself. No sacrifice seemed too great for him to make in favor of winning souls to the way of life. In one instance, many evenings in succession, he walked eight miles to have the opportunity of laboring for the salvation of souls. Notwithstanding his income was small he was generous to a fault, and among the last acts of his life was a contribution of ten dollars for missionary purposes.

Brother Moulton was pre-eminently a man of one work. From a remarkable book, too much neglected, he early read and seriously pondered the following: "You have nothing to do but to save souls, therefore spend and be spent in this work. It is not your business only to preach so many times and to take care of this or that society, but to save as many as you can, and with all your power build them up in that holiness without which they cannot see the Lord."

In addition to a faithful discharge of the pastoral work due to the Churches he was appointed to serve, Brother Moulton labored as an evangelist in other localities. He probably held more protracted meetings, on what he properly called "new ground," than any other Methodist preacher in New England.

He never seemed to be satisfied unless he was engaged in revival work. If nothing moved in his own charge, he was ready for evangelistic work elsewhere. Few men could more appropriately and truthfully say, in the language of St. Paul, "I labor striving according to his working, which worketh in me mightily." For many of the last years of his life he was unable to exercise the functions of the ministry, but his interest in the progress and triumphs of Christ's kingdom suffered no abatement. To the last moment of his life he could appropriately and heartily sing:

"For her my tears shall fall;
For her my prayers ascend;
To her my cares and toils be given,
Till toils and cares shall end."

Brother Moulton, as might naturally be anticipated, died well. His declining years were full of sunshine. The testimony of one who knew him intimately is that he was remarkably cheerful in his last years. His confidence and trust in God was unfaltering. He frequently gave expression to the joy and triumph of his heart by exclaiming, "Praise the Lord!" "Glory to God!" A short time before he entered into rest he said, "The way is all lighted up, and myriads of angels are waiting to escort me over the river." O how "blessed are the dead who die in the Lord!"

2. Pliny Wood, son of James and Isabella Wood, was born in Littleborough, England, March 4, 1820. While quite young he came with his parents to America, and resided for several years at Amesbury, Mass. After the death of his father, which occurred about the year 1838, he lived with his brother in Birmingham, Conn. During his residence there he was happily converted to God. He immediately connected himself with the M. E. Church, at whose altars he had been brought to Christ. He soon came to feel a desire for a broader field of usefulness, which resulted in a settled conviction that it was his duty to devote himself to the Christian ministry. In 1843 he repaired to Wilbraham Academy, spending some two years at school; here he was licensed to exhort and preach. At a later date he spent a short time in the theological seminary at Andover, Mass. He was admitted to the New England Conference in 1845, and continued an effective member until his death. He ministered to Churches in the following places: North and South Belchertown, South Royalston, Ashburnham, North Blandford, Ballardvale, Townsend, Franklin, Dorchester, Ashburnham again, Webster, Chicopee, Asbury Chapel in Springfield, East Saugus, East Cambridge, Webster Square in Worcester, North Avenue in Cambridge, and Chicopee. This last was his second term here, and his final appointment. Brother Wood was elected to represent Springfield in the Legislature, and afterward was chosen Chaplain of the House of Representatives, where he received many tokens of respect from his fellow-members. During his ministry he rendered essential aid in the erection of churches, and the remodeling of old edifices, at Royalston, Ashburnham, Chicopee, Springfield, and Cambridge.

The earnest Christian labors of Brother Wood were attended with many conversions, which cheered both himself and the societies in which he labored. Hundreds cherish the memory of his name. He was a genial friend, a man of good executive ability, and a good student of human nature. He was a faithful minister of the Gospel. He was naturally strong and vigorous, and all his powers were devoted to the wellbeing of the circle in which he moved. In 1873 he went to Europe, was overtaken by the cholera, and died in Munich. A simple headstone marks his resting-place. His last message was, "Tell them I love Jesus." Precious testimony! Our brother shall rise again.

3. George Pickering Wilson died July 10, 1873. He was born in Lowell, Mass., January 29, 1829. His parents were devotedly pious. Six of their seven children have passed into glory, one only lingering on earth, awaiting the glad reunion of the skies. In early life Brother Wilson manifested the traits of character that distinguished him in manhood. His first impulses were of devotion to the suffering. He mingled in an unusual degree the benevolent sympathies of an adult with the sprightliness and gayety of youth. He was converted in early boyhood, but being peculiarly sensitive to the right and wrong of conduct, and not thoroughly informed concerning spiritual things, he fell into a state of doubt, from which he did not emerge for years. This led him to stand aloof from the Church until he was twenty years of age.

On his return from California, where he had gone in search of gold and health, and where he had found a better treasure than either—a full assurance of faith in a Divine Saviour—he united with the Methodist Episcopal Church in Nashua, N. H.

He commenced immediately a life of usefulness. Every department of the Church felt the reinforcement of his unwearied devotion.

In 1852 he removed to Lawrence, Mass., and for seven years was connected with the post-office there. By integrity, devotion to God and man, and a beautiful spiritual life, he won the hearts of the people, and at the end of those years he was chosen to the responsible office of city missionary. In this broad field he won his noblest triumphs. Here he labored with heroic devotion for fourteen years. He ministered to the poor in their poverty, to the soldier in the hospital and camp, to the prisoner in his gloomy cell, to the sad and afflicted in the chambers of sickness and death, and to all who needed and craved a friend. He bore humanity on his heart, rejoicing with all who rejoiced, and weeping with all who wept. Childhood he took under his especial care. As a father watches over his household, he stood the moral guardian of the youth of Lawrence. There was no social evil that threatened the public good that he did not attack with soldierly courage. Perceiving the liquor traffic to be the immediate cause of her shame and poverty, he stood forth most fearlessly and smote the iniquity with ungloved hands.

While in Lawrence he was licensed as a local preacher, and also ordained deacon and elder. In 1872 he entered upon a new field of toil. At the earnest solicitation of the Boston Church Extension Society, he removed to Boston and assumed the responsibilities of city missionary there. Influenced by the urgent requests of his brethren in the ministry, he united with the New England Conference at its session in Worcester.

In his new field he found the labors so abundant that he sank under their crushing weight in just one year and three months. The blow fell with stunning force upon the Church and society he represented. Its shock was felt throughout our conference.

His disease was typhoid fever, induced by physical exhaustion. His sane moments were marked by an all-conquering faith in Jesus. He sheathed the Gospel sword with the same holy calm with which he was accustomed to draw it forth in the high noon of battle. But his last hours were clouded with delirium; his dying words were, "It is done."

Brother Wilson was in the highest sense a great man; great in the poise and symmetry of his threefold nature—body, soul, and spirit. Though delicate in his youth, and predisposed to consumption, by his out-of-door life he had mastered the disease, and secured a sound and robust body, finely developed, and gracefully proportioned. He had secured a valuable fund of information by a most faithful course of varied reading and close observation, so that, while he could not be pronounced a great scholar, he certainly was highly intelligent and well read. Best of all, he was a holy man, symmetrically holy. Every grace was beautifully and harmoniously manifested in his character. May his spirit, like the mantle of Elijah, fall upon us all!

Edgar M. High, Thomas F. Johnson, James H. Paddock—3.

1. EDGAR M. HIGH was born in Greenville, Albany County, New York, in 1816, and died in Danby, New York, October 16, 1873, aged 57. When fourteen years of age he experienced religion, through the influence of Sunday-school instruction, in Lockport, New York, whither his parents had moved when he was a small boy. When about nineteen he married an excellent young lady, from whom he was called to part in about one year and a half; and again, two and a half years later, he was bereft of an only child of three summers. But in all this he murmured not, knowing in whom he trusted. Soon after this he heard the voice of his Master calling him to the ministry, and he commenced preparation for this responsible work. In 1842 he married again, selecting his wife with an especial reference to his life-duties, and was successful in obtaining a faithful co-laborer. Livingston, Niagara County, New York, was his first circuit, with Rev. Samuel Salsbury as preacher in charge. At the close of his year there, his colleague, himself, and nearly all the members of the circuit, went over to the Wesleyan Methodists, because the conference to which they belonged adopted a resolution which they conceived to be oppressive, and designed to abridge their liberty in discussing that vilest sin, slavery. For sixteen years he toiled and struggled in life's battles. He was uncompromising. His blows fell rapidly and tellingly, until his overtaxed constitution admonished him of needed rest. This he found on a small farm near Rome, Pa., where, for seven years, he quietly and peacefully awaited restoration to health. Finding himself recuperated, and having thankfully seen the hand of God wipe out from the Church of his first love that foul stain which drove him out, he reunited with the M. E. Church. This was seven years ago. He was stationed, two years each, at Skinner's Eddy, Factoryville, and Windham. In each of these places he was recognized as a model Christian minister and man of God. His return to them at any time would have been hailed with joy. His next appointment was Berkshire, where he became very popular with the people, so much so that the official board requested the presiding elder to allow Brother High to fill the quarterly appointments himself, in the necessary absence of the presiding elder, and they really overpaid him his first half year's salary. On the 12th of October, 1873, he left his home in Berkshire to attend the Ministerial Association of Owego District, to be held at West Danby on the 14th and 15th. On the morning of Wednesday, the 15th, he read an essay, entitled "Paul before Agrippa." This was conceded to be one of his ablest productions, read amid suppressed hallelujas and frequent responses. In the afternoon he officiated at the funeral of a child, moving a large audience by his pathos. On his journey homeward he was attacked by a severe pain in his chest. In company with Rev. George Comfort he tarried all night at the residence of Reuben Meeker, Esq., in Danby. In the morning his distress had increased, and a physician was summoned. Hopes were entertained that he would be able to reach his home in renewed health the following day. Feeling better, at four in the afternoon he said, "I think I will be able to sleep a little." He did sleep, but his slumber knew no waking. The sad intelligence reached his home at eleven o'clock that night.

Brother High, as a husband and father, was tender and true. To him home was home. He was a kindly neighbor, a most sturdy friend, and every-where a defender of the oppressed and unfortunate. He was always the same man—open-hearted, sympathetic, unassuming. He was a good preacher. His sermons were closely thought out, logical, and clothed in plain, correct, and elegant language. His experience of heavenly things was clear; he was kept in perfect peace, and his daily life was pure.

THOMAS F. JOHNSON was born in Danbury, Conn., August 28, 1825, and died in Litchfield, Bradford County, Pa., March 11, 1874, aged 48 years. He was converted under the labors of Rev. William Bixby when about fifteen years of age, and immediately connected himself with the M. E. Church. He maintained his profession by a godly walk and conversation, evincing a good talent for the work of a minister of the Lord Jesus Christ. He was licensed as a local preacher, and for twenty years he labored faithfully and successfully in this department. In 1872 he joined the Wyoming Conference on probation, and was stationed on Herrick Charge, Wyalusing District. Such was his acceptability and usefulness that his return was desirable. He returned to his work cheerfully, and at the time of his death was closing up successfully his second year on this charge, fully prepared for admission into full connection in the conference. A few days previous to his death he and his family were on a visit to their friends in Candor, and while there he preached an earnest sermon to the people, leaving an excellent impression. The Saturday following, while on his way home, he tarried at Litchfield, Pa., and occupied the pulpit of Rev. C. F. Olmstead on Sabbath morning, preaching from 1 Cor. x, 4, "And did all drink the same spiritual drink," etc. On Wednesday following he concluded to return to Camptown, Pa., in consequence of ill-health, but had not gone far when, handing the reins to his wife, he said, "I feel faint," at the same time leaning his head upon her shoulder. Arriving at the house of Mr. Alanson Munn, he was assisted into the house, where he died in about thirty minutes of heart disease, illustrating that great Scripture truth, "There is but a step between me and death."

Brother Johnson was a devoted Christian, a zealous and earnest minister, and loved passionately the work of leading men to Christ. In his death the Church as well as his family has suffered loss. But for him "to die was gain."

J. H. PADDOCK was born in Sussex County, N. J., August 28, 1839, and died from the effect of an accidental pistol shot March 30, 1874. We are unable to gather any authentic information concerning his early life. In 1859 he experienced religion, and joined the Methodist Protestant Church. His conversion was remarkable for light and power. Under its influence he immediately commenced to exhort sinners to repentance, and success attended his effort, attracting the attention of the Church. He was soon licensed to preach, and entered the traveling connection of that Church. He labored on Albany, Canaan, Sterling, and Auburn circuits, serving each charge with acceptability. In 1872 he joined the Wyoming Annual Conference of the M. E. Church, and was stationed at Stoddardsville, a laborious circuit full of care; but he did his work well. In 1873 he was stationed at Newport, and at the time of his death had not finished his first year. During the winter his labors had been blessed of God, and a good number of additions had been made to the Church. A request had been made by his official brethren for his return, which was fully expected.

Brother Paddock was kind and companionable, and a good Christian minister. He loved the means of grace, and said to the writer of this notice that he had never enjoyed himself better than lately, and "I hope to live and die in the M. E. Church, and, with the tired itinerant, be gathered home to die no more." His exercises in the pulpit on the day before his death was unusually earnest and pathetic, and in the evening he was very impressive, especially in the prayer-meeting. His death was mysterious, but "God will make it plain." His eternal salvation is assured.

JAMES H. PATTERSON was born in Peru, New York, March 16, 1810, and died December 24, 1873, in the sixty-fourth year of his age. His earlier days were spent in Canada and Vermont. Converted to Christ in 1826, licensed to exhort in 1829, he was licensed to preach and received on probation into the New Hampshire Conference, then comprising the State and so much of Vermont as lies east of the Green Mountains, in 1833. Being suspected, because of his strong predilections for order and decorum in religious services and for efficiency in Church government, of leaning to the Protestant Episcopal Church, he was not received into full connection with conference until 1836. Graduating to full orders, he continued a true and faithful member and minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church, amid the discouragements of New England Methodism and in the pleasanter fields of his later life, until his strange but welcome dismissal to heaven and rest.

In 1838, the year of his ordination as elder, he was married to Miss Fidelia Howe, who now, with two sons, in active and honorable life, survive him. His appointments in the ministry were as follows: South New Market, Peterborough, Francistown, and Greenland, in New Hampshire; Peacham, White River, Corinth, and Linden, in Vermont. While at Linden the Conference was divided, and he fell into the Vermont. His next appointments were to Northfield and Woodstock. During his pastorate at the latter place, the seat of a medical college, he attended a course of lectures and the requisite professional readings, and received the degree of Doctor of Medicine. This takes us through fifteen years of his ministerial life to the spring of 1848, when, because of a failure of voice, he took a supernumerary relation to Conference, and practiced medicine for two years in Barnard and Royalton, Vt. Having recovered his health, he resumed an effective relation, and was appointed to Randolph, Vermont, where he remained, for reasons given below, but one year. Being at that time a committee of conference for the purpose of negotiating a change of the boundary line between the Vermont and Troy Conferences, and having a desire to be transferred to the Genesee, he was induced, while in attendance on our session, to take his transfer to us, which he did in 1851, and was appointed to Glen's Falls, where he remained with much acceptance and usefulness his full pastoral term.

As in the case of transfers made with a view to permanency there are strong inducements to adjust matters to a home-like feeling, so Dr. Patterson then entered with vigor and zeal upon his calling. Stepping out at once upon a higher range of appointments, and amid associations better suited to his taste and enthusiasm, he spoke and acted with vigor, both from the pulpit and in the reforms of the day. From Glen's Falls he went to Castleton, Vt., thence to Cambridge, N. Y., where again, and for what seemed good reasons, he became supernumerary, and for the sake of securing to his sons a collegiate education settled in Schenectady. In the spring of 1857 he was appointed, as effective, to the City Mission in Albany; in 1858 and 1859, to Amsterdam; in 1860, to Schaghticoke; but in 1861 he was superannuated, in which relation he continued until death. Having an active and inventive genius, as also a philosophical and constructive turn of mind, he found it convenient, for the sake of supervising certain of his inventions which he hoped to make remunerative, to reside for a time in Lansingburgh and then in Troy, while he should devote his chief time and skill to the practice of medicine. But in 1863 he took up his permanent residence in Glen's Falls, where he continued in the medical practice and in certain mechanical and chemical experiments, which, for the want of nervous vigor, as also of funds, he never completed.

After this rapid and imperfect survey of the public life of our fellow-laborer, it is proper that we attempt an outline portraiture of his character as a man and Christian minister. Intellectually, he had in the Church few superiors. As a thinker, he was clear and logical. As a theologian, he was sound, comprehensive, and Wesleyan. Because of his early associations he was an admirer of the doctrines and discipline of the Church as he found them represented by the heroic and stalwart men of his early ministry, and of whom he would glowingly converse in social circles. To every thing maudlin or menacing in the pulpit, affected or bungling in style, noisy and ranting in manner, rather than seriously thoughtful, honestly earnest, and religiously devout, he was strongly and wisely opposed. Not for the sake of criticism, but for the good of the Church and for the correction of the erring and inexperienced, did he freely and kindly, yet sharply and thoroughly, advise and reprove his friends. As a preacher, he was clear, methodical, and instructive, never wearying his hearers with prosaic essays nor deceiving them with wordy platitudes. As a conversationalist, he was very interesting and instructive, always abounding with incidents and anecdotes happily in place. As an epistolary writer, he excelled in originality of thought and in versatility of style. As a friend, his esteem is in the hearts of all who were honored with his confidence, so much so that the death of no man was more sensibly felt by a large number of citizens at home than was his. Catholic and generous, he indulged in nothing like bigotry or hypocrisy. In the temperance reform he was an active, large-minded, and judicious worker. While a pastor in Castleton, Vermont, he was Grand Worthy Patriarch of the State. During his pastorate in South New Market, N. H., he was private secretary of Rev. and Hon. John Brodhead, a pioneer of New England Methodism and a member of Congress. For several years, while a member of the New Hampshire and Vermont Conferences, he served as their secretary, and was in this way brought into such intimate connection with the presiding bishops and their cabinet that he was often enabled, in open conference, to become the most skillful and astute of debaters on any popular matter before them. In reference to the variable policy of the Church, he held strong and decided opinions that the presiding elder's office should be elective, and that the number of incumbents should be so diminished as to make the office more dignified, more needed, and better remunerated, and at the same time less burdensome to the people. One of our bishops, who had long known him, declared him to have been capable of filling some of the highest positions in the Church.

The indications of a disease readily discerned by his practiced experience, and that might suddenly terminate his life, which also induced him to often say to his family that some day he might be brought home dead, led him to live thoughtfully, and prepared him to die well. Apparently in usual health during the day, mingling cheerfully with his many friends in the evening, complaining at a later hour of slight illness, at ten o'clock of Wednesday evening, December 24, 1873, our Christian friend and brother minister was dead to all that is earthly, but alive to all that is heavenly. "The memory of the just is blessed."

2. Paul P. Atwell died in Schuylerville, Saratoga Co., N. Y., June 13, 1873. He was born in Haverhill, N. H., March 28, 1801. He was converted to God, while pursuing his medical studies, at the age of twenty-three. The change wrought in him was peculiarly marked. He at once became a working member of the Church. After receiving his degree of M. D. he commenced the practice of medicine in Milton, N. Y. But he soon became convinced that God had called him to preach the Gospel, and at the age of twenty-eight he was duly authorized as a local preacher. In 1843 he was admitted on trial in the traveling connection, and soon after appointed to Hebron and Argyle Circuit. His subsequent appointments were Williamstown, Mass.; Petersburgh, Hinsdale, Easton and Cambridge, Greenfield, Wells, Vt.; Elizabethtown, Pittsford, Sand Lake, and Chatham. At the close of his term in the last-mentioned place he received a supernumerary relation, and resumed the practice of medicine, in which he continued for eleven years. As the infirmities of life were increasing upon him, in 1870 he returned to Schuylerville, where some of his children were settled, that he might have their care and attention. Here he remained, surrounded by loved ones devoted to his comfort, and a few of his old associates of other years, who with himself still lingered, waiting the Master's call.

Dr. Atwell was a good man, true to God and true to the Church. He was an able minister of the New Testament. His end was peace. During his last illness he was frequently visited by the pastor of the Schuylerville Charge, who conversed and prayed with him, and administered to him the Lord's Supper, all of which he very much enjoyed. He has gone to his mansion in the heavens.

3. Samuel Young was born in Greenfield, Saratoga County, New York, March 22, 1794, and died in Paterson, N. J., January 26, 1874, in his eightieth year. He was converted while young, and united with the M. E. Church. He displayed ability, and felt it his duty to preach. Being properly authorized, he labored as a local preacher for years, although he was scarcely more local than many itinerants. Those were the times of large four-weeks' circuits, and Brother Young, on the Sabbaths intervening between the coming of the conference preachers, filled the pulpit.

In 1833 he was received on probation by the Troy Conference, and labored consecutively on Luzerne, Pawlet and Middletown, Starksborough, and Hebron Circuits. Here his health failed, and in 1840 he was made a superannuate, continuing so until death. It was with a sad heart that he felt the breaking down of his nervous system so soon, and especially so as he feared it was in some measure the result of his own indiscretion. "I think I have preached too long and too loud," he wrote, "and am now suffering the penalty. It is hard, but I must submit, and patiently endure." But his long term of superannuation was not passed in indolence. Removing to Chautauqua County, N. Y., he, by patient self-denial and industry, procured a comfortable home, cared for his family, preached as he was able, and for several years acted as Agent of the County Bible Society. His wife dying, he married a lady of Forestville. In the fall of 1872 death again made his home desolate. In August last he removed to the home of his daughter, Mrs. D. B. Tyler, in Paterson. Here also he was busy in his Master's cause. But two weeks before his death he preached his last sermon. At last death came, and in ten short days his work was done.. A Presbyterian minister, living near by, called on him often, and with him he held sweet counsel. His physician, calling for the last time, said, "Father Young, you will shortly be on the other side of the river." The aged man smiled, and, extending his dying hand, replied, "I shall soon be there." And soon he quietly slept in Jesus. He labored on earth; he rests in heaven.

4. Alvin Robbins was born in Coeymans, N. Y., July 5, 1816, and died at his home in Osseo, Michigan, April 10, 1874, in his fifty-eighth year. The foundation of his piety was laid in early life. He always cherished intelligent views of Divine truth, a profound respect for the word of God, firmness of purpose, quick sensibility, and an earnest, direct tone of utterance and action. He was clearly converted to God at a camp-meeting held in New Baltimore, N. Y., in 1832. In 1841 he was received on trial in the Black River Conference, and labored successfully within its bounds for ten years. His appointments were Russia, Steuben, West Creek, Victory, Hannibal, Salina, North Manlius, and Ellisburgh. In 1851 he was transferred to the Troy Conference, and appointed to the following charges: Berne, Guilderland, Bethlehem, Esperance, Pleasant Valley, Cobleskill, Malta, Schroon Lake, Fort Ann, Granville, East and South Cambridge. After having labored in one conference for seventeen years he asked, in 1870, for a supernumerary relation, which was granted. Since that time he has done what he could for the Church.

His ministry was not without discouragements, but his devotion to Christ never faltered. Meek, gentle, and patient, he went cheerfully to his hardest and most difficult fields; and, copying after Jesus, being a man of faith and prayer, he drew inspiration from his toil, and was sustained and comforted in it. The sickness which terminated his earthly career was of a most painful nature and of short duration. He bore his sufferings meekly. A short time before he passed away the question was asked, "How is it with you now, Brother Robbins?" With a countenance beaming with heavenly joy he sweetly whispered, "I'm going home." A life thus consecrated to Christ, and ended in such peace and triumph, took away, in a measure, the pang of separation, even from those who were tenderly attached to the departed; and, while he "sleeps in Jesus," they wait in hope of a glorious reunion in that land where

"Sickness and sorrow, pain and death,
Are felt and feared no more."

D. S. Dexter.

DEMING S. DEXTER was born in Newark, Vt., June 15, 1815, and died in Martinsburgh, N. H., August 21, 1873. He received early religious training and a Christian example in his father's house. He was converted in 1829, and united with the M. E. Church. He immediately applied himself to study, and, with a few terms of instruction in Newbury Seminary, became well qualified for the work afterward assigned him. He commenced preaching when eighteen years of age, and labored as a local preacher for twelve years. He was popular. In 1838 he was made deacon, and elder in 1846, at which time he was received on trial by the Vermont Conference. From this time he did effective service for nearly twenty-four years. He was not taken into full connection until 1855, owing to his poor health. The Christian experience of Brother Dexter was clear and satisfactory. He enjoyed the consolations of religion in his daily life, and the abundant support of Divine grace in time of suffering. Said he: "It is more than forty years since I gave my heart to God, and the best of all is now in pain and sickness." He was a good preacher, and a very successful pastor, winning the hearts and confidence of the people every-where. At the last conference he had strong hopes that he might do effective work, and entered upon it with zeal and courage; but he was obliged to leave it in five weeks. Reluctantly he retired, but was enabled, by grace, to say, "It is all right. God knows what is best." His sufferings were great, and protracted for nearly three months, but he died in triumph.

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

N. W. Aspinwall, J. L. Roberts, John M. Puffer—3.

1. NATHANIEL W. ASPINWALL was born in Bradford, Vt., January 26, 1801, and died in Chicago November 17, 1873. He was the oldest member, both in years and in the term of labor, of the Vermont Conference. His father was of Scotch extraction; his mother was of the Mayflower stock. He was converted in Lancaster, N. H., at the age of twenty-one, and at once joined the M. E. Church. He was admitted on trial in the New England Conference in 1823, and appointed to Weathersfield Circuit, with Rev. Joel Steele as his colleague, and for forty-one years took effective work in the New England, New Hampshire, and Vermont Conferences in the following order: In 1824, Barnard; then Derby, Lyndon, Corinth, Cabot, Landaff, N. H.; East Salisbury, Mass.; Orford and Haverhill, N. H.; Barton, Vt.; Craftsbury, Barre, Williamstown, Royalston, Rochester, Bristol, N. H.; Sandwich, Landaff, Gilsom, and Keene. In 1852 he was transferred from the New Hampshire to the Vermont Conference, and appointed to Barnard, then to Thetford, St. Johnsbury Center, Peacham, Walden, Middlesex, Barnard, East St. Johnsbury, and Concord. This was in 1863. The following year he took a superannuated relation, and for two years resided at Lyndon Center, and labored, as his health would allow, for the Vermont Bible Society. In 1866–67 he was returned supernumerary, and supplied at Brownington and Sheffield. In 1868 he removed to Chicago, where his son-in-law and daughter made him, with their mother—who had shared his itinerant labor and hardships for more than forty years—a very welcome and pleasant home. Here, though unable to perform full labor, he toiled on, preaching as opportunity presented, and spending much of his time in visiting the sick and aged who were unable to share the privileges of the Church. His last sickness was brief. He was attacked by paralysis on Thursday evening, and bade adieu to earthly friends on the Monday morning following. He retained his consciousness and reason to the closing hour, and, though unable to converse, gave clear evidence of sacred peace and holy triumph.

Brother Aspinwall was a good preacher, a good pastor, "a good man, and full of the Holy Ghost and of faith, and much people was added unto the Lord." He possessed a deeply sympathetic nature, and a tender heart easily moved. For half a century he labored faithfully; his reward is in heaven.

2. JOHN L. ROBERTS was born in Strafford, Vt., March 18, 1818, and died in Ocean Grove June 24, 1873, aged 55 years. He was converted and united with the M. E. Church in the summer of 1845; was admitted into the Vermont Conference in 1849. He continued his labors in the conference till October, 1862, when he entered the army as chaplain of the Fourth Regiment of Vermont Volunteers. He was greatly beloved by both officers and privates, and was very active and useful on the field and in the hospital. One officer, on the occasion of a severe battle, said that for three days he was seemingly every-where at once, fearless of danger from flying shells and bullets, and oblivious to fatigue. At the close of the war, finding it to be impossible to do effective work in the ministry, he took a supernumerary relation to this Conference in 1866, and fixed his residence in Washington City, where he filled several important offices of trust under the Government, until failing health compelled him to relinquish all active labor. His last sickness was protracted and painful, but he patiently endured his sufferings, and cheerfully acquiesced in the will of God, saying, "Father, not my will, but thine, be done." When it was evident that his end was near he calmly spoke of the change that awaited him, expressing in confident language his trust in Christ for final salvation. During his active ministry he was successful upon his respective fields of labor. His kindly spirit and Christian sympathy, together with his native affability, prepared the way for easy access to almost every social circle within the compass of his Christian efforts. He was married January 1, 1839, to Miss Ruth M. Taylor, a lady of deep piety, who during her life-time proved a helpmeet indeed. She died many years since. He was again married to Miss Annie H. Marston, of Washington City, April 13, 1863, a lady possessing rare excellences, and whose devotion to his welfare could not be surpassed.

The character of Brother Roberts is well summed up in the words of a resolution adopted by M'Kendree Quarterly Conference, Washington, D. C., as follows: "In the daily life and character of our deceased brother there was a constant illustration of what mankind may become when dignified, adorned, and glorified by the virtues and graces of Christianity; while with us we had learned to admire him as a man, to esteem him as a friend, and to love him as a brother." "The righteous shall be in everlasting remembrance."

3. JOHN M. PUFFER was the son of Martin and Sophronia Puffer. He was born in Richford, Vt., January 29, 1835, and died in Barre, Vt., January 7, 1874. From a child he was noticeably correct in his habits. Being thrown upon his own resources in early life—his mother having died when he was about six years of age—he was taught self-reliance and a careful use of time and money—lessons which he remembered and practiced throughout life. His educational opportunities were limited, being confined to the district school and a few terms at the academy. He was converted in his native town in 1852, and united with the M. E. Church in that place the same year. He received a license to exhort in 1854, and was licensed to preach in 1856. The following year he united with the Troy Conference on probation. He filled the following appointments: Johnson and Hyde Park, under the presiding elder; Essex, Milton, and Pittsford, one year each; Essex, N. Y., two years. By a change of conference boundaries he came into Vermont Conference in 1862, and was stationed at Grand Isle two years; St. Alban's Bay, one year; Highgate, Waterbury Center, Randolph, and Chelsea, two years each; and Barre, his last appointment, which he served only the fraction of a year, when called from toil to reward. He labored with great acceptance, and almost literally "ceased at once to work and live." His last sermon was upon a funeral occasion, while ill himself, on the text, "If a man die, shall he live again?" His death being unexpected, his parting words were few, but full of hope and trust. In 1856 he was married to Miss Anna H. Hazleton, daughter of Rev. Amos Hazleton, who has shared with him the fortunes of an itinerant ministry, proving herself a helpmeet indeed all these years.

Thus has a devout Christian and an able minister of the New Testament apparently prematurely fallen, upon an inviting field of labor, in the strength and maturity of manhood, and in the midst of usefulness, surrounded by a loving family, a wide circle of warm personal friends, and a growing Church, anxiously waiting for the faithful labors of devoted men. Inscrutable are the ways of Unerring Wisdom. "God buries his workmen, but carries on his work."

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

F. D. Higgins,* Ebenezer Pease—2.

EBENEZER PEASE was born in Georgia, Franklin County, Vt., September 9, 1802. At the age of fourteen he obtained a satisfactory evidence of the forgiveness of sins, and soon after united with the M. E. Church and became a bright example of youthful piety. He received a license to exhort in 1823. His first local preacher's license was granted in 1826. In 1845 he was received on probation in the Black River Conference, and afterward served the following charges: Brasher and Massena, two years; Chateaugay, two years; Heuvelton and Depeyster, two years; Massena, two years; Lisbon, one year; Bangor, two years; next, and last, Hopkinton, where he finished his itinerant labors. He served all of these charges with great acceptability and profit to his people. While at Chateaugay he was deprived by death of his noble wife. He was afterward married to Miss Nancy Heely, a Christian lady, who is now his weeping widow.

Brother Pease was in every sense a good citizen, a kind husband, a loving father, and a faithful friend. He was a clear, instructive preacher, a faithful pastor, and a good financier. His charges always prospered under his labors. A few years previous to his death he was afflicted with what was supposed to be softening of the brain. His mental attention to religious and temporal affairs entirely failed him, so that he had to be treated as a child. I visited him a few months before his death, and took him by the hand as usual; he looked at me with great earnestness, but spoke not. We have not the dying testimony of our departed brother, but to all of us who knew him there remains a peaceful assurance that he rests with Jesus in heaven. Thus died our beloved brother and colaborer at Lawrenceville, St. Lawrence County, N. Y., December 1, 1873, aged about seventy-two years.

E. A. Helmershausen.

EDWIN ADAMS HELMERSHAUSEN was born in Jefferson, Maine, October 9, 1818. He was converted at Waldoborough in 1842, and received into the M. E. Church and licensed to preach the same year. He joined the conference, at Bath, in 1843. He was married to Matilda Williams July 25, 1848, and after her death was married to Annie F. Bran May 31, 1853. He died suddenly, of heart disease, November 10, 1873.

Brother Helmershausen was four years a member of the Maine, and twenty-six years a member of the East Maine, Conference. In all he spent thirty years of toil in the Master's vineyard. He filled the following appointments: Machias, Cherryfield, Columbia, Calais, Damariscotta and Bremen, Bristol and Bremen, Camden, Oldtown, Frankfort, Dexter, Orono, Brewer, Bucksport, Bangor District, Thomaston, Wiscasset, Bucksport District, and Rockland District. In 1860, and again in 1868, he was a delegate to the General Conference.

In character Brother Helmershausen was manly, courageous, sincere; in his intercourse with men, outspoken and above dissimulation. His rebuke was sometimes sharp, but his act was always kind. His intellect was clear and direct in its modes of action, and eminently practical. He gave but little attention to the fossils of the past, or to the dreams of the future. He was a man of the present, dealing with living issues. As a preacher, he was pointed and practical, often enforcing truth with the keen blaze of satire. His discourses lingered in the memory. As a writer, he was graceful and entertaining, and often evinced a deep and tender pathos. His end was peace.

W. Wyman, Rishworth J. Ayer —2.

1. WILLIAM WYMAN died in Farmington, Me., March 7, 1874, aged sixty. He was born in Clinton, Me., but the most of his early life was spent in Skowhegan. When quite young he became the subject of renewing grace, and in due course of time felt the quickened impulses of his nature drawing him into the ministry of the Lord Jesus Christ. He became connected with the Maine Conference in 1840. The following charges were blessed with his labors: New Portland, Anson, Phillips, Wayne, New Sharon, and Sidney. From 1842 to 1845 he located; in 1850 he was made a supernumerary for one year; in 1853 he was superannuated, and in 1854 located. He was re-admitted in 1871, and granted a supernumerary relation without appointment. In addition to the above he filled the following under appointment of the presiding elder: Bingham, Athens and Brighton, Leeds, Lisbon, Livermore, and Weld. On all these charges he did the work of an evangelist, made proof of his ministry, and gained souls for his Master. The labor of what would have been a successful life was embarrassed by a weak and diseased body. A strong spirit sought to labor during the intervals of sickness. Increasing infirmities finally laid him aside from active work, though his soul still longed to be employed. As a supernumerary preacher he was always a warm supporter of the pastor, a zealous worker in the social meetings, an intelligent Christian citizen, and an earnest advocate of every good cause. During the past winter, in a season of revival at Farrington, his soul was greatly lifted up. During his brief, fatal illness, his soul would constantly break out praising God. His last intelligible words were, "Come, Lord," and he was taken to his eternal rest.

2. RISHWORTH J. AYER, son of Rev. Philip Ayer, was born in Standish, Me., November 15, 1803. His mother dying in his infancy, he was brought up to manhood by his grandmother Richardson, in Monmouth. He was converted in his fourteenth year, and entered the Maine Annual Conference in 1826. Of the forty-eight years of his itinerancy eighteen were effective, nine supernumerary, and twenty-one superannuated.

Although his early advantages were limited, he was endowed with peculiar gifts for the ministry—sound judgment, ready utterance, persistent energy, connected with a deep and abiding piety—which gave him a commanding influence upon his various charges. He was greatly beloved by his brethren, both in the ministry and membership. His incessant labors early undermined his strong constitution, consequently the greater portion of his life was spent, under the advisement of the conference, out of the effective relation. The Lord gave him many souls as the seals of his ministry. While he gave himself to the practice of medicine, when his health failed him, he was none the less true to God and the Church. In the early days of his itinerancy he professed, and exemplified through his future life, the doctrine of perfect love. He was best loved where most known. He served the following charges: Baldwin, Waterford, Livermore, Kennebunk, Kennebunkport, Durham, Bucksport, Pittston, Union, East Vassalborough, China, Sabatusville, South Wayne and Leeds, East Readfield and Kennebec Center, South Leeds, Monmouth and South Leeds, Auburn. His last place of residence was Mechanic Falls, where he was greatly esteemed as a man and physician. He departed from this life suddenly. His disease (typhoid pneumonia) was of the most serious cast, and raged violently, so that he had but little communing with his friends, and soon ceased to live. But for him to live had been Christ, and to die was gain. He leaves his companion and two children, with their families, to mourn the loss of a good husband and father. He died January 17, 1874, aged seventy years, full of days and usefulness.

Gustavus Hines, N. Rounds—2.

1. GUSTAVUS HINES was born in Winfield, Herkimer County, New York, September 16, 1809. His conviction for sin was deep and pungent. But on November 29, 1827, "while praying in the agony of self-despair, as quick as the spark from the smitten steel the blessing came, and the language of praise glowed upon my lips."

On the following day he was received as a probationer into the M. E. Church. Immediately after his conversion, to quote his own words, his "call to preach the Gospel was truly overwhelming." He was licensed to preach in 1832, and was employed by the presiding elder during the remainder of that year. In 1833 he was received on trial by the Genesee Conference, and appointed junior preacher to the old Bridgway Circuit. In 1834 he was returned as preacher in charge. In 1835 he was stationed at Niagara Circuit, in 1836 at Otto, in 1837 at the Lodi (now Gowanda) Station, and in 1838 at the Pike Station. In 1839 a call was made through the public journals for missionaries to Oregon, to which he responded in a letter to Bishop Hedding, and immediately received from him an appointment to that work. In company with what was known as "the great reinforcement to Oregon," he left New York on the 9th of October, 1839, and, after a voyage of nearly eight months, landed at Vancouver June 1, 1840. Oregon was then an Indian mission, and the object of his appointment was to labor among the Indians. His first appointment was among the Umpqua Indians, in Southern Oregon; but after exploring the field, in company with Rev. Jason Lee, superintendent, it was decided not to attempt the establishment of a mission among these Indians at that time. At the next mission conference, which was in 1841, he was appointed Superintendent of the Oregon Mission Manual Labor School, and preacher in charge at Chemeketa, now Salem. This was the first regular appointment at Salem, and he organized the First Methodist Episcopal Church at that place in 1841. He remained in charge of the school and circuit until 1843. In May, 1844, he was sent to Oregon City as preacher in charge of a large circuit. Here he remained until the autumn of 1845, when he embarked for New York, where he arrived in May, 1846, and resumed his place in the Genesee Conference. In September, 1846, he was appointed to Victor Station; in 1847 and 1848 to Pike Station; 1849, Covington; 1850 and 1851, Lancaster; 1852, Spencerport. In December, 1852, he was transferred to Oregon Conference, and in 1853 was appointed to the Vancouver and Dallas Circuit; in 1854, Salem; in 1855, Columbia River District, where he labored four years; in 1859, Albany and Lebanon. From this period he was engaged in the regular work in Oregon, as presiding elder and preacher in charge, until elected to the General Conference of 1868, at which time he published his "History of Oregon." On his return from the General Conference he was sent to the Dalles, and then to Oregon City, where about three years ago he was attacked with hemorrhage of the lungs, which terminated in consumption, placing him on the superannuated list in 1871.

Throughout his illness perfect peace and resignation to the will of God was always expressed when conversing with friends. On his spiritual horizon rested no cloud, and often a realizing sense of the Divine Presence caused a deep anxiety to depart and be with Christ. From Thursday, the 4th of last December, his sufferings were intense until the 9th, when at eleven o'clock and fifteen minutes he put off his earthly tabernacle, and in the foremost rank of laborers in the vineyard there was one less, and one more in the rest of heaven.

2. NELSON ROUNDS, son of Alfred and Mary Rounds, was born in Winfield, Herkimer County, New York, May 4, 1807. He was converted at a prayer-meeting at a private house when but nine years of age. While standing between his father's knees, his cousin leading in prayer, the Spirit took hold of him, and falling upon his knees, he was immediately and powerfully converted. In consequence of this both his parents soon experienced religion. His two sisters, the only remaining members of the family, were soon converted also. These have all long since died in hope of a glorious immortality.

Being bereft of his parents when young, Brother Rounds earned his own living, paid his own tuition, and graduated with honor at Union College, New York, in 1829, when but twenty-two years of age. Twelve years after his conversion he consecrated himself wholly unto the Lord. He was licensed to exhort November 7, 1830, and to preach June 24, 1831. He was admitted on probation in the Oneida Conference, at Loweville, July 1, 1831, and was appointed to Binghamton Circuit, with Dr. Comfort as his colleague. The next year he labored on the Green Circuit; the next, at Homer and Truxton; then at Vernon Center; then at Cazenovia—one year at each place.

In March, 1835, Brother Rounds was united in marriage to Mary Comfort, who has been his faithful companion through all his travels and labors, and smoothed his dying pillow at the last.

In 1836–37 he was Professor of Ancient Languages in Cazenovia Seminary. He then served as presiding elder of Cayuga District two years, and of the Chenango District four years. In 1844 he was elected editor of the "Northern Christian Advocate," where he served four years. He was next appointed in charge of New York Mills Circuit, where he remained two years.

At the next session of the conference its territory was divided and the Wyoming Conference formed, in which he received his appointment to Wilkesbarre Station, in Pennsylvania, where he remained two years. During the last four years, namely, from 1848 to 1852, he was a member of the Book Committee at New York. He next served as presiding elder of Honesdale District four years, and of Binghamton District four years; he was then preacher in charge at Newark Valley two years, at Nichols' Station two years, and at Berkshire Station three years. At this time his health failed so far that he was compelled to ask for a superannuated relation, being sixty years of age. But the following year he was again made effective, and appointed to Spencer Circuit, where he commenced his labors, but was soon transferred to the Oregon Conference and elected President of the Willamette University, at Salem. This position he filled with ability for two years, though much of the time in poor health. In the fall of 1871 he was elected by the Legislature of Washington Territory as Superintendent of Public Instruction, which office he filled until within two months of his death.

On the 29th of August, 1870, after forty years of toil in the itinerant ranks, he asked for and was granted a supernumerary relation. He selected a homestead in Clark County, Washington Territory, where, with his excellent family, he made his last earthly home in comparative retirement. But even there he did an excellent work in collecting the children and youth in the neighboring chapel, formed and conducted a Sabbath-school as long as his strength would permit. He arranged his business with the greatest composure, with a view to his departure. This done, he gave his dying charge and benediction to the members of the family present, and then said, "Give my love, without limit, to the absent ones—my richest blessings upon them. Tell them I have no fear of death, other than physical suffering. All beyond is bright and clear; tell them to meet me there." And then his tongue became paralyzed, and, though not able to articulate with any degree of clearness, the anxious listener caught in broken accents the words, "Jesus saves such a poor worm as I;" and then, very faintly, "Halleluia! halleluia!" and his voice was in the stillness of death.

Thus triumphantly passed away that great and good man, Dr. Nelson Rounds, at his residence in Clark County, Washington Territory, January 2, 1874, in the sixty-seventh year of his age, loved and lamented by all who knew him. He leaves a faithful companion and nine children who deeply mourn their loss.

1. REV. JAMES GREER, A.M., was born in Stark County, Ohio, December 16, 1823. Uniting with the M. E. Church as a seeker of religion in his fourteenth year, he was soon after converted. He entered Alleghany College in 1845, graduated in 1849, and immediately entered upon the ministerial work in the Erie Conference, filling, with marked success, the following appointments: 1849, Middlebury, Ohio; 1850–51, Youngstown. In 1852 he was appointed Principal of Western Reserve Seminary, at West Farmington, Ohio, which position he most fitly filled for eight successive years. He returned to the pastoral work in 1861; remained two years at Mercer, Pa., one year at Painesville, Ohio, two years at Newcastle, Pa., three years on Cleveland District, four years on Ravenna District, and at the last session of his conference received the appointment to Second Church, Akron, Ohio, from which, at the call of "the great Head of the Church," he left for the city "whose maker and builder is God," June 18, 1874.

2. HENRY W. LESLIE was born in Chardon, Geauga County, O., March 18, 1838, and died in Portland, New York, March 16, 1874, in his thirty-sixth year. Brother Leslie was converted and joined the M. E. Church at the early age of eleven years. He was early impressed with the thought that he must preach the Gospel, and resisting those impressions he lost somewhat his enjoyment and became cold. At Girard he was rebaptized with the Spirit from on high. He was now more deeply impressed with the thought that God had called him to preach the Gospel, but feeling his own unworthiness, and the responsibility of the high and holy calling, he shrank from the performance of that duty. When finally he yielded to his convictions, he wrote to his father that he could resist no longer, saying, "I have made a full surrender, and will do my duty." On the 4th of March, 1867, he was licensed to preach, and on the 4th of October, 1869, was admitted on trial into the Erie Conference. Brother Leslie's first appointment was Pine Grove and Farmington, where he spent two successful and happy years. His second field of labor was Sinclairville, where he also spent two successful years. At the last session of this conference he was appointed to the Portland charge, where he finished up his work in the ministry, and "was not, for God took him."

* Obituary not received.

Brother Leslie possessed more than a common education, having been favored in early life with collegiate advantages. He was a practical man, whether in business life or in the ministry, and he won his success by hard work. He was a kind and affectionate husband and father, a cheerful, earnest Christian, believing most heartily the doctrines taught by the M. E. Church. As a minister he was careful to declare the whole counsel of God. In the society of his brethren he was genial and happy. But his work is done. His friends were aware of the fact that he stood upon the banks of the "cold river," and as the voice of love grew fainter behind him and the shore receded, the songs of the redeemed fell upon his ear, and all his pathway was flooded with celestial light.

L. S. Jacoby, W. Schreck—2

1. L. S. JACOBY was born October 21, 1813, three days after the great battle of Leipzig, in old Strelitz, Mecklenburg, and died June 21, 1874, in St. Louis, after a lingering and painful disease, aged sixty years and eight months. He was of Jewish extraction, his father from the tribe of Levi and his mother from the priestly line. Both parents were pious, God-fearing people, who, with earnestness and deep solicitation, prayed for their children that they might find grace before God and men. The characteristic trait of this noble family, who followed in the footsteps of Abraham, was love. Amid pleasant circumstances the days of childhood passed by. Young Jacoby received a good education, especially in the ancient languages, and would have received a thorough classical education had the means of his father permitted it. In the year 1835 he was baptized by a Lutheran clergyman. The Testament which he received from the minister and earnest prayers of his parents together laid the foundation of his conversion. In the year 1839 he came to Cincinnati as physician, but afterward devoted himself to teaching, and gave instruction in the English language. At this time he attended a service of the M. E. Church, and heard Dr. Nash preach on Christmas day. In the following watch-night services he was happily converted, and joined the Church. As he was evidently a man of superior ability, he was encouraged by Dr. Nash and Brother Schmucker to enter the ministry. In August, 1841, Brother Jacoby was sent to St. Louis by Bishop Morris to start the first German mission. It is well known to the Church how the Lord blessed his labors, and how, from the small beginning, a good work was wrought. In the year 1849 he felt it his duty to do something for Germany. The Missionary Board became convinced that his views were correct, and Bishop Morris sent him to Germany, with instructions to begin his work in Bremen. With circumspection and determination he commenced his labors, and the result was the speedy formation of a Society. The result of his faithful labors in the different offices as presiding elder, pastor, editor, book agent, and superintendent, is known to the Church. After laboring in Germany for twenty-two years he returned to the United States, and was transferred by Bishop Janes to the South-western German Conference, and stationed at Eighth-street Charge, St. Louis. At the session of the last conference he was made presiding elder of the St. Louis District, but it soon became evident that his physical strength was not sufficient for the task. After the first of the new year, 1874, he was unable longer to travel; his sufferings increased while his strength decreased, but no murmur escaped his lips. He was resigned to the will of his heavenly Father, and had a strong desire to depart and be with his God. He was ready; he died happy in God, imparting blessings like a patriarch. And thus a hero and a great man fell in Israel.

While we deplore the loss of our much-esteemed brethren and fathers in Christ, it is our earnest prayer and desire that their mantle may fall upon their sons in the Gospel, and that our heavenly Father may kindly remember their stricken families. To his kind care we commend them, asking upon them his blessing and his comfort.

2. WILLIAM SCHRECK was born in Lower Prussia, near Osnabrueck, and died of inflammation of the lungs, March 30, 1874, on Herman Circuit, aged fifty-eight years. When yet young, in his native country, he was, through the instrumentality of Rev. Mr. Banning, awakened, but he was not converted until he came to this country. In the vicinity of Pittsburgh, Pa., at a camp-meeting held by our English brethren, he was translated from the power of darkness into the kingdom of God's dear Son. During the labors of Brother Kisling, in Richmond, Indiana, he united with our Church, and in the fall of 1842 he was received on trial in the Indiana Conference, and under Brother L. S. Jacoby, who was then laboring in St. Louis, Mo., he acted as a supply. He labored as an itinerant minister thirty-two years with true self-denial and holy consecration, and God blessed his efforts with remarkable success. Following are his fields of labor: As Brother Jacoby's supply he founded Herman Mission; from thence he was sent to the so-called "Lead Mines" Mission, now Galena and Dubuque; then Quincy, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Versailles Mission, (now Lake Creek Circuit,) Booneville, Missouri District, (as presiding elder,) St. Joseph, Leavenworth, Weston, Herman, (for the second time,) Mascoutah, Belleville District, (as presiding elder,) Highland, Columbus, Bushnell, Warren Circuit, and, finally, Herman, for the third time. This being his first field of labor, was also, by the Lord's counsel, his last. Here he ended his earthly career. God gave Brother Schreck success in his work; and many earnest Christian evidences of his labors and monuments of God's grace are found all over this conference. He was a pious, liberal, energetic, practical man, and a fond friend of children. He loved the doctrines and discipline of his Church, and, indeed, all its institutions. On Sunday, March 22, 1874, he, in God's providence, finished his toils. In the evening of that day his illness first became serious, though at that time he did not realize his condition. But he had already expressed his readiness for the solemn hour of death, and with deep emotions he praised the mercy and grace of the blessed heavenly Father. He died in the triumphs of our holy faith.

G. W. Warner, D. Holmes, J. Spinks—3.

1. GEORGE W. WARNER was born in Ohio, October 15, 1817, and was converted and joined the M. E. Church in 1833. He was licensed to preach in April 1840, and was appointed as supply on South Bend Circuit by Rev. Aaron Wood, Presiding Elder. The same year he was appointed as supply on Niles Circuit, Michigan Conference, with Rev. James V. Watson, and in 1841 he supplied White Pigeon Circuit. In the fall of 1842 he went to Indiana Asbury University, and at the session of the Indiana Conference, held at Crawfordsville, October, 1843, he was admitted on trial. This was, perhaps, the last conference at which Bishop Andrew presided in the North. This year he was appointed to Greencastle Circuit; in 1844, to Monticello Circuit; 1846, to Pittsburgh Circuit; 1847, Perrysville; 1849, Clinton; 1851, Rossville; 1852, Russellville and Waveland, and at the end of this year he was again superannuated. In 1854–6, Covington; 1857–8, Frankfort, when he again superannuated at the close of this year; 1858–9, Danville; 1859–61, Thornton: 1862–3, Zionsville; 1863–4, Rossville; 1865–6, Williamsport; 1866–7, Burnettsville; 1867–9, Wea Circuit; 1870–71, State Line. At the close of this year he again superannuated. In 1872–3 he was appointed as supply at Marshfield, and after three months' service had to give up the work on account of a severe attack of cancer, which baffled the skill of several physicians, and finally resulted in his death, which occurred April 30, 1874. Many of his brethren in the ministry at Indianapolis and elsewhere can bear testimony to the intensity of his sufferings and the Christian fortitude with which he bore up under these afflictions. Once he observed to his wife, "I am at a loss to understand why I am so sorely afflicted; but," he added, "it is all right, for this I do know, that when this flesh shall fail I shall rest in hope." With expressions of trust in Christ, and the glorious prospect of a blessed immortality beyond the grave, he died as the good man dies—calm, peaceful, and full of hope.

As a preacher, Brother Warner was scriptural, clear, pathetic, earnest, and successful; as a pastor, he was vigilant, with a tender regard for all his flock; as a friend, he was constant and true; as a husband, tender and affectionate; and as a Christian, conscientious, pure, unobtrusive, and earnest.

2. DAVID HOLMES departed this life November 14, 1873. He was born in Newburgh, New York, March 16, 1810. In youth he experienced the power of saving grace, and received a Divine call to the work of the ministry, and was admitted on trial in the Oneida Conference in 1834. His first appointment was Newfield Station. He was advanced rapidly from this to some of the best charges in the conference, such as Owego, Wilkesbarre, Cazenovia, Auburn, and also Susquehanna and Cayuga Districts. These were years of success in a high degree, and discovered in him great intellectual and moral worth. In 1855 he was, by special request of the Southern Illinois Conference, transferred there to take charge of an important educational enterprise. After an effective service of five years he was transferred to North-west Indiana Conference, and appointed to the following charges: La Porte, Delphi, and Pittsburgh. From 1861 to 1866 he was Principal of Battle Ground Collegiate Institute, and in 1867 Principal of Northwestern Indiana College. He again entered on regular pastoral work in 1868, and was appointed to Simpson Chapel, Greencastle, then to Brookstown and Monticello. In 1872 he was appointed to Battle Ground Station. The first half of this year he labored with great acceptability and usefulness. He was then stricken down with paralysis, from which he never fully recovered. A dark cloud was this that overspread the community, and more especially to the Church, now likely to be bereaved of one so loved and so highly esteemed. For long, weary months, in prayer and tears, his family and friends waited for his recovery, which never fully came. Each succeeding day and night seemed only as stepping-stones crossing the river on his passage to eternity, where he now rests under the crown won through the blood of the Lamb. While reason was yet on her throne the light had not faded from his eye. Memory unfolded the fraternal roll of his conference, and he said, "Tell my brethren I have fought the good fight. Tell them that I love them all, and die in hope of meeting them in heaven."

Brother Holmes was a ripe scholar, an excellent logician, a thorough educator, an able preacher, and an author of merited repute. His death was truly peaceful and happy, which occurred on Friday evening, November 14, 1873.

3. JAMES SPINKS was born in Penn, Pa. At the time of his death he was about fifty-two years old. The date of his birth is not known. When quite a youth he was converted and joined the M. E. Church, and about 1845 emigrated to Warsaw, Indiana, and engaged in teaching school. In 1851 he was licensed to preach, and employed as a supply. He was admitted on trial at the close of that year, and appointed to Perrysville Circuit. Then followed in succession Thornton Circuit, Vigo, Numa, Annapolis, Romney, West Lebanon, Burlington, and Rossville. In 1863 and 1864 he was superannuated, and in 1865 made effective and appointed to Mechanicsburgh. For the three following years he was superannuated, and in 1869 he was again made effective and appointed to Darlington; in 1870–71, to Jamestown; 1872, to Greencastle Circuit; and finally, in 1873, he became once more a superannuate. Both ordinations were performed by Bishop Ames. For ten years previous to his death Brother Spinks was sorely afflicted in his eyes, causing at times almost total blindness. For five years during this time he lived at Romney, Indiana, where his zeal in the cause of God, with his Christian deportment, always made a favorable impression for good. In labors Brother Spinks was abundant, and he did what he could to advance the Redeemer's kingdom among men. For the purpose of giving his son an education he moved to Greencastle during the year 1873. He was taken sick, June 28, with congestion of the stomach, and died June 30. During his brief illness his soul was filled with the glory of God, and he frequently expressed himself as willing to depart and be with Christ.

John Miller,* Samuel Pinkerton, Elijah M. Farr, Gideon M. Barber—4.

1. SAMUEL PINKERTON died at his residence in Indianapolis, January 28, 1874, after a long and painful illness. He was born in Preble County, Ohio, February 2, 1839, and was converted in his nineteenth year. He joined the United Presbyterian Church, of which his parents and all his friends were members. In 1862 he was married to Miss Marietta Ireland, and three years later he removed from his old home and associations to try his fortune in the growing State of Illinois. He had long deemed it his duty to preach the Gospel, but hesitated about doing so in the Church with which he was already connected. He united at once with the small Methodist Church near his new home. He was licensed first to exhort, and then to preach, and for two years, while diligently working upon his farm through the week, he preached regularly on Sabbaths. In 1867 he was admitted on trial to the South-eastern Indiana Conference. He was appointed in turn to Fairland, Marietta, and Lawrence Circuits. On the latter charge he remained two years, but during the last year he was a great sufferer. At the next conference he was assigned a superannuated relation. Not being present, he was afterward ordained at the session of the North Indiana Conference, held at Logansport in the spring of 1873, by Bishop Merrill. Had our dear brother had the health and strength he would soon have taken rank among the best and ablest of the ministry. He was a close student, coveting the best gifts of the ministry in order to increase his usefulness. Many souls were added to the Lord as seals of his ministry. He was genial in disposition, a good pastor, a faithful friend, a kind husband, and an affectionate father. His last illness was accompanied with great suffering. He was following a brother and sister in the same path to the tomb—that of inherited consumption. Although his sufferings were great, his mind was clear to the last. He had a kind word and smile for all. Friday afternoon, January 16, the writer visited him, as frequently before, and always found him happy. He said, in a low whisper,

* Obituary not received.

"Jesus can make a dying bed
Feel soft as downy pillows are,
While on his breast I lean my head,
And breathe my life out sweetly there,"

adding, "Glorious truth! Religion is glorious! Heaven will repay all my sufferings here." To his presiding elder, with whom he made all arrangements about his funeral, he said, "I am as happy as I can be all the time." His mind was calm and trustful, saying, "Precious Jesus! I am not tempted a moment to believe he forsakes me." He sweetly fell asleep in Jesus January 28, 1874, at one P. M., lacking five days of being thirty-five years of age. He ceased to work and suffer, and began to live forever.

2. Elijah M. Farr, of the South-eastern Indiana Conference, died in Williamsburgh, Indiana, March 27, 1874, aged forty years. He was born in Columbia County, Ohio, June 20, 1833. In his sixteenth year he proved the promise true—"They that seek me early shall find me"—and became a member of the Church of the United Brethren. He was united in marriage to Miss Catherine Hole in 1851, and with her he lived happily for more than twenty-two years. In 1856 he united with the M. E. Church, on Vernon Circuit, and was soon after made Sunday-school Superintendent, class-leader, and exhorter. In time he was licensed to preach, and in 1866 was employed on Westport Circuit as a "supply." The two years following he served Vienna Circuit, and in 1869 the Houston Mission. He was admitted to the South-east Indiana Conference on trial in 1870, and appointed to Nineveh Circuit, to which he was returned in 1871 and 1872. In 1873 he was appointed to Nashville Mission, and entered upon his work, but his health rapidly failed. During his illness he was cheerful and patient. His faith did not waver, and his hope was like an anchor. When asked by his friends how he felt, his answer invariably was, "I am happy;" and again and again he would repeat:

"Not a doubt doth arise
To darken my skies,
Or hide for a moment my Lord from my eyes."

While consumption was slowly and surely wasting the body, grace was continually filling his soul, enabling him to realize that "though the outward man perish, yet the inward man is renewed day by day." With great composure he gave directions concerning his funeral.

Brother Farr was greatly blessed in his labors, being instrumental in promoting the secular and spiritual interests of the Church and the salvation of many souls. He was a very kind husband, an affectionate father, and an efficient pastor.

3. Gideon M. Barber was born in Rush County, Indiana, September 25, 1824. In his twelfth year he united with the M. E. Church, and was converted in his fifteenth. He entered Asbury University in 1845, remained two years, and in 1847 commenced the study of medicine with Drs. H. G. and M. Sexton, of Rushville. In 1849 he entered the medical department of the University of New York. He practiced medicine in Rushville until he graduated at Pennsylvania University, Philadelphia, in 1857. During this year he married Miss F. E. Cassat, of Cincinnati. He removed to Connersville in 1859, where he practiced until 1866. At this place he was a popular and successful class-leader and local preacher. He took great interest in revival exercises, and managed his professional business so as to be present at nearly all the meetings, where his whole soul went out for the conversion of sinners. In 1866 he removed with his family to Madison, where his health improved. While here, in 1868, he united with the South-east Indiana Conference, and was appointed to New Washington, where one hundred and six persons were added to the Church on probation. In 1869 his appointment was Canaan, where one hundred and fifty-three were received on probation. In 1870 he was appointed to Osgood, and one hundred and fifty-seven were enrolled. In 1871, at Belleview, twenty-seven probationers were received. At North Vernon, in 1872, he received one hundred and fifty-one on probation. His last appointment was Brownstown, where he had his largest number of accessions, namely, two hundred and fifty-one, making seven hundred and thirty-nine in all. Dr. Barber was a man of warm heart, full of tender sympathy; an energetic worker, entering with all his heart into all the services of the Church. He dearly loved to preach a full and present salvation, and richly enjoyed the experience of it, and many are to-day rejoicing in the fullness of Gospel blessings through the instrumentality of this good man. A plain man, easily approached, he won friends, and, generous and true, he held them. Dr. Barber was a warm-hearted preacher, and at times rose to an earnestness in his appeals that moved the hearts of his hearers. His greatest success was, however, in his personal labors among the people from house to house. His final sickness commenced July 21, 1874; his sufferings were great. From the first he was impressed that his death was approaching. While suffering greatly, his soul was sweetly resting in the consciousness of his acceptance in Christ. He said to one, "I am happy all the time;" to another, "I am willing to suffer, as well as do, for my Master." The writer heard him say, "I would like to preach one more sermon, that I might tell how Christ supports the sick and suffering. Under such grace as he had, he stated, it was nothing to die. As the writer sat by his bed-side he said, "Tell my brethren of the conference that I died at my post."

He peacefully fell asleep in Jesus August 14, 1874, in his fiftieth year, at Brownstown, Indiana, and leaves a wife and four little children.

G. W. Friend.

GEORGE W. FRIEND was born in Greenbrier County, Virginia, February 21, 1818, and died at Lexington, Washington County, Iowa, October 21, 1873, aged fifty-five years and nine months. He was converted and joined the M. E. Church in his seventeenth year. He was licensed to preach in Indiana in 1849, and in 1853 was ordained deacon by Bishop Janes. In 1859 he was ordained elder by Bishop Simpson. In 1841 he was married to Miss Ryan, of Clark County, Indiana. In 1855 he entered the Iowa Conference on trial, and graduated to full connection in 1857. His appointments were: Crawfordsville, Blue Grass, Grand View, Libertyville, Troy, Lebanon, Winchester, Millersburgh, Richmond, Grand View, and Lexington. About four weeks after his return from our last conference session he was prostrated by the disease (typhoid fever) that caused his death. During his active ministry he never turned aside from his work, and never wanted success. He was not a brilliant speaker, but was calm, clear, logical, sound in doctrine, and he enjoyed the confidence of the people. He enjoyed the blessing of perfect love for about sixteen years, and fully exemplified it in his life. His end was peace. His death has taken from our midst one of the most exemplary members of our conference.

James Armstrong, Joshua Boucher, H. M. Curry, William Simmons—4.

1. JAMES ARMSTRONG was born in the County of Leitrim, Ireland, December 25, 1803. He came to the United States when about twelve years old. The time or place of his conversion has not been ascertained. Rev. E. H. Field says: "My acquaintance with him began in the latter part of the Conference year 1825–6, when he was employed by Rev. James M'Mahon, Presiding Elder of Portland District, to travel with me on Black River Circuit." He joined the Ohio Conference in 1827; was appointed to Monroe Circuit, Detroit District, as colleague of Rev. G. W. Walker. In 1828–9 he traveled Salt Creek Circuit. At the close of this year he was married to Miss Elizabeth Cross, who from that time shared with him the trials and triumphs of his itinerant life, and who survives to mourn his departure and to rejoice in the hope of a glorious reunion. Brother Armstrong also filled the following appointments: Burlington, Letart Falls, Gallipolis, Adelphia, Rushville, Oldtown, (now Frankfort,) Putnam, Norwich, Charleston, Mechanicsburgh, Franklinton, Worthington, London, Franklinton, Frankfort. After the formation of the Cincinnati Conference he traveled Sinking Springs Circuit, Aberdeen, Laurel, Batavia, Moscow, Laurel, Hamersville, Amelia, Williamsburgh, Moscow, Laurel, and Sardinia. Here, from advancing age and failing health, he closed his work as a traveling preacher, and at the conference of 1871 took a superannuated relation. Thus he closed his public labors, running through so many years of toil. Brother Field says: "So far as my personal knowledge extends, Brother Armstrong was an agreeable companion and colleague, zealous and faithful in the discharge of his duties, and, I doubt not, so continued to the end." He was an agreeable companion; being eminently social and cheerful in disposition, his presence always promoted cheerfulness. Extremely modest, he disliked any thing like egotism or pedantry. But how many will recollect the peculiar fervency that often attended his relation of personal experience and his prayers! Brother Armstrong was esteemed a sound, practical preacher, yet it was, perhaps, in pastoral work that he excelled. In the fall of 1867 his brethren of the Cincinnati Conference exhibited their confidence in his ability by electing him as one of their representatives in the General Conference of 1868. In that conference he performed his duties with the same modest thoroughness for which he was noted.

Since his retirement from the regular work he had several attacks of partial paralysis, which caused him to suffer some depression of mind. In the midst of his increasing bodily infirmities he continued to preach among his old friends when able to do so. In the early part of June he was taken down with sickness. Nothing serious was at first apprehended, but it was soon discovered that he was rapidly sinking with typhoid pneumonia. He complained of great distress in the region of the heart. The transition of the cheerful, active man to a condition of helplessness and extreme suffering, seemed for a time to be almost too great a shock for the mind readily to rally, and hence for a time, though expressing himself in very strong terms in regard to his faith and trust in the merits of Christ, he seemed not to be as joyful as I had often seen him. But as the end approached the sky cleared, and his expressions to his wife and friends indicated that he was resting sweetly in Jesus, and that the "peace of God which passeth all understanding" was keeping his heart and mind; and at his home near Bantam, Clermont Co., O., July 1, 1874, Rev. James Armstrong, after a long life of toil and usefulness, fell asleep, in his seventy-first year. The verdict of multitudes is, "He was a good man."

2. Joshua Boucher was born April 2, 1797, in Lee County, Va. The family removed thence to Tennessee, and in 1815 had its residence in Warren County, in that State. It was in this year that Brother Boucher was converted. The human agency employed was a pious slave belonging to his father. This fact in his religious history was never forgotten. The conviction that slavery was wrong, that the slave was a man, pervaded his very being, and from that hour he hated the institution.

On the twentieth anniversary of his birth he united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, and at Nashville, in the fall of 1818, was admitted on trial in the Tennessee Conference. His first appointment was Henderson Circuit, Kentucky. In a letter to his friend, Rev. R. Brandriff, written in 1869, he refers to this, saying: "I went to my work weeping and praying most of the way. I asked God to give me favor with the people, and to bless my feeble labors among them." It was a year of religious prosperity. The membership of the circuit was doubled. The increase was two hundred. The next two years were spent on Livingston Circuit. A gracious revival crowned the labors of those years. He then went to Green River Circuit, and at the close of the year was transferred to the Mississippi Conference. In this conference he labored four years, traveling successively Alabama, Cedar Creek, and Tuscaloosa Circuits. He then spent one year in Tuscaloosa Station, and at its close he asked for and obtained a location. His labors had been great and successful. The circuits were large, the rides long, and preaching an every-day duty. He did not locate because the work was laborious, the support meager, the accommodations often uncomfortable, but, in his own emphatic words, it was "to get out of the hell of slavery." In the spring of 1827 he removed to Ohio, and at the earliest opportunity united with the Ohio Conference. In this conference his fields of labor were respectively as follows: First, Bellefontaine Circuit, then Union; in 1830 he was returned superannuated; in 1831–32, Piqua Circuit; then Springfield, London, Urbana Station, Troy, Westchester, Urbana Circuit, Mechanicsburgh, and Union. He had charge in each of these appointments except Bellefontaine. On all these fields there yet lingers the memory of his labors and usefulness, and to many his name and friendship are still precious. Prior to the General Conference of 1836 the agitation of the question of slavery in the Church was begun, and, subsequent to that conference, was continued with increased zeal and activity. This resulted, as is well known, in the organization, in 1843, of the Wesleyan Methodist Church, on strictly antislavery principles. The antecedents of Brother Boucher, and his avowed antislavery sentiments, led him to sympathize with this movement, and in the fall of 1843 he withdrew from the Ohio Conference in order to connect himself with it. In his own language, "I felt conscience-bound to take this step." The sacrifice to him was great. In a conversation with the writer in June, 1873, he adverted with deep feeling to the mental struggles through which he then passed, and expressed the pain he felt at separating himself from his loved colaborers. "But," said he, "I had always tried to be honest, and to act from principle." When the record of the M. E. Church was made right on this matter, Brother Boucher, with others, availed himself of it at the meeting of the Cincinnati Conference, in Urbana, in 1867. The cordiality with which he and other Wesleyan brethren were received to membership in the conference at that time was felt and appreciated as an act of Christian courtesy, honorable to the conference and grateful to these brethren. Brother Boucher's name was placed in the list of superannuates, and so continued till the day of his death. The infirmities of age were upon him. For years he had been afflicted with partial paralysis of the lower limbs. In October, 1872, the wife of his youth passed away to the better land. He felt sorely this sad bereavement, and from that time his decline was rapid. "He longed to depart and be with Christ." In June, 1873, impelled by an intense desire to see the friends of other years, and meet once more with his brethren in the approaching conference, he left his residence in Missouri for Piqua, Ohio, and, though wearied and exhausted, he succeeded in reaching the home of his friend, Rev. R. Brandriff. The experiment convinced him that he had made a mistake, and the necessity for his immediate return became apparent. In company with his daughter, he reached his home in Kingston, Missouri, the latter part of June, but was soon after taken very ill; so much so that, for a time, his life was despaired of. But, by the blessing of God on medical aid and skillful nursing, he rallied once more, and, till November 14, passed the time in comparative comfort. Of his religious state during these weeks, his daughter, in a letter to Rev. R. Brandriff, of September 8, 1873, thus speaks: "His confidence in the Lord remains unshaken, and almost daily he remarks, 'I am only waiting, waiting to go home.'" The day of dependence was soon to end; for, on the 14th of November, he was taken very suddenly and dangerously ill. For some hours he suffered the most intense pain. This was followed by a stupor which lasted several days, during which he scarcely noticed any thing. Partially roused from this state, his daughter says, "that for two days and nights his mind seemed to wander back to years gone by, and he would talk of preaching, and of carrying his saddle-bags as he rode from circuit to circuit, frequently murmuring the names of Brandriff and Raper." The day before he died he awoke to perfect consciousness, expressed his devout thankfulness for freedom from pain, and observed to his children, whom he fully recognized, "I shall soon be with your mother in heaven." To a friend who came in he exclaimed, "All is well; I will soon know as I am known." Thus, in joy and hope, closed the life of Joshua Boucher, on the evening of November 22, 1873, at Kingston, Caldwell County, Missouri, in the seventy-seventh year of his age and the fifty-fifth of his ministry.

3. Hiram M. Curry was born in Adams County, Ohio, April 7, 1818, and died in Fletcher, Miami County, March 3, 1874, in the fifty-sixth year of his age. A mother's Christian faithfulness led him early to love the Saviour. The sense of his acceptance in Christ was in a measure lost in youthful years, and not regained until in his twentieth year, during a revival at Ebenezer Church, Aberdeen Circuit. The impression of duty to preach the Gospel was felt long before he was reclaimed, and not until he yielded consent to this duty did peace return. He faithfully performed the duties of a local preacher for several years, two of which were spent on a stated charge under the direction of the presiding elder. He was admitted on trial into the Ohio Conference in 1848, and appointed to Lexington Circuit. East White Oak, Lewis, Montgomery, and No Creek circuits followed in succession. In 1854 and 1855 he was presiding elder on Green River District. In 1856 he was again sent to No Creek Circuit, then to Montgomery Circuit, and Germantown. 1859 and 1860 he was presiding elder of Covington District, and in 1861 and 1862 of Mayville District—the two districts being consolidated.

He represented the Kentucky Conference in the General Conference held in Buffalo in 1860. In 1863 he was appointed to Brooklyn, Kentucky. During this year Brother Curry was transferred to the Cincinnati Conference, and appointed to West Union Circuit. His appointments in the Cincinnati Conference were as follows: Winchester, Moscow, North Lewisburg, King's Creek, and Fletcher. Brother Curry was twice married: first to Miss Louisa Craig, whose death occurred in 1857. His second marriage was to Mrs. Julia Vanduzen, of Newport, Kentucky, June 26, 1861. While in Kentucky, opposed by pro-slavery influence, he was subjected to peculiar trials and great sacrifices in serving the Church. Often "persecuted, but not forsaken; cast down, but not destroyed." Such heroism let the Church cherish in memory.

Brother Curry belonged to that class of men whose real worth is seldom fully recognized. Never seeking preferment, nor thrusting himself into notice, he accepted the work assigned him in the spirit of cheerfulness, and performed the duties of an itinerant fully and faithfully. Few men of his time did more hard work. His ministry was productive of good. His was depth and strength rather than brilliancy. He was a workman that needed not be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth. The doctrines of the Bible were by him ably maintained, sin was fearlessly rebuked, and the Discipline faithfully enforced. He steadily and lovingly held forth the attainment of scriptural holiness as the Christian's privilege and duty, and humbly supplemented his advocacy with his personal experience of the cleansing efficacy of the blood of Christ. For many months it became apparent that the toil of years was developing fatal results. Disease, in complicated form, was destroying the earthly house. But with persistent energy he toiled on when he should have rested. His heart was set on his work. Though his step faltered, and his attitude was unsteady, he yet stood, February 22, at the altar of God, and delivered the message of warning and love. His work was done. A few days of unavailing effort to rally nature from the effect of that breath which chills to warm no more brought him to his last Sabbath. It was a day of review. Cause of humiliation was deeply felt, but upheld by triumphant grace. As memory swept through fifty years of mercy and labor, his exultation was, "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith." But his most tender affections and touching expressions were toward his wife and children. Of their homelessness and helplessness and destitution he spoke from a husband's and a father's heart; but with a Christian's faith, in wrestling prayer, he commended them to God. Two days more of preaching, exhorting, praying, mind-wandering, and the weary wheels of life stood still

4. William Simmons was born in Mason County, Kentucky, June 24, 1798. When about one year old his parents removed to Ohio and settled in Clermont County, where some of the family still reside. He was converted in 1816 under the ministry of Rev. John Strange. After his conversion he was strongly impressed that it was his duty to enter the Christian ministry; but against this conviction he struggled for four years. On the 17th day of July, 1820, in the house of Benjamin Penn, near the Gregg camp-ground, he was licensed to preach, and recommended to the Ohio Conference. He was received by that body the same year. His first appointment was to Piqua Circuit, which embraced twenty-eight preaching places, to be visited monthly. The same territory now includes four stations and nearly a dozen circuits. He was then sent to London Circuit, a field of labor very similar, in extent and difficulties, to the former. It should be borne in mind that the times of which we speak were long before the railroad and steamboat and turnpike. Traveling was on horseback, often through unbroken forests, guided by marks on trees, and frequently through dismal swamps. On this circuit his horse fell under him, as he slowly and painfully toiled through a deep forest, and was dead in five minutes, leaving him without means to travel, and far from home. Through the efforts of kind friends an amount was raised in about six weeks sufficient to replace the horse. His salary that year was just forty-eight dollars. After mentioning this fact, he adds, "I thanked God, and took courage." We cease to wonder at the marvelous success of our early itinerants, with such records as this before us. "In the fifty years of my itinerant life," said our brother, in his semi-centennial sermon in 1870, "I have traveled more than one hundred thousand miles, preached more than five thousand times, and seen more than ten thousand conversions and additions to the Church." His salary during this long period of heroic toil and glorious success averaged four hundred dollars a year. But of this support, or rather lack of support, he never complained. His own words are, "Somehow, by rigid economy, I have kept square with the world, and have now no fear of want in my old age; for I have God's promise that my bread and water shall be sure." Deer Creek, Scioto, and Bush Creek were successively his next appointments in 1822–24. From Bush Creek Circuit he was sent to Detroit, in 1825, as presiding elder of that district, which included the whole of Michigan and a part of Northern Ohio. But in addition to the work of this immense district he was pastor of the Church in Detroit, a town at that time of less than three thousand inhabitants, of whom but fifty were Methodists. The labors of this year, among whites and Indians, in that comparatively new and wild region, were very exacting, and taxed our brother's strength so severely that he was greatly broken in health when, in the fall of 1826, he started to conference, which assembled in October, in the town of Hillsborough. It appears, from a brief entry in the small pocket diary already referred to, that this immense district, embracing the whole State of Michigan and part of Ohio, with the help of Detroit Station, paid Mr. Simmons that year a salary of eighty-eight dollars. Mr. Simmons was next appointed to Chillicothe Station, at that time the most responsible and important charge in the conference outside of Cincinnati. From the meager records of this period we gather that the year in this city was one of marked success, but not without its conflicts. A great ball was announced to take place on the 22d of February, and Methodists, as well as other professing Christians, were expected to participate in this exciting and dangerous amusement. Mr. Simmons preached with such power and force of argument against the sin and folly of such worldly pleasures that the ball was abandoned. Referring to this time, he says: "I preached then against dancing and balls, because I believed, as I do now, that they are methods of the devil to draw souls from Christ." This was nearly forty years ago. In the matter of conformity to the world, great changes of opinion and practice have marked the progress of Methodism; but it will occur to some, perhaps, that, had the uncompromising and somewhat stern morality of the fathers been adhered to more closely by their descendants, it would be better to-day for the purity and spirituality of the Church. His appointments after Chillicothe were Miami, Milford, White Oak, Hamilton, Dayton, Lebanon, Zanesville, Portsmouth, Marietta, New Richmond, Urbana District, Bethel, (Cincinnati,) York-street, (Cincinnati,) West Cincinnati Mission, Asbury, (Cincinnati,) Hillsborough District, Xenia District, Old Town, Tremont, Gaddis Chapel, (Dayton,) Urbana District, and Jamestown. For several years past he has been agent of the Freedmen's Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, an appointment which he held at the time of his death; so that, in his long ministerial life, embracing fifty-four years, his relation to his conference has always been that of an effective preacher.

Father Simmons was a man of one work. Equally with St. Paul he could say, "This one thing I do." He was a man of inflexible integrity. The name of William Simmons was a synonym for honesty, and was associated in the public mind with a feeling of safety in regard to any interest which might be committed to his keeping. He possessed some rare qualities for the office of presiding elder, to which he was so repeatedly appointed. He had great kindness of disposition, unusual firmness of purpose, and remarkable self-control. He exhibited politeness without affectation, dignity without pride, and, in the chair of the quarterly conference, a strict adherence to rules of order and the requirements of the Discipline without offensive pertinacity. And he was distinguished for his skill and dispatch in business, as well as for sound judgment in the council of the bishop.

To the cause of temperance he gave a life-long and whole-hearted service. In the early days of this reform, when it was far less popular than now, he espoused it with a zeal that suffered no abatement as he advanced in life. He was an intelligent and active promoter of all the great educational enterprises of the Church. It is well known that the Xenia College has never had a more faithful friend than William Simmons. For many years he was President of the Board of Trustees, and on several occasions, when confined to his house by sickness, called that body together and presided over its deliberations in his sick-chamber. While presiding elder of Springfield District, many years ago, his labors in behalf of the college there were incessant, efficient, and very highly appreciated by the Church throughout that region.

As a minister of the Gospel, Mr. Simmons possessed largely the qualities, moral and mental, which constitute a useful preacher. His understanding was clear and discriminating, and his heart susceptible of strong and tender emotion. His habit of reasoning was logical and convincing. His style was simple, neat, and dignified. His sermons were doctrinal and practical. They set forth the truths of religion in their scriptural form, and carried them out into their practical uses. Taking his ministry as a whole, it was very successful, both in the conversion of sinners and the advancement of believers in scriptural holiness. "I was traveling the old White Oak Circuit," said he, "and present at the camp-meeting in 1832, when Randolph S. Foster was converted while I was kneeling by his side; and O how he did shout!" And Bishop Foster writes concerning him: "I should be glad to give my testimony of affection and admiration, in honor of a life of so much beauty and worth as has thus, by death, been terminated here, to unfold in still greater beauty and perfection in realms where no death is. He needs no such testimony as mine, since God has given his."

The writer asked him if he had any message for his brethren in case he could not be with them in person. "Tell them," he said, "that I have tried to be an honest, faithful minister, and that my one work through life has been to save souls. I love them all." "Tell my brethren," said he on his death-bed, "I am now ready to be offered, and the time of my departure is at hand. I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith; henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, shall give me at that day; and not to me only, but unto all them also that love his appearing." In this frame of mind, and with such expressions as these, he breathed his life out on Thursday morning, August 6, 1874, at two o'clock, so gently and sweetly that it was impossible to tell the precise moment when he was "absent from the body and present with the Lord."

1. JAMES L. CHILD in early life was a sailor. Soon after his conversion he connected himself with the Freewill-Baptists, and was ordained as a minister. He labored for a time with that Church acceptably and successfully. He joined the M. E. Church in 1858, was received into the Michigan Conference in 1859, and filled the following charges: Flat River, Greenville, Kelloggville, Ionia, Parma, Mendon, and Muskegon. At the close of his labors at Muskegon failing health compelled him to take a superannuated relation. During five years he suffered severely with the asthma. He went to Denver, Colorado, in hope of recovering his health, where he died, September 10, 1873, in peace and in hope of everlasting life.

2. LYMAN C. AUSTIN, was born in Macon, Lenawee County, Michigan, on the third day of July, 1846. His conversion occurred near White Hall, Michigan, in the sixteenth year of his age, under the ministry of Rev. L. J. Griffin. From early childhood he was impressed that his mission was to preach the Gospel. Conversion ripened this impression into a deep and settled conviction. The care of a widowed mother hindered for a time his entering upon the ministry of the word. Struggling through all embarrassments, he finally gave himself wholly to the work of God at the session of our conference in September, 1869. His appointments were Bear Lake, Benona, and Pewamo. At the latter place he preached but six times, and entered into rest. Brother Austin was married in May, 1870, to Miss Emma J. Lewis. His death occurred at Pewamo, Michigan, December 24, 1873, at the age of twenty-seven years. His end was not only peaceful, it was a victory of faith. A few minutes before his death he repeated a part of that precious hymn, "Jesus, lover of my soul." His last audible words were, "Jesus, come quickly." Death came to him at the opening of what promised to be a life of great usefulness. His name needs no eulogy. His memory is embalmed in the hearts of those who knew him, and his record is on high.

Daniel M. Conant, Clark Johnson, John A. Mudge, Elnathan Raymond*—4.

1. DANIEL M. CONANT, one of the veterans of the North Ohio Conference, closed his life and work together at his residence in Nevada, Ohio, December 27, 1873, in the seventy-eighth year of his age. He was born in Herkimer County, N. Y., February 19, 1786. At the age of eighteen he joined the Church. He was married September, 1816, to Miss Timena Wardwell. In 1819 they came to Ohio, where, in 1820, after profound convictions of duty, he commenced preaching the Gospel, and amid the hardships of a wilderness country, continued to labor as a local preacher until 1833, when he was employed by the presiding elder, W. B. Christie, to travel on Brunswick Circuit. At the previous Ohio Conference he was admitted on trial, and, in 1837, graduated to elder's orders. The charges which he served for over forty years made him widely known in almost every part of the Conference. In the fall of 1871 he superannuated, yet he continued to preach frequently, and with acceptability, until the last. Brother Conant was a man of good common sense and fair preaching abilities. He was well posted in the doctrines and Discipline of the Church; was genuine and cheerful in temperament. He was faithful and earnest in pastoral work, and gathered many souls into the Church of God. His Christian spirit and ministerial dignity often commanded the respect and secured the confidence of those who were not professors of religion. The carefulness with which he guarded his reputation, for consistency and purity in the ministry, left no foundation for the tongue of scandal, and made him welcome wherever he was sent. His end was peace. Thus has a veteran soldier of the cross, after fifty-eight years in the Church, and over fifty-three in the ministry, local and traveling, passed to his rest.

* Obituary not received.

2. CLARK JOHNSON was born in Northamptonshire, England, October 11, 1821, and died of apoplexy March 29, 1874, near Harvard, M'Henry County, Ill. In his fourteenth year he embraced religion and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was licensed to exhort about the age of eighteen. He spent one or two years at the Norwalk Seminary in preparing himself for the work of the Christian ministry, and when about twenty years old he was received into the North Ohio Conference on trial. At the close of his fourth year in the ministry he was placed upon the superannuated list. Twice afterward he was made effective, but in each case failed to fill his work till the close of the year. Insanity had seized him, with its giant and withering grasp, and relentlessly held him as its victim till death kindly came to his relief. He was a young man of fine talents, a close, faithful, and persevering student, a ready and fluent speaker, and bid fair to rank among the ablest of the members of our Conference. Few ever entered the Conference with brighter prospects, and seldom are such prospects so completely darkened. From the time he embraced religion until his reason was affected nothing was alleged against his reputation or character. He was pious, devoted, ardently attached to the Church, and had an earnest desire to be an able and successful minister of the Gospel. His sun of life set in darkness and gloom, but we trust that the Saviour, to whom he gave himself in early life, has received him to the rest of the redeemed above.

3. JOHN A. MUDGE was born October 27, 1829, and died October 27, 1873, in the forty-fourth year of his age and in the twenty-fourth of his ministry. His early life, amid the excitements and hardships of the brave settlers of a new country, gave him a vigorous physical development, with but limited opportunities for mental culture. He improved his limited advantages, showing early a vigorous mind. At a meeting held by the Rev. Philip Start, of precious memory, in a schoolhouse, he, with his schoolmate, Rev. E. H. Bush, was soundly converted. His gifts and graces soon led the people to say, "That young man is moved by the Holy Ghost to preach." Feeling his need of a more thorough preparation to meet the demands of the ministry, he entered the school at Berea, with Rev. W. L. Harris as principal. While he always regretted that he could not graduate at college, yet his graduation in the office and work of the ministry was accepted by the people. From his reception on trial in the Conference in 1850, and his appointment to Bellevue Circuit, he arrested attention, giving promise of more than ordinary usefulness. The appointments he filled, meeting as he did in every case the varied demands of the most important charges in the bounds of the North Ohio Conference, is the best eulogy that can be pronounced for his substantial worth.

His success in meeting each new measure of trust, with increased power to meet the demand, is the best exhibit of his varied endowments; clear in his judgment, diligent in his studies, thorough in his preparation for the pulpit, eloquent in his utterances, frank in his social life, diligent in all the details of work, combining elements of permanent and increasing success. All the interests and enterprises of the Church were safe in his hands. The Conference in electing him as its secretary, and as a delegate to the General Conference, bestowed honor upon one worthy in every way to receive it, one who magnified his office and kept sacredly his trust. There are many monuments in fine churches and excellent parsonages erected through his inspiration, skill, and perseverance, yet there is a more enduring monument in the many loving hearts who delight to refer to him as their spiritual guide and instructor. He was successively married to Miss Campbell of Bellevue, Miss Beverstock of Monroeville, and Miss Greene of Monroeville, ladies of rare excellence and peculiar fitness for the difficult position of an itinerant's wife, rendering his home pleasant, his heart cheerful, and his hands free to do the important work assigned him. His son Willie and his stricken widow are all that remain of his once happy family. Although Brother Mudge was stricken down in the strength of his manhood, amid the development of new plans for usefulness, through grace he was enabled to say, "Thy will be done." With a pleasant consciousness of the Divine favor, and a clear conviction that he was in the path of duty, his was "the path of the just that shineth more and more unto the perfect day." His last testimonies gave assurance of the abiding presence of the Mighty to Save. "Be ye also ready."

A. P. White, H. Gibson, B. F. Myers, H. W. Hunt, H. P. Blood—5.

1. ASA P. WHITE was born in Middlebury, Vt., May 15, 1797, and most peacefully fell asleep in Jesus, near Calistoga, Napa County, Cal., November 8, 1873, aged seventy-six years. He was converted to God in his fifteenth year, commenced preaching the Gospel when about twenty-one years of age, and for many years did successful work for his Master in the new and growing settlements of Illinois, where he was instrumental in bringing hundreds of souls to Christ. He and his family arrived in San Francisco

May 10, 1849, and on the spot where now stands the parsonage of the Powell-street Church he pitched his blue tent, which for a considerable time afterward served the double purpose of parsonage and church, and at that early period he here gathered from time to time such as were willing to hear from him the Word of Life. During the principal part of his ministry in California he labored under the direction of the presiding elders, but in 1858 he was admitted into the California Annual Conference. For the last three years of his life Father White was confined to his house, and much of the time to his bed, by paralysis, but in this affliction he seemed to have a perpetual feast, for Jesus was with him, and "supped with him, and he with Jesus." His closing years were made glorious.

2. Hugh Gibson was born in Harrisburgh, Pennsylvania, July 25, 1812. His parents removed to Ohio when the son was seventeen years of age. He was converted and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1831. In 1838 he was licensed to preach, and in 1839 he united with the Pittsburgh Conference. In 1844 Brother Gibson joined the Iowa Conference, of which he remained a faithful member till 1866, rendering effective service, except when impaired health rendered it necessary for him to rest for a season. In 1866 he was transferred to the California Conference. His fields of labor were Linden, Woodbridge, Santa Clara Circuit, and Round Valley Indian Reservation as Agent. After serving a year and a half in the last field, his health failing, he resigned his position, and moved with his family to Los Angelos County, where he lingered a few months, gradually sinking, till November 9, 1873, when his sufferings were ended, and he passed peacefully to his reward. As the time of his departure drew near he was calm, trustful, and happy. He had set his house in order, and was, through grace, ready for the summons of the Master. Brother Gibson was a good preacher, a plain, modest, and faithful laborer in his Lord's vineyard. He labored in the itinerant work for a period of thirty-four years, enduring faithful service. He, doubtless, has many stars in his crown of rejoicing.

3. Benjamin F. Myers was born in Chillicothe, Ohio, April 19, 1801, and died in Stockton, California, July 18, 1874. He was converted at nine years of age, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. In 1833 he entered the Ohio Conference, where he labored with great acceptability and success for ten years, when his health failed. The next seven years he was judge of Licking County, Ohio. He came to California in 1850. In 1857 he joined the California Conference, and was in active service twelve years. In 1869 he was superannuated, which relation he sustained until death. His last illness was endured without complaint, though full of excruciating pain. He passed away sweetly, as though falling asleep. The charges he filled in Ohio were Wooster, Somerset, Cambridge, Newark, Granville, and Hebron. In the California Conference, Sutter County, Weaverville, Jackson, Coloma, Cacheville, Bodega-Vallejo, Centerville, Woodbridge, and Linden. Brother Myers' early experience in divine things settled his religious convictions, and he was always a firm believer in the truth of the Bible, and the power of Christ as a personal Saviour. He was a man of very positive and deep-seated convictions, and consequently firm in his allegiance to them. In the early part of his ministry his efforts were the scene of wondrous revival power. Disease and long absence from regular work took away some of that early fire and fervor, but the true itinerant spirit was maintained until the last. Through all the various secessions from the Methodist Episcopal Church he remained firm, and never did that love and interest seem greater than during the last year of his life. He was much more than an ordinary man. Possessed naturally of good powers, he improved them by patient culture. Especially during the years of his superannuated relation did he reexamine, in the light of recent scientific discoveries and attacks of infidelity, the foundations of our Christian structure, and his testimony in conversation and in religious gatherings was that they were well-grounded. His spirit was of that broad catholicity which rejoiced in the happiness of all. Subject to the common frailties and weaknesses of men, he yet had made much progress toward the development of a noble and manly Christian character. In every department of the Church, and general progress of morality and religion he was deeply interested. When the summons came for his removal from earth he was neither alarmed nor unprepared, but triumphed completely over his last foe. One by one the veterans fall, and he has gone to join the innumerable company on the other shore. Following on, may we all safely gather in the palace of God.

4. Henry W. Hunt was born in Raleigh, North Carolina, December 20, 1801. When four years of age his parents emigrated to Robertson County, Tennessee. He was converted when ten years of age; was received on trial in the Kentucky Conference in 1823, in the class with Edwin Ray and John P. Finley. Rev. Peter Cartwright, then in the vigor of his early manhood, was his first presiding elder. Brother Hunt traveled five years, rendering effective service. His health partially failing, he was placed on the supernumerary list for a single year, at the close of which he was granted a location. He at once engaged in teaching, in which calling he was eminently successful and useful. He was a faithful, acceptable, and able preacher in the local ranks. He came to California in 1856, settled in Stockton, and soon after opened a select school. In 1860 he was readmitted into the California Conference, and was appointed to the Stockton Female Seminary. He was regularly appointed to that work at each successive session of the Conference till 1873, when he was granted a superannuated relation.

Dr. Hunt was a man of superior ability, modest to a fault, deeply pious, and warmly attached to his brethren in the ministry. During his residence in the South he was a steadfast friend of the M. E. Church, even when loyalty in such regard imperiled life and property. His last illness was protracted, and his sufferings were severe, yet he was patient, submissive, and happy in the Lord. He closed his eyes in death on the 8th of January, 1874, passing through the valley to the land of eternal blessedness, on which the light of life beams evermore.

5. H. P. Blood was born in Bucksport, Maine, February 5, 1825, and died in Sacramento, California, February 21, 1874. He was converted when twelve years of age, and became a member of the M. E. Church. He joined the East Maine Conference on probation in 1855, and received deacon's orders May 23, 1858, by Bishop Janes, and elder's orders, by the same bishop, April 15, 1860. In the East Maine Conference he served with acceptability the following appointments: Sebec, Brownsville, Parkman Circuit, Unity and Troy, each two years; Clinton and Burnham, each three years; Old Town Circuit, two years; Western Circuit, three years. In 1872 he was transferred by Bishop Andrews to the California Conference, where he filled but two appointments—Bangor and Scott's Valley—when failing health compelled him to retire from the work. During the last three years of his active life he was very useful in the great revival work in Sacramento, exhorting and praying with great power and effect. His last sermon was preached with unusual freedom and power, in the Sixth-street M. E. Church, on the evening of February 6, from Rev. xvii, 17. His pulpit efforts were plain, practical, and sometimes powerful. The atonement, in its power to save from all sin, was the central thought of all his sermons. He sought and obtained the blessing of perfect love many years ago, and his life was an indorsement of the genuineness of his profession. As a pastor, he was faithful and greatly beloved, always doing what he called "little errands for Jesus." His death was very triumphant. After prayer by Dr. Haswell, his Christian physician, during which he shouted, "Glory! glory!" he requested his daughter to play just once more for him, and while her skillful fingers lightly touched the keys to the immortal Cookman's dying shout—"Sweeping through the gates, washed in the blood of the Lamb"—his countenance suddenly lighted with a sweet smile as he lifted both hands toward heaven and passed away to the "evergreen shore," while wave after wave of glory filled the room, and all felt that the chamber where this "good man met his fate" was "privileged above the common walks of life, quite on the verge of heaven." So it may be said of him as of Enoch, "He walked with God, and was not, for God took him."

N. Hough.

NOAH HOUGH was born in Loudon County, Virginia, June 10, 1809, and died February 19, 1874. He came to Ohio when but a boy, located near Jamestown, Greene County, and lived in that county fifty-six years. He embraced religion at a camp-meeting held on Paint Creek, near Jamestown, Chillicothe District, Ohio Annual Conference, through the labors of Rev. Russell Bigelow, and was licensed to exhort and preach the same year. He was admitted in 1839 into the Ohio Conference, in which he labored six years. During this time he received one thousand persons into the Church. He then united with the Miami Conference of the Wesleyan Methodist Connection, and traveled and labored in that connection twenty years, during which time God gave him many seals to his ministry. In 1864 he again united with the M. E. Church, and was admitted into the Central Ohio Conference, traveling five years, when his health failed, and he took a superannuated relation. As before, many were converted under his ministry, and united to the Church.

Brother Hough possessed much natural ability as a preacher, and stood in the front rank as a Bible scholar and clear logician. He had a sweet voice, which gave him a power over an audience that few possessed. He always commanded large congregations. As a writer he was racy, clear, and logical, and many of his writings on moral and religious subjects may at some future day be published. He was of a quick and industrious disposition, and allowed but little time to go to waste. His social qualities were good, but he was naturally thoughtful and reserved.

When he came to the close of life he was ready. His sick-room was constantly a place of prayer and praise. The leading desire of his heart was to preach Christ, and the last Sabbath that he lived God gave him strength to preach, a congregation having assembled in his room. Supported by pillows in his chair, he preached with the fire and power of former days, and, as he advanced in his subject, his soul glowed with the divine influence of the Spirit. Long will that hour be remembered by those who composed that little audience. His sun of life went down without a cloud—clear, calm, and serene. He died in peace with God and all mankind. "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth: Yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; and their works do follow them."

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

Thomas Carlton, Chas. Bush* —2.

1. THOMAS CARLTON, D.D., was born in Londonderry, N. H., July 26, 1808. He died in Elizabeth, N. J., April 17, 1874. While he was yet a lad his parents removed to Niagara County, N. Y., where he spent his youth in earnest toil upon the farm, with comparatively meager advantages for early education. He became the subject of renewing grace in early life, and was baptized and received into the Church by Rev. John Copeland in 1825. At the age of nineteen years he was appointed class-leader, the next year an exhorter, and the year following, 1829, was received as a probationer into the Genesee Conference. He at once began to develop talents and energy, peculiar and of high order, together with a warmth of zeal and generosity of sentiment which made him desirable as a pastor, and assured his success not only as a preacher, but especially in the management of perplexed financial and social Church interests. He rapidly graduated with the growing maturity of his years to a high and honored position, as a wise administrator, leader, and manager, in offices of greatest trust and responsibility in the Church. This will be shown by the successive appointments which he received during his protracted ministry of forty-five years. They were as follows: In 1829, Dansville; 1830, Perry and Le Roy; 1831 and 1832, Groveland; 1833, Lyons; 1834 and 1835, Agent of Genesee Wesleyan Seminary; 1836, Seneca Falls; 1837, Agent of Genesee Wesleyan Seminary; 1838 and 1839, Canandaigua; 1840 and 1841, First Methodist Episcopal Church, Rochester; 1842 and 1843, Lima; 1844, Wellsborough District; 1845-47, Niagara District; 1848, Niagara-street, Buffalo; 1849-51, Buffalo District; 1852-72, Senior Agent of the Methodist Book Concern at New York; 1873, supernumerary.

This record indicates a service of thirteen years in the regular pastoral work, seven years in the presiding eldership, and twenty years in the agency of the Book Concern. It is modest praise to say that in every one of these positions he imparted more of dignity and success than he received.

For seven successive quadrenniums Dr. Carlton was sent by the Genesee Conference to represent them in the General Conference, and with a strength of popularity which was not only unequaled, but which increased with his years. His last election, in 1872, was almost unanimous. During the whole twenty years of his services as Book Agent he performed, without compensation, the duties of Missionary Treasurer. Not less than $8,000,000 passed through his hands as Missionary Treasurer, and both the Book Concern and the Missionary treasury were safely conducted by his management through periods of the severest financial embarrassment which the country has ever experienced. He often pledged his own means to secure this result, and always during his administration the drafts of the Methodist Book Concern and the Missionary Society were received without hesitation in any part of the commercial world. The present commanding position of the Book Concern at New York, and its extended facilities for the wide dissemination of Christian literature, is to be credited, more than to any other man, to Dr. Carlton. Although our deceased brother did not occupy his position of great responsibility without exposure to unfriendly criticism, and sometimes to severe assaults upon his integrity and the purity of his motives, yet certain it is that those who knew him best, and the Conference which had confided in him so long, are ready with entire unanimity, and with most hearty emphasis, to aver their unqualified confidence in the purity of his Christian character and the unselfish integrity of his business life. But the memory of Dr. Carlton is cherished not because of his greatness, but of his brotherly goodness.

Next to his God and the Church, Dr. Carlton loved his brethren. As a minister he excelled in tact, in ability to win and move and direct human hearts. His presence and spirit and words were like perfume and oil in quieting strife and agitation. As a friend Brother Carlton's character was pre-eminent. Many a preacher who in youth enjoyed the privilege of laboring under his supervision as presiding elder will cherish through life and with tearful gratitude his gentle and generous and faithful kindnesses. And while he was the friend of the young and inexperienced, he was equally the loved and trusted counselor of our chief ministers in every department of Church duty. He could be tender and yet faithful; he was wise without ostentation. His hand was generous and strong to rescue the oppressed, to relieve the needy, and his heart overflowed with sympathy for the suffering.

As a citizen and benefactor Dr. Carlton took rank, as though it was his birthright, among the most intelligent and trusted and high-minded of men, and he was called to positions of high honor and trust in civil and social life. The funeral of Dr. Carlton was attended at Elizabeth, N. J., which had been his family residence for a number of years, and his remains were deposited in the beautiful cemetery of that city. A large number of ministers, representing several conferences, and of other denominations than our own, the city council, and chief citizens of Elizabeth, many of his former subordinates and employes in the Book Concern, and many other friends from far and near, laymen and ministers, who had known and loved and honored the deceased, were present at the funeral to attest their high esteem, and to mourn his loss. Touching and appropriate religious services, with fitting remarks from Bishop Janes, Dr. Curry, editor of the "Christian Advocate," Dr. Hunt, of the Western New York Conference, and others, with other testimonials of tender love, were offered as a farewell tribute, while his remains were attended to their last resting-place. His work is done. He has gone to his rest and his reward. A devoted wife and loving children are stricken down with a great and unutterable bereavement. He was a tender husband, a fond, indulgent, and doting father. But his memory is blessed. As we mournfully, yet thankfully, contemplate his work, his character, and his end, we cannot but feel admonished that as servants of Christ we should redeem the time, as we, too, must die.

QUEST. 14. Have any been Expelled?

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

I. S. Armstrong, A. L. Risley, T. Randle*—3.

1. I. S. ARMSTRONG died June 10, 1874, in the forty-ninth year of his age. He was born in Hillsborough, Ohio. He was admitted to the bar as an attorney in his native State while yet young. He emigrated to Illinois in 1854, and settled in Metropolis, where he continued the practice of his profession with marked success.

Brother Armstrong labored successfully as a local preacher for several years. In 1869 he was admitted on trial into the Southern Illinois Conference. He graduated to the office of an elder, and in the fall of 1874 was ordained by Bishop Wiley. I. S. Armstrong possessed a brilliant intellect, and was a thorough student. He attained to eminence in the legal profession, but from impressions of duty, he abandoned the law and entered fully into the work of the Christian ministry. He was a fluent speaker, a talented, popular preacher, and a safe administrator of the Discipline of the Church. At the time of his death he was in charge of the Newton Circuit, in the second year of his pastorate on that charge. On his return from the last session of the Conference he entered upon his work with earnestness and renewed energy. Despite serious physical affliction, he continued to labor until the close of the second quarter, when he was stricken down with disease. He endured suffering with fortitude and Christian resignation. A few days before his death he left home for the purpose of visiting Mineral Spring, with the hope of finding relief. He stopped at Noble, where he had formerly been stationed. There, in the midst of his friends, he closed his earthly pilgrimage. The closing scene was peaceful and triumphant. He leaves a companion, who cheerfully shared with him the hardships and sacrifices of an itinerant life, and four children mourn their loss. These bereaved ones will have the sympathies and prayers of the Church. In the death of I. S. Armstrong the Conference has lost an efficient laborer, an able minister of Christ. May his mantle fall on one who shall be "valiant for the truth!" Brother Armstrong contracted disease which terminated his life while in the service of his country during the late rebellion. The years of his ministerial labors were years of physical suffering. He rests from his labors. Peace be to his memory!

2. ASHABEL LINN RISLEY was born in Bullitt County, Kentucky, on the 14th day of February, 1804, and departed this life, in full hope of a blessed immortality, on the 24th day of August, 1874, aged seventy years, six months, and ten days.

Brother Risley united with the M. E. Church, as a seeker of religion, near Floydsburgh, Kentucky, on Monday, the 5th of September, 1825, and was happily converted to God on the 11th of the same month at a camp-meeting near Shelbyville, Kentucky. He was licensed to exhort by Rev. Daniel Anderson, February 8, 1827, and licensed to preach in the M. E. Church at Steel's camp-ground, on White River, Indiana, July 27, 1827. He entered the itinerant ministry September 16, 1827. During his effective ministry he filled the following appointments: Vincennes, Patola, Brownsville, Salem, Charlestown, Eugene, and Danville Circuits, in the State of Indiana; in the State of Illinois, Alton and Mount Carmel Stations, Danville and Griggsville, Quincy District, and Canton Station. He was then transferred to the Rock River Conference, and appointed to the Chicago District, after which he was transferred to the Southern Illinois Conference, and served for a time as Agent of M'Kendree College. He then filled the following appointments: Brighton, Jerseyville, Collinsville, Pocahontas, Trenton Circuit, Mascoutah, and Centralia, which was his last appointment, making in all twenty-three. The class of appointments filled by Brother Risley indicates his ability and standing as a minister of the Gospel. In 1866 he took a superannuated relation, and removed to Lebanon, where he lived till the time of his death, respected and beloved by all who knew him.

Brother Risley possessed a very amiable, loving spirit. He was a devoted lover of God and his Church. He was a good preacher, of sound doctrines, and exemplary practice in good works. He was kind to his family and beloved by his friends. Few men have traveled more extensively or labored more faithfully, and his memory is precious in numerous places. Two years ago he buried his honored wife, and since then had been gradually losing his hearing, and was thus shut out from the companionship of earthly loves, and drawn nearer to those who had preceded him to the heavenly land. He was a good man, who passed unspotted through this world, and now, we trust, wears a crown of life.

Nelson E. Cobleigh.

N. E. COBLEIGH, D.D., LL.D., was born in Littleton, N. H., November 24, 1814, and died in the full triumphs of the Christian faith at his residence in the city of Atlanta, Ga., February 1, 1874. He was the youngest of eleven children, a child of poverty, without patrimony, consequently an earnest struggle for success commenced early in life. He began his preparatory studies in Newbury, Vt., in the spring of 1838, where he evinced a strong desire for scholastic attainments. In 1839 he entered Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., where for four years he struggled against poverty, working his way through college, graduating in 1843 with the first honors of his class. In 1844 he joined the New England Conference, and commenced that earnest life-work of saving souls. For nine years he labored assiduously and successfully in the active ministry. In consequence of his wife's failing health he resigned the ministry in 1853, and removed from Boston to the State of Illinois to accept the chair of Professor of Ancient Languages in M'Kendree College. The following year he was elected to the same professorship in Lawrence University, Appleton, Wis. In 1857 he was recalled to Lebanon,

Ill., by an election to the presidency of M'Kendree College, and entered upon the duties of the office early in 1868. In this position those sterling qualities of mind and heart found wider scope to display the true elements of a Christian manhood, which he so fully professed. His unwearied watchfulness, energy, and fine executive abilities soon brought the college from a state of chaos and financial bankruptcy to a state of order and success. In the fall of 1863 he was called to the editorship of "Zion's Herald," Boston, Mass. In this department of effort he devoted himself with unusual zeal and success, preaching, lecturing, writing, "in labors more abundant than they all." In 1867 he relinquished his place as editor because of failing health, the result of overwork, and a sharp and rigorous climate. After a brief rest he sought what his broken-down, nervous system demanded —a milder climate. The trustees of the East Tennessee Wesleyan University at Athens, Tenn., proposed and elected him as president of their institution. In this situation he labored as his growing strength would permit, and as before, under his fostering hand the university grew and prospered. As an educator, Dr. Cobleigh had but few equals. At the General Conference of 1872 he was elected to the editorial chair of the Methodist Advocate, Atlanta, Ga., in which office he labored with marked zeal and ability up to the very period of his death. Dr. Cobleigh was loved and honored by his brethren in the ministry. His wisdom, firmness, mildness, and broad Christian charity gave him peculiar fitness to be a representative man, and as such he was a member of the General Conferences of 1864, 1868, and 1872. He was in the truest and highest sense a great and good man. His mind was of a peculiar type, possessing great power and penetration, thoroughly trained and disciplined. He was an intellectual giant, and possessed of a simple but mighty Christian faith; his piety was deep and uniform. Having devoted himself fully to God, the Church, and humanity, he labored with equal cheerfulness and zeal in every position to which duty called him. When appreciated and honored, he betrayed no vanity; when neglected, maligned, or persecuted, he manifested no resentment. He was ever modest and unassuming, and wise and sagacious in all that he said. In his manner and spirit there was the mildness and gentleness of the lamb, but in the defense of truth and maintenance of principle there was the bravery of the lion. As a preacher, he was earnest and logical, pathetic and powerful; as a writer, pure and simple, versatile and graceful; as a friend, kind and generous, sympathetic and faithful—none could know him intimately but to respect and admire, revere and love him. In the Church to which he belonged he was a strong pillar. His earnest, devoted piety, his meekness of spirit, his purity of character, his devotion to principle, his adherence to what he believed right, his zeal for righteousness, and his ability as an embassador of God, disarmed his opponents of much sharp criticism, and caused his enemies to respect and honor him. Thus, like Moses, with "eye undimmed and strength unabated," he ceased at once to work and live. Thus passed away the man honored and lamented by the whole Church. We bow to Providence, and say with the poet,—

> Hushed be every thought that springs
> From out the bitterness of things;
> His quiet is secure:
> The future brightens on our sight;
> For on the past hath fallen a light
> That tempts us to adore.

THOMAS ALEXANDER died in Wahoo, Nebraska, June 4, 1874, aged fifty-nine years. He had been in the traveling connection more than twenty years. He was transferred from the Indiana to the Nebraska Conference in 1873. Of his history in the Indiana Conference we know but little, but from what evidence we have we learn that he was successful in winning souls to Christ. When he came to Nebraska he entered with great zeal on the duties of the ministry, having the love and confidence of the people among whom he labored. For months before his death his health was very poor, yet his zeal was such that he would not cease from active labor. He used frequently to speak of his prospects of heaven. He died very suddenly. The day of his death he performed the rite of baptism. "He ceased at once to work and live." He leaves a wife and four children.

1. SAMUEL AMBROSE was born in the State of Maine, August 6, 1815. At the age of fifteen he was converted, and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. At the age of nineteen he entered the Maine Wesleyan Seminary. Here he graduated, completing the course in three years. During his years of study in the seminary, and before he entered, he had a conviction of duty in regard to preaching the Gospel of Christ. With this conviction he offered himself to the Maine Annual Conference, and was admitted on trial in 1840. In 1842 he was received into full connection, and for eight years continued to labor with fidelity and usefulness. In 1852, having a strong desire to move West, and his own conference discouraging his transfer, he located, and moved into the State of Illinois. Soon after his arrival he renewed his labors as a minister in the work of his Master, though his name does not appear on our Minutes until 1856.

* Obituary not received.

From this date he held an effective relation to our conference until 1870, when he was granted a superannuated relation, and moved his family to a home near Blackberry Station, in Kane County. Here he remained, with much physical disability, endeavoring to provide for his family as best he could until death. He died July 25, 1874; died as the Christian dieth—in great peace, and full assurance of immortality and eternal life.

Brother Ambrose was a man of much physical disability for several years before accepting a superannuated relation, yet filled his appointments, and labored to do all the duties of a pastor as set forth in our Discipline. He has left a widow and five children to mourn his loss. They do not, however, mourn as those who have no hope, but, believing in Jesus, have the hope of a glorious immortality forever with the Lord.

2. George Lovesee came to this State from the State of New York with his parents, who took up their residence in Roscoe, Winnebago County, at an early period in the settlement of northern Illinois. From our acquaintance with his father, it is safe to say that Brother Lovesee had the advantage of religious training. In 1847 the Quarterly Conference of Roscoe gave him a recommendation to the Rock River Annual Conference, where he was received on trial. Two years after he was ordained deacon, and admitted into full connection. He was greatly trammeled in his ministry by the protracted and severe affliction of his wife, which commenced early in his ministry and continued through all the years of his itinerancy. He went to his last charge with less embarrassment than ever before, and his people were delighted with his work as pastor and preacher. His sermons were of a superior order, and very highly appreciated. When all were pleased—preacher and people—and success had already dawned, he was suddenly removed by a frightful accident. On the 5th of February, 1874, he was riding, in company with a lady friend, when a passing train struck the buggy and dashed it in pieces, killing both him and his friend.

Brother Lovesee was more than an ordinary preacher. His surroundings were such that a shade was cast over many points of his character, so that, to appreciate him equal to his merits, it was necessary to know him intimately. All who were thus acquainted with him will have no doubt that he was ready for his sudden death.

3. Edwin D. Gould, A.M., a member of the Rock River Conference, died at his mother's residence, at Freedom Center, March 8, 1874, aged twenty-nine. Under careful religious training from childhood, he made profession of faith at sixteen. From his conversion he conducted family worship while he had a voice. At nineteen, fully convinced of a call to the ministry, he began his studies at Jenning's Seminary, graduating there, and afterward at the North-western University in the class of '71. During his school days he served several charges. His last double work was at Oswego, where he allowed no noticeable lack of service in the pupil, the pastor, or the preacher. His monument there is in the improved church property, and in the hearts of the people. Brother Gould's first work in conference was at West Bureau, where earlier overwork resulted in his prostration in half a year. So highly was he esteemed in conference that he was allowed to serve his second probationary year virtually as supernumerary; and so impressed was the conference with his golden worth that he was received into full connection and ordained in 1873, when a confirmed invalid. He said to a friend: "The vote to receive and ordain me has done more to restore me, and to make of me a man, than any thing that was ever done for me. Now, if I fall, it will be in the front rank." It was a hard struggle for him to abandon work. At length he said to his mother: "It is now certain that there is nothing for me to do here; but the Lord has work for me to do up yonder, and I shall be sure to meet you in the gate." His history for the last few days of his life would be a treasure to the Church if it could be fully known. It was the ripe result of a completely consecrated life. He gave the richest expressions of trust, peace, and cleansing through the blood of Christ.

He gave directions for his funeral and burial as one preparing for a pleasant journey. As the hour approached he said, "I am almost home." Calling to his side the family—his mother, sister, and his betrothed—he took one hand in his, and laying his other hand on the head of each successively he gave them his blessing. Seldom is a benediction pronounced so near the throne.

Brother Gould was sedately cheerful, lovingly dignified, unobtrusively zealous, pure minded, an Israelite indeed. His widowed mother lost in him a great treasure, and so did the Church.

C. M. Wright.

CORNELIUS M. WRIGHT, A.M., President of Purdy University, died in peace at his residence in Purdy, Tennessee, January 12, 1874, aged sixty.

Brother Wright was born in Massachusetts, of godly parents. He was converted early in life, and after a course of study in the old and famous Methodist Seminary at Cazenovia, New York, he devoted himself to the work of a Christian teacher, and was licensed as a local preacher in the M. E. Church. After teaching a few years in the State of New York he went to South Bend, Indiana, and taught a seminary for eight years with great success. His health failing, he went in 1850 to Northern Illinois, and was identified with the earliest effort to establish normal schools in that State, where for two years he had charge of an institution known as Judson College. Soon after this he entered the Central Illinois Conference, and labored in the pastorate with great acceptability and usefulness until 1872, when he was transferred to the Tennessee Conference, and appointed as President of Purdy University, entering at once on his duties with a zeal and devotion rarely equaled. He was emphatically a teacher of teachers. His methods were partly his own, and partly gathered from the best institutions of learning in the land. Under his wise administration and skillful teaching the school was patronized by the foremost citizens of Purdy and its vicinity.

Brother Wright was a man of God. He walked by faith, preached holiness, and lived for others rather than himself. His earthly course is run. Notwithstanding his sufferings were severe, he worked among his beloved pupils almost to the closing hour of life. At last, somewhat suddenly, he fell asleep in Jesus. Among his last earthly utterances he remarked, "I expect to teach in heaven." He leaves an aged and afflicted wife and only son to lament their loss.

Memoir of Rev. Thomas A. Morris,

SENIOR BISHOP OF THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

The venerated and beloved senior Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Thomas A. Morris, was born near Charleston, West Virginia, April 28, 1794. When he was about ten years of age, he with his family removed from their beautiful farm on the banks of the Kanawha about forty miles west, and settled in a comparatively wild and uninhabited region, where they encountered the toils and privations inseparable from the development and improvement of a new country. The educational facilities of that period, and especially of that region, were extremely limited. It was the good fortune of the Morris family, however, to enjoy the advantages of a good grammar school, organized by William Paine, an educated Englishman, near the homestead, when Thomas was about sixteen years of age. His oldest brother, Edmund, held the clerkship of Cabell County, in which the family resided, and Thomas, at the age of seventeen, became a deputy in the office, a position which he held until he was about twenty years of age. While discharging the duties of this office, and when greatly broken down in health, and somewhat depressed in spirits, he was drafted into a company of militia, to perform a six months' tour in the North against the British and Indians. They met at the Court-house, shouldered their muskets, and took up their line of march to join a regiment forming at Point Pleasant, to reinforce the main army near the Canada line. The father of young Morris was so affected by his son's frail and youthful appearance, and his feeble health, that, after the company had started, he procured a substitute, overtook the young soldiers their second day out, and procured a discharge for his slender and delicate boy.

The early religious training of Bishop Morris was in the Baptist Church, of which both his parents were pious and exemplary members. He grew up, however, without giving much thought to the subject of personal religion, until he was about eighteen years of age. At this time there was a revival of religion in the neighborhood among the Methodists, a people of whom he knew but little, and against whom he had imbibed the prevailing prejudices of the times. To their meetings he occasionally resorted, and under the pungent and powerful appeals of the pioneer preachers of Methodism he was awakened to a full realization of his sinfulness, and the necessity of salvation through the merits of a crucified Redeemer. In the summer of 1813 he attended a camp-meeting in the neighborhood, and, under a sermon preached by Rev. David Young, he was led to seek, with increased diligence and earnestness, the salvation of his soul, and at the same time to ponder seriously the question whether Providence was not leading him to cast in his lot with the people called Methodists. Against this course many considerations pleaded powerfully. He had been trained in another communion; his prejudices were deeply rooted; the Methodists in that region were feeble and persecuted; but the result of a careful comparison of their doctrines and polity with the New Testament, which he instituted at this time, was a fixed, unalterable determination to unite with them as the people of his choice.

On a Sabbath in August, 1813, after Rev. Samuel Brown, the regular circuit preacher, had delivered his farewell sermon in the Morris neighborhood, from the text, "Come, for all things are now ready," and while the congregation were singing the verse—

> "This is the way I long have sought,
> And mourn'd because I found it not;
> My grief a burden long has been,
> Because I was not saved from sin,"

Thomas A. Morris, then in his nineteenth year, walked forward with trembling steps, and became a probationer in the Methodist Episcopal Church. Shortly after uniting with the Church, at the earnest solicitation of his pastor, he consented to take charge of the neighborhood class. While discharging the duties of this office he felt impressed that it was his duty to hold prayer-meetings occasionally, and exhort his neighbors to flee the wrath to come; the evidence of his own acceptance with God having, meantime, come to him gradually, but satisfactorily. He was united in marriage to Miss Abigail Scales, January 23, 1814, and about one week later, February 1, received a written license to exhort, signed by the preacher in charge of the circuit. He was examined before the Quarterly Conference of his circuit, and licensed to preach, April 2, 1814. The examination was conducted and the license was signed by Rev. David Young, under whose preaching young Morris was awakened, and through whose influence largely he was afterward led into the work of the Christian ministry.

In 1815, at the urgent request of Rev. John Dew, preacher in charge, and with the hearty approval of Presiding Elder Young, Mr. Morris undertook to supply the circuit, within the bounds of which he resided, for three months, with a view, mainly, to determine whether, with his enfeebled constitution, it would be wise and prudent to enter the itinerant ranks fully. The result of the experiment was, that he was recommended and admitted into the Ohio Conference at its session held in Louisville, Ky., in September, 1816. The two years of his probation were spent on Marietta Circuit, where the people became greatly endeared to him and his family, and where his labors were abundantly blessed. During his term of service on that circuit he traveled about seven thousand miles on horseback, preached nearly a thousand times, and received two hundred and fifty persons into the Church.

At the expiration of his term on Marietta Circuit he attended his first Annual conference. It was held at Steubenville. Here he was examined, admitted to full connection, and ordained deacon by Bishop George in August, 1818. From this conference he was appointed to Zanesville Circuit, with Charles Elliott as junior preacher. For a family residence, or parsonage, on this circuit, he obtained a one-story log-cabin, with two small rooms, built on the commons, near Cambridge, Guernsey County.

The conference of 1819 was held in Cincinnati, then a city of about eight thousand inhabitants. The sessions were held in the old stone church, where Wesley Chapel now stands. Mr. Morris was returned to Zanesville, with Samuel R. Brockunier as his colleague. In 1820, at the conference held in Chillicothe, he was elected to elder's orders, and ordained by Bishop Roberts. He was, however, so prostrated in health by excessive labor and general debility that he was placed in a supernumerary relation, and sent to Lancaster, just constituted a station. At the close of this year he was transferred to Kentucky Conference, and appointed to Christian Circuit. From this large and laborious field he was removed at the end of two years to Hopkinsville, and at the same time elected a delegate to the General Conference of 1824, where he participated in the election of Elijah Hedding and Joshua Soule as Bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Mr. Morris's next appointment was Red River Circuit, in Middle Tennessee, where he labored one year. In the fall of 1825 he was appointed by Bishop Roberts Presiding Elder of Green River District. While performing the duties of that office on his large and difficult field, he experienced, in 1826, his first shock of paralysis. This circumstance, together with the protracted sickness of his wife and daughter, determined him to return to Ohio. In the fall of 1827 he attended his last conference in Kentucky as a member of that body, and, although his brethren knew of his arrangement to return to Ohio, they again elected him to represent them in the General Conference, to be held the following year at Pittsburgh.

Owing to some mistake or misunderstanding on the part of the bishop presiding that year in the Ohio Conference no place was left vacant for Mr. Morris, and he was sent to Louisville Station, where he labored very successfully and acceptably for one year. In the fall of 1828 he received official notice that he was transferred to the Ohio Conference, and appointed to Lebanon Circuit. Here he spent two years in arduous but successful work. His next appointment, in 1830, was to Columbus, which had just been constituted a station. At the close of his year he was able to report a net increase of one hundred members.

At the session of the Ohio Conference held in 1831 at Mansfield, Mr. Morris was elected a delegate to the General Conference of 1832, and, at the same time, appointed to Cincinnati Station, which then included all the city Churches in one pastoral charge. His colleagues were Nathan Emory, William B. Christie, and Edmund W. Sehon; and the charge embraced Wesley Chapel, Fourth-street, M'Kendree, Asbury, and New-street. To this charge he was returned in the fall of 1832, with George W. Walker and David Whitcomb as his colleagues. In 1833 the Ohio Conference held its session in the old College building on Walnut-street, Cincinnati, and Mr. Morris was appointed Presiding Elder of Cincinnati District. In April, 1834, he was appointed by the proper authorities of the Church editor of the "Western Christian Advocate," for the publication of which at Cincinnati provision had been made by the General Conference two years before.

At the General Conference of 1836, held in Cincinnati, he was elected one of the bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Beverly Waugh and Wilbur Fisk were elected at the same time, but the latter declined the office.

May 17, 1842, his beloved wife, the companion of his youth and sharer of the toils and privations of his early itinerant life, died at their home in Cincinnati. He was subsequently twice married: to Mrs. Meriwether, of Louisville, Kentucky, June 25, 1844, who died at Salubria in 1871. He was afterward married to Miss Sarah Bruscup, who survives him.

Bishop Morris's last illness lasted a little over a week. He gently passed away with little of suffering. The weary wheels of life stood still, and the loved and venerated bishop fell asleep in Jesus. His last words to his wife were:—

"The future looks bright.
It is all right, all right."

The funeral was held on Friday afternoon, September 4, 1874, in High-street Methodist Episcopal Church, Springfield. The church was filled with citizens of all denominations, gathered to do honor to the memory of one whom they had all learned to love and revere, and whose residence in the community had been a pride and pleasure to all.

The services were directed by, and in charge of, Rev. J. B. Ellsworth, and began with the hymn,

"Cast thy burden on the Lord,"

sung by a quartette of voices with organ accompaniment. The thirty-ninth Psalm and a portion of the first chapter of Thessalonians were read by Rev. Lucien Clark. Rev. Mr. Meharry announced and read the 1086th hymn, which was sung, and Rev. William Herr followed in prayer.

A comprehensive sketch of the life of Bishop Morris, and his varied experiences, showing his valuable and unremitting labors in the cause of religion extending over a period of more than fifty years, was read by Rev. Dr. J. F. Marlay, of Xenia, Ohio, by whom also a most interesting biography of the venerable man of God has been prepared, giving a thrilling account of the incidents of his eventful life. This fact we deem sufficient to explain the brevity of the present sketch.

All who knew Bishop Morris in the vigor of his manhood will bear witness that he deserves to take rank among the foremost men of his time. To the charming simplicity both of tastes and manners, which eminently characterized him in all the walks of life, he added the graces of a genuine nature and a beautiful Christian character. As a preacher, he was chaste, sincere, and many times greatly eloquent. As a bishop, he was considerate, careful, and judicious, and never forgetful of the most humble of his brethren in the administration of his high office. He was by nature reticent and silent, but no heart ever throbbed with more genial and genuine sympathies. For sixty years he devoted himself strictly and usefully to the upbuilding of the Church of God. His life on earth was a beautiful round of charity and faith, and his death a serene and fitting end to such a character and career. His removal from the Church on earth, we doubt not, is but his transfer to "the Church of the First-born in heaven."

OBITUARIES

RECEIVED TOO LATE FOR INSERTION IN PROPER PLACE.

Central Illinois Conference.

AUGUSTUS PETER WIGREN* was born in Wisingsoe, September 28, 1849. With his parents he came to America while yet an infant. His father became a preacher, and did good service for God and the M. E. Church. Early in his youth Augustus was converted to God, joined the Church to which his father belonged, and was soon called to testify in public to the way of salvation. He commenced now to study at the University in Evanston. At the same time he took pastoral charge of a neighboring congregation, and was ordained in turn deacon and elder. Last year, in September, he returned to his native country, where his sweet Christian spirit, his open-hearted behavior, and his great faculties as a preacher, won him many true, devoted friends. In March he was to have taken charge of the Church in Upsala, and also to have devoted time to the perfection of his studies, especially the Swedish language; but already in February the Lord called him to his glorious heaven, and he expired in strong faith, a partaker of that peace that passeth understanding. He was undoubtedly one of the best preachers among us, and it is wonderful to us that the Lord should so soon call him; but his ways are not ours—

> God is his own interpreter,
> And he will make it plain.

Farewell, Brother Wigren! Peace to thy memory!

Michigan Conference.

GEORGE LEWIS GILBERT died in Lyons, Mich., Sept. 2, 1874, aged 38. He was born in Philadelphia, and while quite young his parents removed with him to Grayville, Illinois, where, at the age of twenty, he was converted to God. He was soon after licensed to preach in the M. E. Church. His early educational advantages were not of a high order, but in Grayville and Cornwell, Illinois, he laid a strong foundation for a broad intellectual culture. He was a member of the Michigan Conference for six years, having joined it at Jackson in 1868. During that time he served Churches in the following places: Inland, Glen Arbor, Old Mission, Mackinaw, and Lyons. His ministry was very short, but eminently successful. Brother Gilbert had many noble traits of character, which early gave him a large place in the hearts of his brethren. He had large Christian sympathies, and a cheerful disposition. But more conspicuous than any other characteristic was his devotion; and his whole life pointed the sinner to "the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world." A close student, he always went before his people with a thorough preparation, and his sermons were of great merit and deeply spiritual. As a husband and father he was always kind, forbearing, and self-sacrificing. He was a faithful pastor, studying closely the characteristics and wants of his people. His death was one of great Christian triumph. When at last he was convinced that his end was rapidly approaching, he called his family to his bedside, gave them a few words of parting counsel, and spoke very freely to them of his hope in Christ. As it was the last week of the conference year, he several times expressed his gratitude that God had given so favorable time in which to die—"closing up a year of toil on earth, to begin a new year of rest in heaven." Thus our beloved young brother passed in glorious triumph to his eternal reward.

Minnesota Conference.

1. WILLIAM C. SHAW was born in Vevay, Ind., October 2, 1833. His father's house was a model Christian home, in which he was trained up into a model Christian and Christian minister. He became an experimental Christian at seventeen years of age, and three years afterward entered the Asbury University at Greencastle, Ind., to prepare for the ministry, to which he felt himself called of God. He had been there but a short time, however, when he was stricken down with typhoid fever, which confined him six months to his bed, and from the effects of which he never fully recovered. He was licensed to preach in 1854, and in 1856 was employed as a supply on Columbia Circuit. The next year he was received into the South-eastern Indiana Conference, and appointed to Lawrenceburgh Circuit; but at the close of the year was so run down in health that he requested to be discontinued. He rallied, and during the succeeding winter was employed on the Milroy Circuit. In the spring of 1859 he came to Minnesota, entered this Conference, which was held the beginning of May, and was appointed to Hastings. At the session held the next October he was appointed to Bayfield, on Lake Superior, where he remained until 1861. He was then appointed to Stillwater; in 1862 to Pine Bend; and in 1863 was superannuated. He resumed the work in 1864, and was appointed to Austin: then three successive years to High Forest; three to Preston; one year to Chatfield; and in 1872 was again compelled, by failing health, to retire from the work. He rested that year with his friends in Indiana, who would fain have persuaded him to remain with them still longer; but his heart was so in the work that he could not be induced to remain out of it. He returned to Minnesota in the fall of 1873, and was appointed to Reed's and Wabasha. This was his last appointment. He had endeared himself to his brethren of the Conference, and to the people where he had labored. Wherever he went there attended him the silent yet powerful hallowing influence of a holy life—a faultless Christian example. He went to his newly-appointed field, and lived and labored long enough to win the hearts of the people, and leave behind him a memory that is cherished as a precious legacy. He was with us at the District Conference in Lake City the beginning of December, feeble, but hopeful, and shrinking from no work that might be assigned him. To most of us who were there this proved our last interview with him in this life. When he was first taken down his disease was supposed to be pneumonia, but it proved to be the manifestation of a disease of the lungs, which had long been secretly but certainly doing its deadly work. But death found him in readiness, and to a life which, to human eyes, seemed one of almost stainless purity, was granted a fitting close. To say that his death was triumphant would hardly convey the correct idea, yet it was a triumph of the loftiest description. He manifested little or no excitement, but a calm, serene elevation of feeling, as if he were lifted up into the atmosphere of heaven itself. He died in the parsonage at Reed's Landing, February 16, 1874. His widow and three fatherless children are with their relatives in Indiana, and his body rests among his kindred near the spot where he was born.

* Died in Spain. This obituary was adopted by the Swedish Mission Annual Meeting, held in Stockholm, by Bishop Harris.

2. JOHN L. FASIG was born in Knox County, Ohio, February 22, 1841, and died of hemorrhage of the lungs in Dallas City, Hancock County, Ill., June 14, 1874.

Brother Fasig was blessed with religious parents, who had the pleasure of seeing their son give his heart to God at the early age of twelve, since which time he has been striving to serve his Master by walking in the path of duty. In his youthful days he was an active worker, especially in the Sunday-school, where he delighted to be. He entered into his first ministerial labors October, 1867, joining the Minnesota Annual Conference at Rochester. His appointments were Forest City one year, Greenleaf one year, Litchfield two years, Alexandria one year, and Chatfield. At last, in consequence of excessive labor in a cold climate, and intense anxiety for his long-afflicted companion, his strong constitution and robust frame gave way, compelling him to leave his work at Chatfield before the close of the year. He came to Minneapolis early in the spring of 1873. His health for a time improved, and he was induced to supply the pulpit of Centenary Church, made vacant by the death of Rev. G. C. Wells. His preaching evinced so much of thought and culture as to elicit the most favorable remarks from the congregation. He took a supernumerary relation at the last session of the Minnesota Conference. He spent the winter in Minneapolis. May 6 he left for Dallas City, in Illinois, to spend the summer with his relatives, expecting to return at the session of our Conference, but God ordered otherwise, and he suddenly passed away to his rest in heaven. The funeral services were conducted by the pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Dallas City, assisted by the Rev. I. N. Tomes of the Dallas City Congregational Church. The funeral was attended by a large and respectable congregation. We have lost in the death of Brother Fasig a cultivated, devoted, earnest, and successful minister of the Lord Jesus Christ. He was separated from his companion but a few weeks when she died, and they who had shared each other's labors, sacrifices, and sufferings here, were soon united in the glories of the better world.

Western New York Conference.

CHARLES BUSH was born in Naples, Ontario County, New York, January 23, 1819, and died July 22, 1874. He was a son of Rev. Charles Bush, a worthy local preacher in the M. E. Church. His conversion to God was over thirty years ago, at which time he had a clear, bright evidence of his acceptance with God. In the year 1845 he was married to Miss Harriet Kenfield, of Naples, who survived him only ten days. For a number of years Brother Bush was under strong conviction that he was called of God to preach. He was strongly urged to go into the regular work. He took his recommendation from his quarterly conference, and when he came to the conference, and listened to the debate on conference claimants, he went to his presiding elder, withdrew his papers, and went home. Some two years from that time he felt that he must preach if he would retain his religion and gain heaven. In the year 1855, in the village of Dansville, a little before the conference closed, twelve young men were received on trial in the traveling connection, Charles Bush being one of the number. From 1855 to 1873 he filled the following charges: Almond, Savona, Thurston, Caton, Brookfield, Granger, Cameron, Rogersville, Wayland, Savona, Campbelltown and Merchantsville, Campbelltown and South Bradford, and Bath, where he died as the Christian warrior dies—with his armor fully on and his face to the foe. Fifteen years of his ministry were spent in Steuben County, mostly on adjacent charges. He was a good, plain, faithful, efficient Methodist preacher. His ministry was not without rivals. Many are in the Churches to-day that were led to Christ through his ministry. He was a pastor worthy of imitation in looking after the interests of the Church.

Brother Bush was stricken down in full strength. He came from our district camp-meeting, where he preached, exhorted, and prayed as he had never been known to do in all his ministry. In a few days he was prostrated with fever, and soon after "ceased at once to work and live." He was respected, esteemed, and beloved by the people and charges which he served.
